FIVE HURT AT FAIR SITE BY DERRICK

Three Workmen Fatally and Two Others Seriously Injured by Accident at Mining Building.

Five workmen were injured, three of them probably fatally, by the falling of a derrick with several tons of building material on it at the World's Fair grounds at 9 o'clock Friday morning.

A number of other men escaped with bruises by running when they heard the crash coming.

The accident happened on the Mines and Metallurgy building and the men were all in the employ of the Hill-O'Meara Construcsion Co. They were working near the derrick when it fell.

Carrying several tons of material to be placed in the upper part of the building, it had raised about six feet when the cables parted, and the entire load fell with a crash, catching the five men under it.

Anslinger, Murphy and Clayton are the most seriously injured and may die.

The injured were first cared for by Dr. J. G. Moore at the World's Fair Emergency Hospital and later taken to their homes.

All the men were removed from the scene of the accident to the Emergency Hospital, where Dr. J. C. Moore dressed their wounds.

Fright at Noise Causes Injury.

Coincident with the fall of the derrick and resulting probably from fright caused by the sound of the crashing timbers, Edward Wackutka, aged 39, a workman in the Transportation building, fell and was crushed by a heavy timber he was carrying.

His left leg was fractured and he sustained serious internal injuries.

3 BLIND TEXAS SALAMANDERS

NEW YORK, April 10.—Three blind salamanders have been added to the collection in the New York aquarium. It is said no other exhibition place in the world possesses such treasures.

The salamanders were taken from the United States fish commission's artesian well at San Marcos, Tex. This is 108 feet deep and is believed to have pierced a subterranean cavern. The well has thrown up several specimens of blind fish, but none have lived.

BIG LINER A "JIM CROW"

Old Dominion Steamer Has Separate Quarters for Whites and Blacks in Saloon and Steerage.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, April 10.—The first "Jim Crow" steamer to begin regular trips from this port was the Monroe, of the Old Dominion Line, which left yesterday afternoon for Norfolk, Va. The Monroe is the newest and finest addition to the Old Dominion's fleet, and this is her initial voyage in the regular passenger service.

The Monroe is called a "Jim Crow" steamer because she possesses separate quarters, both in the saloon and the steerage, for white and colored passengers.

SHOPLIFTER HAS A NEW WAY

Lilly Blanch Used Paper Bags Instead of the Usual Big Pockets.

New methods in shoplifting are said to have been employed by Lilly Blanch, against whom a warrant was issued Friday, charging petit larceny. The woman was arrested in a down-town department store, Thursday evening.

The police say that instead of using apparel with big pockets as most shoplifters do, the prisoner carried a number of paper sacks and whenever she purloined a small article she put it in the sack and suspended it beneath her skirt. She made no attempt to take bulky goods.

The police believe she is a well-known shoplifter, but she refuses to give any information about herself except that she is from Chicago and is 35 years of age. She is well dressed.

NO PARDON FOR DUDDLESTON

Chairman of Board Writes Wife of Defaulting Bank Clerk That Efforts Will Be Futile.

Judge Russell, chairman of the board of pardons, has written a letter to Mrs. Theodore Duddleston of East St. Louis stating that the board will take no action at this time in the case of her husband, who is serving a sentence at the Chester Penitentiary for embezzlement, while he was teller of the Stock Yards National Bank.

The letter further states that all attempts on the part of Duddleston's friends to obtain his pardon at this time will be futile.

Much effort has been made by friends of the sentenced man to have him pardoned. The prison physician, Dr. Lee, certified that he was sick, due to prison confinement.

In the letter, it is understood, implies that there is no hope for a pardon within the coming year.

Fair weather is expected Saturday morning and a beautiful Easter is in prospect. The official forecast:

Snow fell Friday morning in parts of Oregon, Idaho and Montana and in the Yellowstone Park region.

SUPERSTITIONS IN FATAL RIOT

Odd Objection of Hungarian Peasants to Passage of Corpse Through Streets Causes Gendarmes to Fire on Crowd.

VIENNA, April 10.—An extraordinary case of superstition has occurred in Hungary. A peasant living at Moztany died while attending a market in a neighboring town. His relatives started homeward with the body, but were forcibly prevented from traversing the village of Iharis, the inhabitants asserting that the passage of a strange corpse through the place would lead to misfortune.

Reinforced by gendarmes the relatives made a second attempt to pass through the village, but were confronted by the entire population, armed with pitchforks and similar weapons. The gendarmes were driven back by the villagers and thereupon fired a volley at the crowd of men and women and children, killing two persons and wounding many others.

GOT A FORTUNE FOR A BREAKFAST

But Capt. O'Malley Made Two Waitresses Pay 10 Cents More.

But Objected When Gypsies Refused to Return Coins With Which Their Palms Had Been Crossed.

"If the fortune is a very good fortune, the relator of your future conquests and successes should be worth at least 10 cents and a breakfast," was the verdict of Capt. O'Malley of the Fourth district police station Friday morning, after hearing the evidence in a fortune telling case in which the fortune tellers were charged with overcharging their clients.

"You must return 10 cents of the money you reclaimed," he added, in passing sentence on the waitresses.

Two gypsies had offered to tell the fortunes of Waitresses Lizzie Schaff and Esther Gabriel at Well's restaurant, at 2007 North Broadway, for their breakfast.

The breakfasts were furnished first and had been disposed of before the girls demanded the fortunes. They had figured that a well fed gypsy would tell a better fortune than a hungry one.

Then the gypsies explained that to bring good luck their palms must be crossed with silver. They were loaned 35 cents each.

After the well told futures had been related the money was not returned. The waitresses took it away by force.

The trouble in getting the money attracted the police, and the four women went to the station with the policeman. Capt. O'Malley appointed himself special referee and decided the case.

TITLED GERMAN HUSBAND FOR ALTON YOUNG WOMAN

Miss Leila Perly, Who Has Been Abroad for Four Years Past, Is to Become Countess Von Koenigsmarck.

A cablegram from Berlin states that the engagement of Miss Leila Perly of Alton to Count Oto von Koenigsmarck, a first lieutenant in the 19th artillery regiment, has been formally announced in the German capital.

Miss Perly and her mother, Mrs. T. E. Perly, have been living abroad for the last four years. At present they are touring Bavaria.

Miss Perley has been traveling of late through Germany with Mrs. Kerr, wife of Col. Kerr, United States military attache at Berlin. She met Count von Koenigsmarck in Dresden when she was studying music under the instruction of Marcheei.

Mrs. Perry, a widow for many years, inherited large farming interests in Madison and surrounding counties from her husband's estate. Her wealth is variously estimated from $150,000 to $200,000.

Miss Perly is an only child. Tall and willowy, her distinguished carriage, striking brunette beauty and culture made her attractive personage wherever she went.

She is a contralto of decided ability, and frequently appeared before musical clubs in St. Louis, among which she has many friends. She speaks several languages fluently.

ST. LOUIS TO BE BUGLESS TOWN

Board of Health Plans to Relieve World's Fair City of Insects.

Cockroaches and all other insects which infest houses have been the subject of experiments conducted by the board of health during the past month, and it is expected that the city will be practically a bugless town when the World's Fair visitors begin to arrive.

The campaign against these pests of city life will be begun shortly, now that the data on various insecticides has reached Assistant Health Commissioner Francis, who refused on Friday to give detailed information as to the plans of his department, or to say on what plan the work of extermination would be carried out.

Experiments were made with sulphur fumes and formaldehyde gas. Both bugs and bacteria were subjected to the action of these commonly used disinfectants for a definite time and the death rate among insects and germs carefully tabulated.

It was found that the bugs were immune to formaldehyde, but succumbed to sulphurous fumes, while the microbes did not mind the sulphur but were easily killed by the formaldehyde vapor.

Cockroaches were the only insects used as other household pests were not found in sufficient quantities for test purposes. The roaches were confined in cages in an atmosphere of the gas of about the strength that could be reached in the use of the gas on a large scale.

Summaries for the use of those who wish to aid in the work of extermination will be prepared by the health department as the application of sulphur under certain conditions has been known to fade carpets and curtains.

SAID HUSBAND TOOK JEWELS

Mrs. Dennis Cummings Refuses to Prosecute, However, and Now Wants Judge to Return Her Property.

Dennis Cummings of 2129 Lucas avenue, who was accused by his wife of taking jewerly valued at $400 and a purse containing $26 from her, was discharged in the Court of Criminal Correction Friday. Mrs. Cummings refused to prosecute.

After Cummings had been discharged they made application for return of the jewerly. Judge Moore refused to turn over the property to either of them until each made affidavit to what the affiant owned. This affidavit was not made at once, but it is said the Cumming's have come to an amicable agreement regarding the disposition of the valuables.

THE WEATHER INDICATIONS.

For St. Louis and vicinity—Showers and thunderstorms Friday afternoon and Friday night; probably fair Saturday.

Missouri—Showers and thunderstorms Friday afternoon and possibly Friday night with warmer in south portion; Saturday, probably fair, with cooler in west portion; brisk southerly winds.

DRAINAGE CANAL IN CITY STREETS

Cable Slots, Unclosed Since Passing of Grip Car, Menace Health.

Numerous complaints have been made to the Health Commissioner of the cable slots which have been allowed to remain in the middle of the street car tracks since the trolley has supplanted the old cable cars. Quite frequently the corks on horseshoes have been wrenched off and the legs of valuable animals have in this way been strained so as to render them unsound.

This is especially true of the heavy truck horses of the transfer companies and large wholesale houses.

The principal reason urged why the Transit Company should be compelled to close up these miniature "drainage canals" is a sanitary one.

After a rain the water stands in them with no means of running off and it finally disappears through the process of evaporation.

When some sections of the slot on Olive street were examined, it was found that they contained a slimy substance, about three parts water and one part filth, which drips from the street.

Since the rain of Tuesday night, a green formation has covered the substance.

The odor given off at various places where the slots still remain is very offensive.

That they breed disease in the form of fevers is beyond question.

At the time when the cable system was changed to electric, there was no legislation relating to the removal of the slots, as there was doubt whether the trolley would be overhead or underground.

Where the wires were put underground, the conduits were laid, and in this manner the point of returning the street to its original condition was left open.

From tme to time the Transit company has made improvements in their tracks and has voluntarily taken out the slots and paved the opening.

There are still many places where no improvement is at present needed, so there is no immediate prospect of doing away with these germ breeders.

ELEGTRIC LINES TO MERGE

It is given out semi-officially in Alton that a plan is now on foot to consolidate the Granite City-East St. Louis suburban street car systems, with the Alton system of the Alton Railway, Gas and Illuminating Co. After the consolidation of the lines, if it comes about, a track system will be built from Granite City to East Alton to connect with the Alton lines. This would give a line through from Alton to St. Louis, by way of Granite City and East St. Louis. It is understood that the deal is about to be carried through, and that in the event it is, this will be the line used from Alton to St. Louis for World's Fair years. An appraisement of the properties is now being made with a view of bringing about the consolidation. The officials of the lines do not deny there is something in the information which has become public, but refuse to talk about it.

CROW AND FOLK PROPOSE TO GO TO NEW YORK AND SEEK TRUST AGENT KELLEY IN PERSON

ALLEGED DISTRIBUTOR OF BOODLE IS HIDING

Police Chief's Courtesy Should Have Caused Him to Be Held at First, Kiely Thinks.

It was stated at the Four Courts Friday afternoon that either Attorney-General Crow or Circuit Attorney Folk would proceed to New York at once unless D. J. Kelley is arrested by the police authorities there.

Kelley is now considered the most important man in connection with the alum boodle investigation, as it is believed he is thoroughly familiar with the manner in which alum baking powder legislation was defeated at the 1900 and 1901 sessions of the Missouri General Assembly.

Both Mr. Folk and Attorney-General Crow realize the necessity for apprehending Kelley immediately.

"CATCH KELLEY AND HOLD HIM"

By long distance telephone, Chief of Police Kiely, Friday morning, talked with Inspector of Detectives George McCloskey of New York City, and obtained from him a promise that he would try to arrest Daniel J. Kelley, Baking Powder Trust agent, wanted in Missouri for sending a $1000 check to Lieutenant-Governor Lee.

Inspector McCloskey told Chief Kiely the information issued in Missouri against Kelley had just arrived in New York City, Friday morning. He promised also to try to hold Kelley after he was arrested until he can be extradited.

Chief Kiely's conversation with Inspector McCloskey followed a long interview between Attorney-General Crow and Kiely. The attorney-general is not pleased with the course that has been pursued by the New York police, who upon receiving the request from Jefferson City for Kelley's arrest, detained him a few minutes and then let him go.

Attorney-General Crow does not understand why he was released at all.

It is understood that the request wired from Jefferson City to the New York police was from Attorney-General Crow. Four Courts officials point out that such a request created no such an obligation as would have been created if Chief Kiely, a member of the chief's bureau, had wired to another member in New York.

New York Prisoner Is Now Held Here.

Chief of Police Kiely has a prisoner, one Whalen, wanted by the New York authorities. He says he has been holding him for a considerable time and merely cites this as an example of what one metropolitan chief will do for another. He has full faith, consequently, in the promise of the New York police.

Mr. Crow said Friday that if Kelley was not arrested soon it might be necessary to send an attorney to New York to find out what is the matter.

Detective James Tracy left at noon Friday for New York to bring Kelley to St. Louis, providing the baking powder man can be found.

The grandjury took up a number of criminal cases Friday morning and disposed of them before beginning deliberations in the alum case.

A number of witnesses were waiting for the grandjury to reach that case. Among them were State Senator Frank Farris of Crawford County. He arrived before 10 o'clock, and waited until almost noon. He said he had not been served with a subpena, but as the sheriff of Crawford County was away, having read that a subpena had been issued, he concluded to come without service.

"Diamond" Smith Present as Witness.

Representative John F. Morton of Ray County was also waiting for the case to be taken up. Former State Representative John Smith of St. Louis, known also as "Diamond" Smith, was a witness. He has not been a member of the legislature for three years, and the statute of limitations is applicable to events that far back.

Later in the day, Whitney Layton, president of the Layton Pure Food Co., appeared, havink been subpenaed. It is said that the legislation which Kelley wanted is opposed by this company. Paterson Bain of the Bain-Chapman Co., which makes food products, was another witness waiting to be called.

While waiting for the grandjury, all the prospective witnesses chatted genially, but alum was not the subject of their conversation.

ORDER FOR KELLEY'S REARREST FROM ST. LOUIS TO NEW YORK BY PHONE

"Hello, New York, police headquarters?"

"Yes, this is McCloskey, inspector of detectives."

"Well, this is Chief Kiely, St. Louis. Arrest Daniel J. Kelley, the Baking Powder Trust Agent, charged with trying to bribe Lieut.-Gov. Lee. Get him and hold him will you, please? Our man Tracy leaves here this noon."

"All right, I'll try. Goodby."

"Goodby."

CHILD CRUSHED BY STREET CAR

Laurence Malone Instantly Killed at Tower Grove Sheds.

Lawrence Malone, 9 years old, was instantly killed Friday morning at 7:15 by a Tower Grove street car, that jumped the track while it was being backed into the car barns at 1304 South Jefferson avenue. The boy was standing by the side of the track, and when the car left the rails it crushed his head between the side of the car and one of the pillars of the car barn. He was dead when he was picked up.

The boy, who was a son of Michael Malone of 1305 Missouri avenue, was playing around the barn, and when he was killed was standing in a space where there wasn't any too much room for him if the car had not left the track.

The body was taken to his home.

The car was in charge of Motorman Roy Davis of 1515 South Jefferson avenue and Conductor [illegible] of 1233 Lami [illegible]

LOBBY SENATORS HERE TO TESTIFY

State Senators John F. Morton of Ray County and Frank H. Farris of Crawford County came to St. Louis Friday for the purpose of testifying before the April grandjury in regard to the alum baking powder scandal.

"I received no subpena," said Senator Morton, "but heard in Kansas City yesterday that one had been issued for me. As soon as I learned that to be a fact, I took the train for St. Louis.

"I know nothing about legislation for or against the use of alum in baking powder except what the [illegible] various bills pertaining to this ingredient."

Senator Farris declined to talk, saying: "I am not on the witness stand."

When questioned in reference to a letter which he was to receive and which would have brought about, it is said, the threatened exposure of Lieutenant-Governor Lee, Farris said that he had nothing to say; that the letter referred to is not now and never was in his possession, and he could not state the nature of its contents.

The failure of Senators Marshall of Scott and Orchard of Howell County, all of whom have been requested to testify, to put in an appearance Friday, has caused considerable comment.

Gov. Lee and Martin are political companions, and during the legislative session one always worked in the interest of the other.

Criticism of Gov. Lee's course respecting the alleged attempt of Daniel J. Kelley to bribe him is general among the politicians, from whom he was led to expect gubernatorial favors.

Their verdict seems to be that Lee has put himself in an embarrassing, not to say questionable position, and incidents are cited to show the awkwardness of his present attitude.

On the day that Gov. Lee admitted to Attorney-General Crow that he was offered $1000 for his vote against the baking powder bill, there appeared in several leading Texas papers a letter signed by Lee, in which he boomed the cause of the trust and condemned alum as "fatally poisonous ingredient."

At the same time there was pending before the Texas legislature a bill to enact another so-called "pure food law," which would drive the alum manufacturers of baking powder out of that state.

The communication of indorsement is similar to one which Gov. Lee caused to be distributed broadcast in Missouri soon after he voted to kill the alum bill.

This letter has been used extensively by the trust as an advertisement.

BAKING POWDER KELLEY HIDING OUT

NEW YORK, April 10.—If the St. Louis authorities expect to extradite Daniel J. Kelley of the National Health Society, for an alleged attempt to bribe Lieutenant-Governor John A. Lee, they will have to forward regular requisition papers based on a grandjury indictment.

Chief of Detectives McClusky received today a copy of the evidence on which the Missouri authorities expect to secure Kelley's indictment, but he would not say whether he would rearrest Kelley. He received a long-distance telephone message from Chief Kelly at St. Louis, asking him to arrest Kelley.

Detectives were sent to Kelley's home and to the office of the "American Queen," but Mr. Kelley found it convenient to be out of the city. His attorney, Clarence J. Shearn, made the positive statement, however, that Kelley had not nor will not run away.

He said Kelley would be produced whenever a regular indictment and requisition papers arrived, but not until then.

The detectives made a prisoner of him on a telegram signed by Attorney-General Crow of Missouri, and when they arraigned him before Magistrate Pool they could not say whether the telegram was genuine, and knew nothing of the alleged offense.

Kelley was discharged.

MORE LEGISLATORS ARE SUMMONED

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., April 10.—It is understood here this morning that subpenas have been issued and served on Senator E. D. Martin of Marshall, former Senator W. H. Haynes of St. Joseph, Senator Sullivan of Christian County, former Speaker J. W. Farris of Lebanon and Representatives Brown of Cass County and O'Fallon of Holt County to appear before the grandjury next Monday. They are expected to testify in the alum boodle investigation.

DENVER, Colo., April 10.—A settlement of the question of the wages of the trainmen of the Colorado & Southern Railway has been effected. Fifteen minutes after General Manager Herbert of the Colorado & Southern road went into conference with Vice Grand Master Lee of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen and Grand Junior Conductor Shepherd of the Order of Railway Conductors the demands of the men had been granted.

Why American Henley?

From Leslie's Weekly.

Just why the word Henley should be applied to the new rowing association's regatta, which will have its first trial on the Schuylkill river next July, is beyond the ken of American sportsmen who have in mind the attitude of the Henley stewards toward American rowing men generally. The Schuylkill regatta, or the American regatta, would certainly be a more appropriate title, and the aping spirit would be eliminated. The rowing element in this country is certainly strong enough and good enough in every way to stand on its own merit, so that if we are to have a really high-class regatta let it be anything but a "Henley."

TWO EFFORTS TO BURN DEFENDER

Yacht Reliance Twice Imperiled in Week By Mysterious Persons.

EXTRA GUARD STATIONED AT THE HERRESCHOFF SHOPS

Two Years Ago a Similar Attempt Was Made Against the Cup Boat by Man Afterwards Declared Insane.

BRISTOL, R. I., April 10.—Indications that twice during the last week attempts have been made to burn the Herreschoff boat shops and the new cup defender, Reliance, have just come to light.

The matter was ont reported to the police, but extra precautions have been taken to guard the property.

Two years ago an attempt was made to burn the boat shops and the yacht Defender, which was being built, and the would-be incendiary was captured and subsequently declared to be insane.

It is thought that the present attempts have been due to similar cause.

OLD BOOKS UNEARTHED.

Workmen Make a Strange Discovery While Digging Well.

ALTON, Tex., April 10.—While digging a well on Mrs. Nannie Haver's land, close to the homestead, in order to get a supply of water for brick making, at the depth of four feet the workmen unearthed a ledger and daybook. The covers were rotten but the leaves were in a good state of preservation, and the writing, though dated 1852, was as clear as if written quite recently. This land is a part of the old homestead of Col. R. Mitchell, who was one of the pioneer merchants of Alto, and the books were probably buried with money for safety in those troublesome times. The workmen cannot understand why the books were buried alone, and are exhibiting unusual activity to find treasure.

The old-time residents find many familiar names among those on the books and many that had faded from their memories, but which bring back reminiscences of the days before the war. The name of Col. Robert Mitchell is very familiar to those who have to hunt up the records concerning land in and about Alto. He ownel land from the Neches to the Angelina rivers, a stretch of 15 miles, which may account for the absence of treasure in the find of yesterday.

COLLEGE MAY MOVE.

Military Branch of Arkadelphia May Be Located at Texarkana.

TEXARKANA, Tex., April 10.—The Methodist college at Arkadelphia will probably move the military branch of that institution to Texarkana. It has submitted a proposition to the citizens of the town, through the board of trade.

The proposition calls for a bonus of $20,000 in money and school property, the college management agreeing to bring 100 boys to the school at once as soon as it is opened, and to guarantee a regular attendanceof 200 after the first year. The proposition is being considered by the board of trade, and will likely be accepted.

Renewed and earnest attention is being directed in England toward a short transatlantic route. One of the best natural harbors in the British Isles is that of Galway, on the west coast of Ireland. Almost straight across the Atlantic is St. Johns, Newfoundland. The distance between these two outposts is but 1816 miles; from Liverpool to New York it is 3116 miles, and from Southampton 3085 miles.

One reason why American workmen accomplish more in a day than workmen abroad is because of shoes. Our shoes are lighter, easier on the feet, and thus permit greater action.

14 EAST 120TH ST., NEW YORK CITY.
Oct. 15th, 1902.

DEAR SIR:

"I had been suffering severely from kidney trouble. All symptoms were on hand; my former strength and power had left me; I could hardly drag myself along. Even my mental capacity was giving out, and often I wished to die. It was then I saw an advertisement of yours in a New York paper, but would not have paid any attention to it, had it not promised a sworn guarantee with every bottle of your medicine, asserting that your Swamp-Root is purely vegetable, and does not contain any harmful drugs. I am seventy years and four months old, and with a good conscience I can recommend Swamp-Root to all sufferers from kidney troubles. Four members of my family have been using Swamp-Root for four different kidney diseases, with the same good results."

With many thanks to you I remain,
Very truly yours,
ROBERT BERNER.

You may have a sample bottle of this famous kidney remedy, Swamp-Root, sent free by mail, postpaid, by which you may test its virtues for such disorders as kidney, bladder and uric acid diseases, poor digestion, when obliged to pass your water frequently night and day, smarting or irritation in passing, brickdust or sediment in the urine, headache, backache, lame back, dizziness, sleeplessness, nervousness, heart disturbance due to bad kidney trouble, skin eruptions from bad blood, neuralgia, rheumatism, diabetes, bloating, irritability, wornout feeling, lack of ambition, loss of flesh, sallow complexion, or Bright's disease.

If your water, when allowed to remain undisturbed in a glass or bottle for twenty-four hours, forms a sediment or settling or has a cloudy appearance, it is evidence that your kidneys and bladder need immediate attention.

Swamp-Root is the great discovery of Dr. Kilmer, the eminent kidney and bladder specialist. Hospitals use it with wonderful success in both slight and severe cases. Doctors recommend it to their patients and use it in their own families, because they recognize in Swamp-Root the greatest and most successful remedy.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is for sale the world over at druggists in bottles of two sizes and two prices—fifty cents and one dollar. Remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

SPECIAL NOTICE—If you have the slightest symptoms of kidney or bladder trouble, or if there is a trace of it in your family history, send at once to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., who will gladly send you by mail, imediately, without cost to you, a sample bottle of Swamp-Root and a book containing many of the thousands upon thousands of testimonial letters received from men and women cured. DIED FROM HIS INJURIES

Henry Collins Was Beaten in an Election Fight at East St. Louis Tuesday Night.

Henry Collins, aged 30, of Chicago, died Friday morning at St. Mary's hospital in East St. Louis as a result of an election night fight. Collins, who boarded at 816 St. Louis avenue, was at Collinsville and Summit avenues' Tuesday night, when a fight took place. He was beaten. Bystanders took him to the nearest polling place, but when they found that his injuries appeared serious, they sent him to St. Mary's Hospital. TO CALL ON THE ARKANSAS

Diminutive Alton Cutter Will Fire a Salute From Its Little Hotchkiss Gun.

The United States monitor Arkansas, when she visits St. Louis, will record an official call from the Alton naval militia cutter. The report will be forwarded to Washington with the official call record.

Lieut. E. V. Crossman has arranged for the Alton crew to man the cutter when the monitor arrives in St. Louis, and the boat will be rowed to St. Louis.

Upon reaching the waters where the monitor lies, the official salute will be fired with the cutter's one-pound Hotchkiss gun. Lieut. Crossman and his officers will then board the monitor, and make an official call upon the officers.

The new cutter sent the Alton company has not been manned and rigged, and will not be for several more days. The Hotchkiss will be mounted on the front of the boat, and when under way with 24 sturdy seamen at the oars, and ammunition in plenty abroad, she will be one of Uncle Sam's fighting boats, somewhat smaller, somewhat shorter, but with a Hotchkiss gun that shoots just as far and true as any of them.

The members of the Alton crew are enthusiastic over the prospects of their visit to meet the monitor, and will be in perfect drill by the time of the journey.

HAD A FANCY FOR ILLINOIS WIVES

HISTORY UNKNOWN TO WIVES OR OFFICIALS

While in Jail at Virginia, Ill., He Was Very Reticent and Was Afraid to Talk to Detectives.

DRISCOLL'S FIVE LOVING WIVES.

Mrs. Driscoll No. 1 was Miss Lizzie Schwartz of Paxton, Ill.

Mrs. Driscoll No. 2 was Mrs. Eliza Hunter of Ashland, Ill.

Mrs. Driscoll No. 3 refuses to let her identity be known. She lives at McLeansboro, Ill.

Mrs. Driscoll No. 4 was Mrs. Sarah Mygrant of Huntington, Ind.

VIRGINIA, Ill., April 10.—John T. Driscoll, reputed to be the most married man in Illinois, has been sentenced by Judge Thomas Mehan of the Circuit Court to an indefinite residence in the penitentiary.

The charge against Driscoll was that he had been married four times without seeking legal separating or waiting for any of his wives to die.

He is about 55 years of age, and is pleasing in manner and appearance. His history is unknown to his wives or the prosecuting attorneys. Driscoll is as secretive about himself as he was to each of his four wives about his other conquests.

So far as known his first venture in matrimony was at Paxton, where he wedded Miss Lizzie Schwartz in July, 1889. The first Mrs. Driscoll is the mother of his five children, and she learned of the subsequent marriages through letters that accidentally came into her hands.

Mrs. Driscoll No. 2 was Mrs. Eliza Hunter of Ashland, Ill., to whom he was married in July, 1901, and who alleges that she was robbed and deserted. This Mrs. Driscoll brought the prosecution when it was learned that Driscoll had more than the legal number of wives.

Mrs. Driscoll No. 3 lives at McLeansboro, Ill., and she refused to take any part in the prosecution or appear at the trial and her identity is unknown.

Mrs. Driscoll No. 4 lives at Huntington, Ind., and she was Mrs. Sarah Mygrant, a widow with some means and considerable standing in her home community. She was won by Driscoll while he was posing as C. M. Bloom, a Methodist church worker, a politician and a man of considerable prominence in the world in general.

Just why Driscoll maintains secrecy concerning his history can only be surmised. It is thought by those interested in the prosecution that he has a history that does not bring credit to him, as while in jail awaiting trial he was very suspicious of strangers and feared detectives.

BROUGHT CERTIFICATE ALONG

Jule Feickert Took No Chances on Being Charged for a Sick Man's Hair Cut.

The Belleville barbers are to have a new tariff sheet to better explain their increased prices to their patrons.

They got out one the other day, but that has been turned to the wall. This item caused the change of face:

"Cutting sick man's hair, 50 cents."

Julius C. Feickert, a druggist, went into a shop on South High street, where a new schedule had been posted.

Julius C. Fieckert has always considered that he ought to have a discount because there is a large field on the top of his head which never has to be mowed.

He looked at it doubtfully and went out.

A few moments later he returned with beaming face and handed the boss barber this certificate:

BELLEVILLE, Ill., April 10, 1903.

To Whom It May Concern:

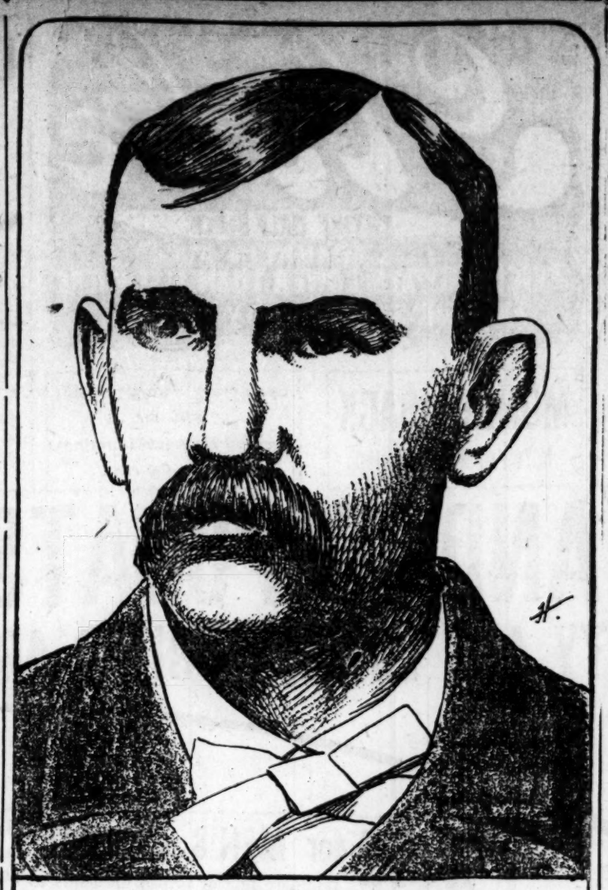

This is to certify that Mr. Julius C. Feickert has this day been examined by me and I find him physically perfectly well and sound. W. WEST, JR., M. D.

"What is this for demanded the boss barber.

"You see,' said Druggist Feickert, "I feel rather pale this morning and fear I may look so. I saw that schedule you have up there and feared that you would size me up for a sick man, when I am not. I just look bad. I want a 25-cent haircut."

The boss barber looked sadly at the certificate, then at the schedule and silently pointed toward the cigar case.

The schedule will be amended to show that the 50-cent rate applies only to sick men whose hair is cut at home.

ANYONE HAVING PRICE MAY BUY PLUMBERS' SUPPLIES

Judge Horatio D. Wood of division No. 3 of the Circuit Court Friday made the injunction perpetual by which the Association of Master Plumbers of St. Louis are restrained and enjoined from combining and conspiring against Joseph E. Walsh, a master plumber and dealer, by refusing to sell him plumbers' supplies and from injuring him in his trade or avocation in any manner.

The order was made in accordance with an opinion handed down by the appellate court, Dec. 23 last, and is far reaching in its scope.

Walsh applied for an injunction in the Circuit Court, and the case was assigned to Judge Wood's division.

In the petition Walsh set forth that he was a master plumber, and up to 1899 had a thriving business. He declared that the Association of Master Plumbers consisted of over 300 persons and firms, leagued together to control the price and sale of all plumbers' supplies in St. Louis.

He named as officers of the association the following: President, F. A. Brandt; secretary, Philip Schmidt; assistant secretary, J. J. McNary.

Among the firms specifically named as defendants were the L. M. Rumsey Manufacturing Co., Rumsey-Sikemeier Co., Cahill-Swift Manufacturing Co., Swift Manufacturing Co., National Plumbing Co., Brass Manufacturing Co., Crane & Co.

Walsh alleged that the defendants conspired against hi mand all other plumbers that did not join, refusing to sell them supplies, and threatening to boycott any dealer who did. Any member of the association violating this stipulation was compelled to pay a fine of $250.

The purpose of the combination, Walsh alleged, was to make a complete monopoly of plumbing supplies in St. Louis. When he refused to join the combine.

ELOPED TO GET A MARRIAGE LICENSE

Belleville Couple Expected to Get Married in St. Louis, but After Getting License Decided to Wait.

Up to Friday noon the elopement of Alexander H. Woods and Miss Mayme Patterson of Belleville has resulted in nothing but the securing of a St. Louis marriage license.

Both the would-be bride and the groom deny that they are married and Miss Patterson says they are holding back the license they secured in hopes that they may persuade their relatives to let them have a home wedding.

Mr. Woods is 21 years old, a son of Dr. Alexander Woods, superintendent of the St. Clair County farm, and has been acting as assistant superintendent. It was announced Friday morning that he had resigned that position and would leave the farm at once. It was said by Dr. Woods that he and his son could not agree as to the work.

Miss Patterson is 18 years old, and lives with her mother, Mrs. Eliza Patterson, on West Main street. She is a sister of Hamilton Patterson, a ballplayer, and a few days ago her sister was married to William Elwert, bowler and ballplayer.

The young people were pupils in the Franklin School for four years, and the attachment formed during that time has been continued for the 18 months since they left school. They decided to elope last week and carried the decision into effect Thursday, when they secured the St. Louis marriage license.

Their purpose was to get married in St. Louis, but after their had the document, according to Miss Patterson, she suggested that they defer the ceremony until they could see whether consent would be given for a home wedding, and Woods acquiesced.

CANTRELL CASE CAUSED ROW

Public Prosecutor Denounced Effort to Railroad Him to Asylum to Prevent is Testifying.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 10.—An effort to hold an insanity commission on Rufus Cantrell, the negro who is charged with grave robbing, broke up in a row today.

Charges of bribery were openly made by one of the attorneys representing Cantrell. It was also charged that an effort was being made to "railroad" Cantrell to the insane asylum so that he could not appear as a witness against Dr. Alexander, whose trial is set for next week.

When Squire Emerich declared the court open and that the examination of witnesses would begin, Prosecutor Ruckhaus protested against the proceedings. He said:

"I have a right to see that no man is railroaded to the insane asylum instead of getting his just dues for crimes committed against the state. I stand here on my rights and I demand that this commission continue the inquest until after the trial of Dr Alexander."

After listening to arguments of attorneys who claimed to represent Cantrell, the commission granted a continuance to May 4.

HE PAID THE PENALTY.

GENTLEMEN, SATURDAY IS CLOTHING DAY

Prices a Full Third Less

We buy One Hundred Thousand Dollars' Worth of Clothing each year from the makers of Alco Suits. In making up garments for their customers frequently they have left just enough cloth to make three, five and possibly ten suits. Appreciating The Meyer Store as a tremendous outlet, they offered to make up for us 1500 suits out of the cloths they had after filling orders. If we would place the order, they would give us a discount of 33 1-3 per cent. As we consider the "Alco" the very best men's suits made in the United States, we clinched this proposition without hesitation. In this way only are we able to offer Alco suits at the prices quoted today. The 1500 garments are here and will go on sale the first thing Saturday morning.

The Suits at 9.99 ARE WORTH $15

There's character—individuality—and the perfection of finish and fit in these Alco Suits, which we will sell at $9.99. The variety of styles as well as patterns and colors, is so wide that the most fastidious—as well as the most conservative—dressers can find just what their fancies call for. The wealth of worth crowded into these suits justify us in saying (and the statement is backed by facts) that no store can match them in quality, style, workmanship and fit for twice this Saturday sale price.

The 12.99 Suits ARE WORTH $18

We certainly have demonstrated the fact that you do not have to pay a fat price to a merchant tailor when we are offering the very duplicate of his $25 suits for $12.99.

This is not our first offense—we have been doing this thing week after week, only more forcibly now than ever. If you are not aware of this fact, just look and see what we are selling Saturday for $12.99.

The 14.99 Suits ARE WORTH $20

In this third lot we reach the acme of perfection in Men's Suits. See what the Meyer Store purchase saves you—all we ask for your pick from these $20 suits is $14.99. Better suits from every point of view are not purchasable in St. Louis at twice the money. The styles are right, the fit is perfect, the fabrics of high quality and the workmanship faultless—and if you want a real, high-grade Easter suit, choose from this magnificent collection.

1.99 THIS PRICE FOR MEN'S $4 PANTS 1.99

We fit them all—long legs, short legs, big legs, or little legs, at $1.99 the pair. These $4 pants have the style and finish that dressy dressers demand. They were made by first-class tailors and will hold their own with anything high-priced merchant tailors can turn out for three times the money. These pants are hand-shaped, have French waist bands and are perfect fitting.

Boys' Blouse Suits, 1.49

You know, we always save you a third, at least, on Boys' Clothing. The Saturday sale saves you at least a full half. They are beauties—nobby creations for little men—and they come in green, blue, maroon and mode. $3 would be a fair price. Saturday we say $1.49.

Norfolk Suits, 1.99

You would expect to pay $3.50 for choosing—that's the regular price. These smart little suits are made of all-wool cheviots and all-wool worsteds, in every one of the latest cuts and there are sizes 3 to 16 in the collection. Don't miss asking to see them Saturday.

Confirmation Suits

Two lots, two prices—$1.99 and $2.99—they are really $3 and $5 values in every other store. For sizes you have from 3 to 16 years, and The Meyer Store could hardly offer you more for your money than we do Saturday in these suits. To see them is to want them.

DYING MAN FIGHTS FIVE POLICEMEN

He Will Revenge Himself or Die Without Naming Slayer.

NEW YORK, April 10.—David Bernstein, "Big Dave," a restaurant keeper, thought to be dying from the efects of a bullet wound just under the heart, only smiles when he is asked who shot him.

"I'll settle this thing myself, if I get well," he answers, grimly. "I'll get even with the man without your help. If I don't—well, I'll die like a man."

Bernstein, who is a giant in strength and stature, was seen by a policeman staggering along the street with a large revolver clutched in his hand and half concealed in his pocket. The officer demanded the revolver.

"You'll get it," answered Bernstein, swinging around and pointing the weapon directly at the policeman's head. He was knocked down before he could pull the trigger, but jumping up, grappled with the policeman.

Then ensued a struggle in which five policemen took part. And then, noticing Bernstein was wounded, an ambulance was called and the five had another struggle while they were strapping the man to the boards.

"I got it, that's all there is to it," was Bernstein's only comment. "You won't find out who gave it to me, either."

The police have a theory that Bernstein was shot in a quarrel over a game of cards and had gone out and got a revolver and was returning for vengeance when he was seen by the police.

The surgeons say that Bernstein has only a remote chance of surviving.

TURKISH BATH HOUSE BURNS

Fire in Rear of Church Causes Excitement on North Seventh Street.

The Turkish bath establishment of F. Lazarovitz, in the rear of the place of worship of the Sheerith Jewish Congregation at 929 North Seventh street, was damaged $800 by a fire that broke out at 4:30 Friday morning, origin unexplained.

It was at first thought in the neighborhood that the fire was in the church, and considerable excitement was shown. The building damaged belongs to A. Lopez of 3748 Westminster place, and the loss was covered by insurance.

MUTE ARTIST'S INJURY FATAL

Marcus Kerr, Well Known as Portrait Painter, Dies at City Hospital.

Marcus Kerr, a deaf mute and a skilled artist, died at the City Hospital Friday morning from injuries received when he was run over by a street car on Washington avenue near Jefferson. He was hurt last Sunday, and did not regain consciousness.

A fracture of the skull was his most serious injury, although he was hurt internally, and from the first the surgeons regarded his recovery as doubtful.

Kerr and his wife, who was also a deaf mute, lived at 3837 Delmar boulevard. He was known as the official painter of the National deafmutes' association.

Portraits of Alexander Graham Bell, inventor of the telephone, of Helen Kellar, the deaf, dumb and blind girl, of E. M. Gallaudet and many other well-known persons, had been painted by Kerr, and the work is said by connoisseurs to compare favorably with that of the best portrait artists of America.

Kerr was a regular church attendant and was returning from church when he received his fatal injuries.

He had lived at the national deafmutes' institute in Washington, D. C. Kerr was married six years ago. His wife, since he was first injured, has been prostrated by grief.

DIVES BACKWARD NINETY-TWO FEET

Man Claiming to Be Champion High Diver Accomplishes Big Feat.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., April 10.—Arthur C. Holden, claiming to be the champion high diver of the world, jumped backward from the top of a pile driver 92 feet high into the Hudson river, turning a somersault in the descent. He did it without breaking his neck, and then took a swim to refresh himself after his exertions.

Holden plunged down, his legs and arms revolving like spokes of a slow wheel, and, feet first, crashed into the river, sending a shower of boiling spray 20 feet aloft. It had not all subsided when up bobbed Holden and swam over to a float near by.

Just to show the entire absence of ill-feeling, Holden subsequently did a double somersault into the river from a height of 20 feet.

GEN. WOOD'S PRESS AGENT ACCUSED OF EMBEZZLING

"Bellairs" Arrested on Charge Made by Man Who Introduced Him in Arizona, but Later Released, Case Being Settled.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PHENIX, Ariz., April 10.—Capt. "Bellairs," author of the book, "As It Is in the Philippines," was arrested here last night on complaint of C. W. Burson of Wyckenburg, who charged him with the embezzlement of $120.

Burson and his father were sponsors for Bellairs on his arrival in Arizona and secured his introduction into good social circles. The younger Burson had been a volunteer in the Spanish war and had received appreciated assistance from Bellairs while in the hospital at Havana.

Bellairs is supposed to have secured Burson's discharge from the service through intercession with Gen. Wood. Here the two Bursons and Bellairs had been connected in the projected publication of a work descriptive of Arizona.

Bellairs was released after paying Burson the debt, and expects to leave today for New York.

Bellairs was taken in charge by the sheriff on a telephone message from Burson, who was at that time in Wyckenburg. Three hours later Burson came down and met Bellairs at the sheriff's office.

After a long conversation they departed together, making the explanation that the matter had been settled.

Bellairs came here about three months ago and entered into several mining schemes at Wyckenburg. He seemed to have plenty of money for a while, but soon ran short and as soon as the legislature adjourned he met J. W. Burson, father of the young man and senator from Yavapai County. They started into an agreement to publish a book, "Arizona as It Is." It was on the strength of this book that Bellairs borrowed money.

Claude B. Burson was named as the secretary and treasurer of the Wyckenburg Mining, Smelting & Development Co. in the circulars dated at Wyckenburg, Ariz., Feb. 2, 1903, which were sent out offering to the public 100,000 shares of the company's stock at par, $1 each. This circular said of Mr. Burson: "He is also well known in Arizona, and besides being a veteran of the Spanish-American war, has been engaged in mining and other business in the territory."

Bellairs is the press agent for Gen. Leonard Wood, whose book was largely an endeavor to boom Gen. Wood for chief command in the Philippines. He was later proved to have been an ex-convict and was denounced as a society swindler.

TRAGIC STORY IN DR. KENT'S TRIAL

New Features to Be Disclosed in Beautiful Girl's Death.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., April 10.—Novel in its legal aspect, remarkable in its tragical story, the trial of young Dr. Leland Door Kent for the ...ing of Ethel Blanche Dingle, now on before Judge Sutherland in the county court.

Kent's family are supporting him strongly, and so, too, are his friends. His defense will be conducted by George Raines.

An unusual plea will be made on his behalf. It will be claimed that Miss Dingle was the victim of a suicidal mania, and that the letters which are in the possession of the police signed both by Miss Dingle and by Dr. Kent in which both signify their intention to die were written, as far as Dr. Kent is concerned, without any intention of carrying out the plan that the letters suggested, but that he had joined the pretty nurse in writing them simply to humor her during an attack of melancholia and suicidal mania.

Dr. Kent and Miss Dingle went to the Whitcomb House at Rochester on the night of September 14 last year. The next day they were found lying side by side in the apartment. The throats of both had been cut. Dr. Kent was alive, but the girl was dead. In her hand was clasped a razor.

The physician was taken to the Homeopathic Hospital, and after a week, in which his life was despaired of, he finally recovered. The affair created a sensation here and in Buffalo. There the young physician, the son of a well-to-do family and a popular post-graduate student at the Riverside Hospital, had met Miss Dingle, who was a trained nurse. Despite the fact that the physician was married and had two children, he began paying assiduous attention to the young nurse.

On his cot at the Rochester hospital the young doctor made no effort to conceal his grief for the girl's death. But when he was able to make a coherent statement to the authorities he declared that Miss Dingle had first attempted to kill him and had then cut her own throat. Certain features regarding the manner of the wound on the girl's throat and the finding of a number of letters in the room led the authorities to believe that the physician had wounded the girl as well as himself, and that there had existed between the two when they sought the room in the Whitcomb House a suicide compact. It is upon this belief that the young physician has been charged with manslaughter. Murder in the first degree could not be charged, in view of the position taken by the prosecution to the effect that the young woman had entered into the compact to end her life. This view of the case is legally unique, and should the trial end in a conviction there will be without question a hard fight by the defense before the court of appeals.

It is rumored here that at the last minute, however, the district attorney may spring a big surprise and switch the manslaughter charge to one of murder, for there is talk that he has found the existence of a strong motive on the part of the young physician for wanting to do away with Miss Dingle, apart from the fact that he was a married man and his love affair threatened to bring about serious domestic complications.

The new motive is said to be another young woman with whom Dr. Kent had fallen in love after meeting Miss Dingle. The district attorney today, however, denied the existence of any such factor in the case, but he did not deny the probability that evidence would be introduced tending to prove that the letters supposed to have been written and signed by Miss Dingle stating her intention to end her life are forgeries. These letters, granting their genuineness, would seem to prove conclusively the existence of a suicide pact between Dr. Kent and Miss Dingle.

WEAK KIDNEYS

Cause More Sickness and Serious Complications Than Any One Knows.

Thousands of Men and Women Have Kidney Disease and Do Not Know Until It Has Developed Into Bladder Trouble, Rheumatism, Diabetes or Bright's Disease, Which Will Prove Fatal If Not Attended To At Once.

PAINS IN THE SMALL OF THE BACK

painful passing of urine, inflammation of the bladder, torpid liver, cloudy urine, pains in the back of the head and neck, rheumatic pains and swellings all over the body, eczema and jaundice tell you your kidneys are diseased and are not able to do their work properly. If you have any of these symptoms, great care should be taken to stop the progress of the disease and prevent it becoming chronic and pregnating the entire system.

Doctors Gave Him Up.

Dear Sirs: I feel it my duty to thank you. Eighteen years ago was suffering from kidney complaint, and for two years was very low. The doctors had given me up—unless I went through an operation. At that time I heard of Warner's Safe Cure and immediately stopped all doctors and commenced using your remedy. For the last fifteen years and a half have enjoyed perfect health.

I advertise it to all sick people I come in contact with, and with a great many it has effected a cure. Very respectfully,

JOHN C. PELZER.
Dunham, Ind., Dec. 14, 1902.

Could Not Sleep, "Safe Cure" Cured Him.

Dear Sirs: I received yours of the 3d inst. I got your trial bottle of Warner's Safe Cure and used it. Since I have taken two large and two small bottles, which I can gladly say have cured me of kidney trouble, for which I had to be up from two to three times at night; now I can rest without getting up. I had severe pains in kidneys and back, and I have no more pain and am sure that it was through your Warner's Safe Cure that I now enjoy good health. You are at liberty to use the above statement. I return hearty thanks to you.

(Signed) J. F SAUNDERS,
Long Branch, Cal., Dec. 11, 1902.

After your morning urine stands 24 hours, if you find a reddish, brick dust sediment in it, or particles floating in the urine, or if it is cloudy, you will know your kidneys are in a diseased condition and are unable to perform their work, the result will be the bladder and urinary organs will become inflamed, uric acid will poison the blood, the stomach will become affected and unable to digest the food, the system will become weak and the result will be a break-down of the general health, with Bright's disease or diabetes, which will prove fatal if not treated with promptness and great care.

ANALYSIS FREE.

If, after you have made this test you have any doubt in your mind as to the development of the disease in your system, send a sample of your urine to the Medical Department, Warner's Safe Cure Co., Rochester, N. Y., and our doctors will analyze it and send you a report with advice free of charge, together with a valuable book describing all diseases of the kidneys, liver, bladder and blood and treatment for each disease.

HARD BLOW FOR GOVERNOR DAVIS

The Arkansas House Nearly Passes Report Against Him on Murphy Charges.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., April 10.—After devoting several weeks to the taking and consideration of testimony with reference to the charges made against Gov. Davis by Attorney General Murphy, three reports have been submitted to the House by the investigating committee. The majority report, signed by six members, was against the governor. One of the minority reports signed by three, exonerates the governor on every charge, and the third report, signed by two, simply submits the testimony without comment.

The House by a vote of 40 to 4 rejected the report exonerating the governor and by 1 majority defeated the majority report. The testimony was then ordered printed. The most serious reflection upon the governor in the report is in relation to the attempted sale by Louis Altheimer of the Haywood plantation to the state for a convict farm.

Mr. Altheimer testified that his figures for the farm were at first $92,500, which he reduced at the instance of the governor to $87,500, and that the day the board held a meeting to consider this proposition he gave the governor another proposition in writing to sell the farm for $75,000. The records of the board fail to show that the governor ever submitted this last proposition to it.

GIVEN A JEWEL AT A FEAST.

Judge P. R. Flitcraft Honored by His Brother Masons.

Judge P. R. Flitcraft, for nine years Master of St. Louis Chapter Rose Croix, No. 1, was presented with a magnificent thirty-third degree Masonic jewel at the celebration of the fast of the Scottish Rite Masons, symbolical of the Last Supper, at theScottish Rite cathedral Thursday night.

The presentation speech was made by R. H. Kern, who was on the program to respond to one of the toasts at the banquet over which Judge Flitcraft presided as toastmaster. Other speakers were Alphonso Chase Stewart and L. Frank Ottofy.

A number of guests were entertained during the evening and while the members of the order were performing their duties in the guild rooms, the guests were entertained by music and tableaux, the latter depicting scriptural scenes as painted by members of the order.

CHARGE IS POCKETING PAPER

Asphalt Representative Accused of Appropriating a Contract After Dispute.

L. B. West of New York will shortly have an opportunity in court to give his opinion as to the rights of ownership to the paper on which a contract is written. On the complaint of W. R. Bush of the Bush Construction Co., a warrant has been issued charging him with embezzlement.

West represents the Green River Asphaltum Co. of New York. Some time ago, during a visit to St. Louis, he entered into a contract on behalf of his principals with the Bush company for crushing rock. The price was $447. According to Mr. Bush, his company completed the contract and demanded payment. West arrived from New York in regard to the matter on Wednesday.

Thursday, it is charged, he went into the Bush offices and asked to be allowed to look at the contract. The moment it was handed to him, according to the charge, he put it in his pocket and walked out and has not since returned it. The issuance of the warrant Thursday was the result. West has not been arrested.

WRINKLING AVOIDED.

PATENT leather shoes usually break where they wrinkle.

The average Dress shoes wrinkles and looks old the second day it is worn.

Patent leather is the most difficult of all leathers to mold closely at the lower part of the instep, where the smallest fullness causes wrinkles.

Few Makers attempt to thus mold it, because great care must then be exercised, and much time and expense taken, in order not to crack the enamel.

They are made of the best materials money can buy, viz: Heyls German Patent Calf, with live Oak leather soles.

The enamel is handled as carefully as glass, and shaped with as much patience and skill as if Regal Dress shoes were designed to sell at $10.00 per pair instead of $3.50.

MERGER DECISION HITS MANY ROADS

Attorney Griggs Declares Decision of Court Affects Several Combinations.

WALL STREET STIRRED BY FIRST NEWS OF IT

Pennsylvania's Control of B. & O. and Proposed Gould Merger Are Among the Interests Possibly Affected by Broad Decision.

AFFECTS ALL, SAYS GRIGGS

"If the decision stands the administration will be forced to instruct the attorney-general to proceed against every railroad and trade consolidation affecting competition that has taken place in the last 13 years.'
—Former Attorney-General Griggs.

NEW YORK, April 10.—The sole topic of conversation around the Waldorf and other hotels and cafes frequented by the Wall street contingent today is the Northern Securities decision, which fell like a bomb yesterday. The street is not used to decisions that are contrary to its wishes, and, while it was generally thought that the decision would not entirely uphold the company, it was undoubtedly much more far-reaching in its terms than was expected.

When the news was first received, there was a scramble to unload, which was followed by a reaction, which was the result that perhaps it might be a blessing in disguise. The market has been lately flooded with new issues and merger rumors and many think that the lack of interest displayed by the public has been caused by these new combinations and that if the roads were left to operate on individual lines that the outsiders, which are really the backbone of Wall street operations, would get in again.

According to former Attorney-General Griggs, who is the counsel for the Northern Securities Co., the scope of the decision was entirely different from what was expected. "If this decision is upheld it seems that Congress can tell a man what he can buy and can forbid a man from purchasing what may be owned by another."

In the opinion of Mr. Griggs, the decision, if upheld, will reach every consolidation and combination of both railroad and trade interests that have been made.

"Do you hold," Mr. Griggs was asked, "that this decision covers other railroad consolidations, such as the Pennsylvania's control of the Baltimore & Ohio and the New York Central's ownership of the West Shore?"

"I can see no distinction whatever," replied Mr. Griggs. "If the decision stands, the administration will be forced to instruct the attorney-general to proceed against every railroad and trade consolidation affecting competition that has taken place in the last 13 years."

In his brief for the defendants Mr. Griggs said that an adverse decision such as has been rendered would "taint with illegality unnumbered millions of capital stock and bonds issued upon railroad mergers and consolidations," and that "financial chaos would result."

The announcement that an appeal would be taken was received with little interest. According to well posted legal authorities it will be at least two years before an appeal decision can be rendered, during which period all pending deals of the nature of the Northern Securities will be necessarily suspended.

Both Mr. Morgan and Mr. Hill are known to be men of large resources other than from a financial standpoint, and it is not doubted but what they will use every effort to find a plan which will circumvent the decision of the court. Already it is talked that a company will be formed abroad to carry out the plans which have been upset by this decision.

The Gould securities were decidedly affected on the exchange as it is a well-known fact that plans were well under way for the consolidation of the Wabash, Missouri Pacific, Texas Pacific and Cotton Belt lines. As these lines are partly competitive roads, the decision affects them directly. In the case of other proposed mergers, notably the Rock Island-Frisco combination the lines are not as directly competitive, but the decision is so far reaching that it is not at all unlikely that it will be construed to refer to them.

William H. Moore, the directing spirit in Rock Island affairs, is quoted as saying that the decision will in no way affect the deal, as the lines are neither competing nor parallel.

The members of the Southern Pacific pool show much elation over the decision because it is a direct ruling on the point which was involved in their late fight with the Harriman interests, the Keene people saying that this will effectually prevent the Union Pacific, as a road, from dominating the operation of the Southern Pacific.

The Pennsylvania is one of the lines which will be most affected by the far-reaching points of the decision. The Pennsylvania is the largest holder of the securities of other railroads in the United States, and if it is upheld by the supreme court it will practically mean the disintegration of the Pennsylvania system.

In spite of the flurry that has been caused by the decision, many receive it with relief as the uncertainty of the outcome of the suit has been an unsettling factor in the market for a long time. The fact that today is a holiday on the exchange is also looked on as fortunate, as the radical nature of its text might possibly make today another "Black Friday," rather than the present "Good Friday."

Excuse me, Craymer, I must go to Boehmer for my Easter shoes.

Paterson Police Take Members of Religious Army Into Custody.

PATERSON, N. J., April 10.—Maj. Dunham and all his Salvation Army band have been arrested while holding a street meeting here. They were taken to the police station where they were charged with disorderly conduct. On promising to appear in the police court when wanted they were allowed to go.

The members of the army have been repeatedly warned by the police that complaints have been made against them by merchants for blocking the streets. Maj. Dunham, it is declared, said he had "a constitutional right" to use the street.

FLOATS SHOW PUBLIC WORK

City of St. Louis Will Furnish Elaborate Display in Civic Parade.

The City of St. Louis will be represented in the civic parade May 2 during the dedication ceremonies of the World's Fair. City departments will probably have floats illustrating the various branches of municipal government in a great city.

May 2 will be Governor's day, and it is expected a large number of state and city employes from all over the country will be present.

A meeting was held Thursday at the office of Mayor Wells to discuss arrangements to have the city represented. Mayor Wells suggested the idea of floats.

It is planned to make the city's display much finer than anything seen at the Veiled Prophet, Mardi Gras, Priests of Pallas or Mountain and Plain Festivals.

Something Many Lung Sufferers Are Told They Cannot Hope to Be.

Wolff-Wilson Drug Co.'s Message of Hope to Victims of Lung Trouble, Hacking Coughs and Wasting Disease.

The evidence that Vinol is the greatest cough and lung medicine ever prescribed is accumulating daily. Our latest report is that from a man in Pennsylvania, who tells in his own words over his signature just how Vinol cured him of lung trouble. The remarkable thing about the action of Vinol is its promptness. Hardly does the patient take a single dose when he begins to feel better. One bottle will help you far along the road to recovery and health.

"I feel that I must write you and tell you of the great good your medicine has done me. I can hardly express my thanks for what your Vinol has done for me. I suffered terribly with lung trouble and thought I would never get well. A friend recommended your Vinol to me. I tried one bottle and was so much improved in condition and looks that I continued taking it. After taking two bottles I was completely cured. My friends all wonder at my improved looks as well as health. I feel like a new man. I'll never fail to recommend your Vinol to those who are suffering. You may use this testimonial if you wish." James Y. Arndt, Middletown, Dauphinee Co., Pennsylvania.

We want every one with a cough, bronchitis or effects of grip, pneumonia, typhoid fever or other acute disease; everyone who is thin and pale, worn, debilitated, nervous, unable to sleep or eat well, suffering from indigestion, or from poor, thin blood; puny children, tired women, nursing mothers, feeble old people, to try Vinol. This will, in case the medicine fails to help you, be entirely at our expense, as we will agree to refund the money if you are not satisfied. If you cannot call in person, send us $1 by mail and we will send you a bottle of Vinol by express, all charges prepaid to your door, and give you back your money promptly if Vinol will not do all we promise. WATTERSON ON NEGRO PROBLEM

He Says It Can Be Solved by Time and Evolution Only.

CHICAGO, April 10.—At the annual banquet of the Hamilton Club, Henry Watterson of Louisville spoke on the negro question. He said in part:

"I grew up to regard the institution of African slavery as a monstrous evil. With a gray jacket on my back I abated no part of my abhorrence of it. The war over, I fully realized that the negro could not be suspended, like Mohammet's coffin, in the mother air, neither fish, flesh or fowl; that he must be made a freeman in fact, as he was in name; that he must be rehabilitated to his new belongings, and I promptly accepted the last three amendments to the constitution as the treaty of peace between the North and the South, and went to work in good faith to help carry them out.

"After 30 years of observation, experience and reflection—always directed from a sympathetic point of view—I am forced to agree with the secretary of war that negro suffrage is a failure. It is a failure because the southern blacks are not equal to it. It is a failure because the southern whites will not have it.

In the bettering of his condition, and in the acquisition of property, starting with nothing, he has made wondrous progress the last five and thirty years; and, relatively, greater progress at the South than at the North. He could not have done this without the sympathy and co-operation of the Southern whites.

"He has made little progress in the arts of self-government, either North or South, because of the agitation which has kept him in a state of perpetual excitement, with no healthful public opinion to moderate it, and has been made the sport and prey of political exigency, always selfish, and with respect to him more or less visionary and heedless.

"The negro can never become in any beneficient, or genuine sense, an integral and recognized part of the body politic, except through the forces of evolution, which are undoubtedly at work, but which in the nature of the case must needs go exceedingly slow, where there is one negro fit for citizenship, there are myriads of negroes wholly unfit. The hothouse process has been tried and it has failed.

"If, invested with every right enjoyed by the whites, the blacks, gaining in all things else, have brought corruption into the suffrage and discredit upon themselves, is it not a kind of madness further to press artificial methods, which, however, justified theoretically from educational look outs in Michigan, Iowa and Wisconsin, fall helpless to the ground I nitheir practical application to the semi-barbarous toilers in the cotton fields and corn lands of Alabama, Georgia and South Carolina.

An expedition under control of Mr. Eskenstein has started for the Himalayas with the intention of climbing to the highest point in the world, the peak of Mount Everest. The ascent is expected to occupy several years.

NEW YORK SOCIETY GIRLS WITH SLEEVES ROLLED UP

Ultra-Fashionable Young Folk Learn the Mystery of Pie Making and Graduate as Cooks.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, April 10.—Domesticity has shared with cotillons and theater parties in the activities of young ladies of New York's smart set who yesterday finished their winter term in cooking school. The result is that it would now be difficult to find in the Blue Book the name of a debutante who cannot prepare a filet of beef as neatly as she can pin on a cotilion favor.

These society buds have found the low neck and short sleeves of gingham dresses for the kitchen quite as becoming as the belt, bouquet and shoulder straps of a Worth gown. They can talk pie and mutton chops with the thriftiest housewife.

Some of the debutantes who have baked and stewed and roasted over a kitchen range are Dorothy Roosevelt, Elizabeth Auchinocloss, Blanche Underwood, Alice G. Agnew, Gertrude M. Sanford, Jessie Wood, Mrs. Frank S. Crocker, Louise D. Vanderbilt, Lillian Vanderbilt, Juliet S. Benedict, Caroline Young, Laura Low, Glayds Vanderbilt, Marian Blagden, Isabella Wetherill, Rosalie Campbell, Jean Hancy, Effie Wadington, Janet Fish, Edith Poor and Edith Sybil Douglas.

Some of the society leaders who contribute largely toward the support of the school are Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Miss Helen Gould, Mrs. Hugh Auchincloss, Mrs. John Kennedy, Mrs. Iselin, Mrs. William D. Sloan, Mrs. Morris K. Jesup, Mrs. Henry Fairfield Osborn, Mrs. Andrew Carnegie, Mrs. E. J. Berwind, Mrs. Calwalader Jones and Mrs. Henry E. Howland.

ALLIGATORS FOR LEVEES

They Are the Natural Foe of the Muskrat and Are Good Protectors.

NEW ORLEANS, April 1[illegible].—It is proposed to protect the levees of the Mississippi with alligators.

This may seem a strange assertion but when it is known that most of the breaks are caused by muskrats and that the alligator is the natural enemy of the muskrat the wisdom of the idea is plain.

"A muskrat," says Major Robert Strong, general agent of the Texas & Pacific railroad, "is about the worst enemy a levee can have, and there are thousands and thousands of them all up and down the river. They look very much like the overgrown rats that we see every day in the gutters here, except that they are bigger and haven't got half the courage.

"A muskrat is about the most cowardly thing I know of, and for this reason it is extremely hard to kill, taking to its burrow at the least noise. A dead muskrat, though, is worth just 25 cents, and some wary hunters make a pretty good thing of it following the business of killing them. If a man can get five or six of them a day he can manage to get along very nicely in the parishes, where living is not so high as it is here.

"It is a question in my mind whether muskrats or crawfishes do the most harm to the levees. There are more crawfishes than muskrats, but a muskrat bores a hole bigger than a rabbit, and he goes from one side of the levee to the other. When the hole is completed it makes a mighty fine start for a break.

"There are some people who say that there are more muskrats in this country now than ever before. I don't know about that, but there are a great many of them. The people who make this claim say that ever since the destruction of the alligator the muskrat has been thriving apace. The alligator is the natural devastator of the muskrat tribe. One alligator, in good health, can kill more muskrats in a day than a small army of huntsmen."

INTERMARRIED CITIZENS.

They Have Organized to Fight for Their Rights.

VINITA, I. T., April 1[illegible].—A convention of delegates representing the intermarried citizens of the Cherokee nation has been held here for the purpose of preparing the defense of the intermarried citizens in the case recently referred to the court of claims by the secretary of the interior. Five hundred delegates attended the convention. Capt. William Jackson of Wagoner, I. T., was elected president of the convention and R. A. Hosey secretary.

The convention authorized the employment of an attorney for the intermarried citizens before the court of claims. The fee is fixed at $4500 and expenses.

The question before the court of claims involves the right of the intermarried citizens to share in the division of the Cherokee lands, and no allotments are being made to this class of citizens pending the decision of the court of claims. The convention was addressed by Col. Samuel Peele of Arkansas, Attorney White of Washington, W. T. Hutchings, W. W. Hastings and W. P. Thompson.

POSTAL ORDER SWINDLE.

Successfully Worked Upon the Merchants at El Paso, Tex.

EL PASO, Tex., April 1[illegible].—Three business houses here have just been swindled out of sums ranging from $20 to $50 by a stranger, who induced them to cash postoffice money orders.

The orders were payable to William M. Shoad, and when presented at the postoffice it was discovered that the figures had been erased and changed. The man went toward Dallas.

Crashes Into Conservatory.

Monahan, who lives at 922 North Fifteenth street, was painting a cornice when he fell. It is believed he will recover.

PLANCHETTE IN LONDON COURT

SOMETHING UNUSUAL IN ENGLISH PRACTICES

The Case Has Remarkable Features as Showing the Influence of Spirits in Worldly Affairs.

LONDON, April 10.—Spirtis are playing an important part in a trial which has now for several hearings occupied the chancery court in London. Mysterious messages of "spooks," as conveyed through the instrumentality of a "planchetta," are engaging the attention of judge and counsel and the interested parties, while countless believers and unbelievers of the outside public find in the revelations of the witness box, from day to day, an absorbing topic for discussion.

It is some time since spiritualism has been so prominent in a law court. The case of Cavendish vs. Strutt and others is likely to be quoted as one of the most remarkable tales outside of the sphere of fiction in which alleged manifestations of extramundane influences are the dominant factor.

The plaintiff, Henry Sheppard Hart Cavendish, now about 26 years of age, has in a comparatively brief career acquired a good deal of notoriety. He has hunted large game in eastern and central Africa. Soon after he left Eton he was away exploring the region of Lake Rudolph, and achieved enough with his expedition to give an address before the Royal Geographical Society, and later on traveled and hunted in Canada and Patagonia, where he went in search of the ground sloth, in company with a South Kensington naturalist. If the government had not prevented, out of deference to international complications, Mr. Cavendish might have been at Fashoda long before Marchand, but this piece of fortune was denied him, though his intended expedition created much interest at the time.

How Cavendish Began Life.

Mr. Cavendish started life well endowed with worldly goods. As the eldest son of a great-grandson of the second Baron Waterpark, he came into large estates in Buckinghamshire and Staffordshire on attaining his majority in 1897. His parents were both dead, and he had the absolute enjoyment of property valued at about $1,750,000. Three years previously he had made the acquaintance of Maj. Charles Henry Strutt, a retired Indian army officer, who was engaged in company promoting. The friendship ripened until after one of his East African journeys, Mr. Cavendish asked the Major to look after his correspondence for him. It was at an anxious time, as, in addition to suffering from a bad attack of neuritis, Mr. Cavendish had an affair of the heart. He confided to Maj. Strutt his hopes of becoming engaged to the well-known actress Miss Isabel Jay. In a few months time, the Major and Mr. Cavendish took a house jointly at Buckingham Gate, and in 1901 Maj. Strutt and his wife, on their removal to Maidenhead, received Mr. Cavendish in their house, Mr. Cavendish contributing $150 a week to the cost of living. The engagement with Miss Jay was at this time broken off, and the young explorer was in conquence much upset.

Maj. Strutt was now fully admitted to Mr. Cavendish's confidence as to his financial affairs. They had been seriously embarrassed by the failure of his solicitors, Messrs. Lake & Lake, but there were ample means left at his disposal. For some reason or other he now changed his firm of lawyers, taking in the place of Messrs. Taylor & Taylor Mr. A. W. Ranger, a solicitor of Fenchurch street.

At this point comes in the spiritual agency on which so much turns in the issue of the case. Mr. Cavendish alleges that he was induced to employ Mr. Ranger by a message purporting to come from the spirit of his mother, through Mrs. Strutt as a medium, advising him what he should do.

Before going to Maidenhead Mr. Cavendish had never heard of a "planchette," but it soon became an indispensable part of the day's occupation to consult its advice.

Description of the Planchette.

The "planchette" is a thin piece of heart shaped wood of about the dimensions of a dinner plate. It is raised about an inch from the surface of the table, on which it does its work, by two castors at each side of the board end, and by a pencil passed through a hole in the wood at the apex. The point of the pencil rests on the table, and the writing is done by the pencil on sheets of paper laid flat on the table, over which the planchette, when it moves at all, travels under the hands of the operators. Each of the two operators places the fingers of both hands lightly on the top of the planchette, and under certain conditions the instrument sets to work and scribbles answers to anything that may be asked.

The mystic instrument was procured by Mrs. Strutt after various other forms of spiritualism had been tried, and on the second day she was able to write with it. When the planchette was writing Mrs. Strutt told Mr. Cavendish there would be messages from his mother. These duly arrived, and purported to say that his mother had been trying very hard to get into communication with him, and thanked Mrs. Strutt for being the means, also saying that she would advise him through Mrs. Strutt on everything, business or otherwise, and that nothing would be done without consulting Major and Mrs. Strutt in every way.

Mr. Cavendish, in his evidence, declared that he certainly believed absolutely the communications came from his mother. They were transmitted by means of the planchette, and they came to him daily.

Seances took place at all times of the day, both before and after lunch, and sometimes a message would come telling them to be at a certain place at the time they were having their meals. They would sometimes, on the arrival of a message, adjourn to the drawing room and afterward come back and finish their meal. The writing was occasionally very fast and sometimes was quite illegible. The messages totalled up to thousands. He was told to put his money into acetylene gas shares. Mrs. Strutt began writing with a pencil alone without the aid of planchette, and a great many religious and business matters were mentioned. He was advised to leave Messrs. Taylor, his solicitors, so he went to Mr. Ranger to consult the spirit of his mother. He asked whether he could trust in him and the answer was, "Certainly; he is a servant of the Lord." He was also put into communication with the archangels Michael and Gabriel. They sent a lot of prayers and poetry and stories of processions in heaven. They were consulted in some business matters and the advice always coincided with that of Maj. and Mrs. Strutt. Miss Jay was sometimes the subject of communications.

She Covered the Ground.

From the New York Sun.

A small Harlem girl was sent by her mother to apologize to a schoolmate with whom she had crossed words on the way home. The mother of the insulted child admitted the bearer of the apology to the parlor and the child was brought in. "Little girl, I am sorry I called you a Protestant dog," said the apologist. "Ain't you sorry you called me a Cat'lic cat?"

TO PROTECT THE LOWER LEVEES

Plan to Build Levees Around Each Other and Thus Make Them Safe.

NEW ORLEANS, April 10.—William McGaughan of Gulfport, Miss., and his brother, Harper, are no wattempting to get the farmers, and for that matter the national and state governments, to take up an idea that they promise, if carried out, will absolutely protect lowlands from overflows. They have a system which they patented nine years ago, and which has been generally advertised in the newspapers. It is that certain levees should be built in and around each other, with outlets, sublevees, subsidiary embankments and the like. There are channels reaching to lower basins or reservoirs into which the surplus waters may be received and drained away to some other outlet.

"By the construction of such channels," said Mr. McCaughan, "a portion of the water from the main stream is led off through the outlet channel, and, in order to prevent the water from the main stream from entering the outlet channel at all times a dam is constructed across the channel, near its mouth, which dam is of a predetermined height, being lower than that part of the levees, and just high enough to permit overflow when the danger point in the altitude of the main stream is reached. This dam is inclined on each side of its middle to permit a steady rise upon the river side, an dan easy and gradual flow upon the other side to prevent violent washing and the destruction of the dams.

"The levees and dams are constructed of any desirable material. Then, in order to protect the entrance to the channel fenders are constructed at each corner of the junction of the main stream and overflow channel, which fenders extend some distance up an ddown stream. These fenders prevent the washing of corners, and to prevent the washing of the dams it is provided with a noncorrosive face. The fenders are made of piles, with heavy plank of timber facing, and the noncorrosive face of the dam is also constructed of sheet piles driven perpendicularly across the outlet channel. It is obvious, however, that both the fenders and face of the dam may be built of masonry or any suitable material without departing from our invention.

"My brother and I have always lived around water; we have watched the floods of the Mississippi for years, and years ago set about trying to improve upon the Cowden outlet theory. We think we have done so. Another person patented our idea, but after some correspondence we had this patent set aside and our substituted. We[illegible] siderable extent among engineers and planters, but there is not one to whom we have ters, but there is not one to whom we have shown our plans who has not agreed with me that ours is the practical scheme, one that is not costly and that will mean absolute protection to the varied interests that lie along the banks of the great river annually menaced by floods.

"The cost? Nominal. Three of our outlets would be sufficient for the protection of the lands between Baton Rouge and the mouth of the river, and the cost of the construction of each outlet need not exceed $1000. We hope to hear from farmers on this scheme. If they will take it up they may be sure of protection from floods."

TEXAS PYTHIANS.

Arrangements Made for Holding the Meeting of Grand Lodge.

FORT WORTH, Tex., April 10.—The entertainment committee of the Knights of Pythias, which has charge of the grand lodge meeting to be held here the 28th, 29th and 30th of this month, have selected the Delaware hotel as headquarters for the grand lodge. Room of Winters & Daniels will be the headquarters of the public comfort committee. The city office of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas railway will be the headquarters of the general committee, where ample arrangements have been made for the convenience of the visitors. Knights of Pythias letterheads have been printed with the cut of the Fort Worth Temple for the occasion. Badges have been ordered.

The Monterey (Mexico) steel plant, with a capital of about $4,000,000 gold, in which several wealthy Americans are largely interested, started working on the first of this month. It is expected to produce 500 tons a day.

ALABAMA SOLDIERS.

Roster of Those Who Served in Civil War Being Completed.

MONTGOMERY, April 10.—A complete roster of Alabamians who served in the war between the states will soon be compiled. From time to time during the last quarter of a century attempts have been made to secure such a roster, but it was never completed and the files now in the office of the adjutant-general at the capitol furnish little information.

Under a request of the governor from the secretary of war at Washington to furnish the war department with the roster, Gov. Jelks has commissioned Thomas M. Owen, director of the state department of archives and history, to gather the data. Mr. Owen has begun the work and is meeting with very gratifying co-operation from the camps of veterans, the chapters of daughters and individuals interested. In a communication to Mr. Owen, Col. Ainsworth, chief of the record and pension office at Washington, states that the Alabama rolls on file are quite incomplete.

He also set out the kind of data desired. For instance, the Washington department will accept none except the original copies of the rolls made during the period of war. It is believed that practically all of these rolls are now in existence, and Mr. Owen makes earnest appeal that persons now in possession of them forward them to him at Montgomery at as early a date as possible. These rolls will be of vast interest to future historians, and this is why it is hoped to get them absolutely full and correct.

CAN'T STRIKE FOR UNION RECOGNITION

New York Court Decides That Is Not a Legal Cause.

NEW YORK, April 10.—One of the most important legal decisions ever announced in the state on the question of the right of a labor union to order a strike has just been handed down by the appellate division of the supreme court.

It is in effect that a labor union has not the right to order its men to quit work where they are in receipt of wages demanded by the organization and where there is no attempt to employ nonunion workers, but where the only question over which there is any difference is a refusal of the employer to recognize the union or its representative.

Mme. Yale's Hair Tonic is prized equally by men and women, particularly when the hair begins to weaken or fade Cures baldness, grayness, splitting of the hair, dandruff and all diseases of the hair, scalp and beard. ST. LOUIS STREET CAR PASSENGERS GET CARBON DIOXIDE DIET FOR LUNGS

Eighteen cubic feet of air. That is what the St. Louis street car companies provide for each passenger.

Once upon a time two nations were engaged in war. One was civilized, the other semi-barbaric—at least in its notions of revenge. The semibarbaric one captured some prisoners. In order to torture them, it shut them in a prison where little or no air was supplied.

The story of their horrible death is told in almost all books on physiology and hygiene. The amount of air supplied to passengers on crowded cars is but one remove from that given to the Englishmen who died in the Black Hole of Calcutta.

Health Commissioner Starkloff said in regard to the amount of air that should be given persons: "In lodging houses the limit should be 400 cubic feet of air to each person. It would be better if that limit was raised to 600."

High Pulse Is Induced.

The difference between 18 and 400, not to say 600, is rather large. Experts who have made a study of the street car conditions say that the effect of lack of air on street car passengers is rapid, irregular breathing, high pulse and a tendency toward higher temperature. Of course, this is corrected as soon as the passenger gets into the open air, but the effect remains in the system. Were a man compelled to live in a place where there were only 18 cubic feet of air, he would be ill and near to death in less than an hour.

On a St. Louis street car he has so many fellow sufferers that he forgets to complain. He practices football tactics trying to get on the car, then does acrobatic stunts while the motorman tries the brake or turns a curve. Should he chance to be seated, he takes turns holding the different persons whom lurches of the car deposit in his lap. If standing, he gets kicked and crowded and jerked until he doesn't know whether he is wearing his own overcoat or that of the man three feet ahead of him.

Usually he is too thankful that he is not a woman to say a word. The women of St. Louis suffer more on the crowded street cars than their brothers.

Besides having to suffer from lack of air, besides having their hats knocked in and out and a half dozen other directions, besides having their skirts jerked and trampled on worse than if they were in the wildest of bargain sales, women are often compelled to listen to language not fit for any ears. The language is that of men who have been caused to forget their respect for women because of the bad ventilation or the demoralizing effect of the crowd.

Some cars receive their ventilation when the doors are opened, while some poor unfortunates tightly wedged in the center of the car wade toward the door. The open door gives cold air and perhaps lets out some of the inside mixture, but its purifying effect is not great.

Ninety-Four in Single Car.

St. Louis street cars are on an average 38 feet long, 8 feet wide and 10 feet high at their greatest height. Allowing for the space at the side of the cars, the average height of the cars is 7½ feet. This gives each car an average breathing space of 2160 cubic feet. The average car has a seating capacity for forty persons and standing room for as many more as will attempt to crowd in. From an average taken from records, a number of 94 was found to be the average number of persons riding on crowded cars during the busy hours in the morning and evening.

Allowing for the air displaced by car fixtures and passengers' bodies, not more than 18 cubic feet of air remains for each person.

Mrs. Louis Marion McCall, in speaking of the present condition of street cars, said:

"I can see no way out of the difficulty except the addition of more cars to the service, especially during the busy hours. I think that when a car is once filled, that is when all its seats are taken, that the car should stop for no more passengers, but should go on. Sometimes we are to blame for the crowds. I have heard conductors request persons about to get on the car to wait until another car, less crowded, came. Passengers seldom heed such requests.

"The crowded cars add to their other inconveniences, the fact that they are not clean. Little rivers of tobacco juice are under the seats, and one can scarcely keep one's clothing from wiping up the floor. It might be well if portions of the car were reserved for ladies.

"That part of the car, I can assure you, would be kept clean and the bad results think if the women of St. Louis would speak to their husbands about spitting in cars, that nuisance could be easily abated. The Civic Improvement League is endeavoring to have an enactment passed that will cause persons breaking certain rules of the Board of Health to be fined. That may help the street car situation.

"I think the demand for more cars must come from the public. If that demand is made sufficiently emphatic, I think the request will be affirmatively answered."

Open Doors a Blessing.

Mrs. John W. Day, wife of the pastor of the Church of the Messiah, approved of the sentiments expressed by Mrs. McCall. Especially did she commend the idea of the public making its wants known to the proper authorities. Both of these ladies avoid, as much as possible, going down town during the busy hours.

Mrs. Mary Calkins, president of the Golden Chain Humane Society, who rides from one end of St. Louis to the other on cars that are crowded and those that are not, had this to say about the street cars of St. Louis: "One is saved from being overcome from want of sufficient air on most St. Louis crowded cars because the doors are seldom closed. They can't be shut, for if they were, some persons would be cut in two. The persons are so jammed on the cars that every available place is taken up.

"Should you happen to get on the wrong car, you must take chances of going to the end of the line before you can ask the conductor, he is so busy trying to get through the aisle that is no aisle.

"Sometimes you ask the conductor for a transfer, and before he gives it to you other duties call him and he forgets. Then you've broken a rule, and you're lucky if you get a transfer at all. The transfers themselves might be Chinese laundry tickets, as far as reading them is concerned. You must know if your transfer is correct.

"When you get into a crowded car it is so pleasant to fall over the coupler that is kept just before the door of the car. I have tripped over couplers three times since last spring, and each time have hurt my ankle. The crowded cars are the cause of other evils than physical ones. The crowd seems to have a demoralizing effect.

"My only solution to the problem is more cars. More cars would mean less persons for one conductor to manage, and other matters might receive more attention."

Excuse me, Craymer, I must go to Boehmer for my Easter shoes.

Kerchief Stops Bullet.

The particular brand of cartridges and revolvers used by Farmer John Buford of Ellisville, St. Louis County, might do for sham battles, but they would not do for President Roosevelt in hunting big game. Buford tried a square shot at his brother-in-law, Jesse Hewitt, from the rear, and hit the mark, but even at 20 paces the bullet did not penetrate a handkerchief Hewitt was carrying in his pocket. Buford has given bond to appear to answer to a charge of assault with intent to kill.

Excuse me, Craymer, I must go to Boehmer for my Easter shoes.

$200,000 WEDDING GIFTS CARRIED IN PAPER BOX

Presents to Miss Neilson in View of Approaching Marriage to Reginald Vanderbilt Are Taken to Newport Safety Vaults in Disguise.

NEWPORT, R. I., April 10.—In a pasteboard bandbox, that appeared to contain nothing more valuable than a new hat, the $200,000 worth of jewels which has been presented to Miss Cathleen Neilson as wedding gifts, have been brought here from New York.

The package was under the care of Chief of Police Richards of Newport.

Reginald Vanderbilt went to Wickford and met the party, which was driven rapidly to the Aquidneck bank, where the jewels were placed in a safe deposit vault.

In the vault the box was opened to afford Mr. Vanderbilt an opportunity to inspect the jewels.

The presents were removed from the Neilson residence in New York under a strong guard of detectives and private watchmen. However, only Chief Richards went to the train. Next Tuesday the presents will be taken to Arleigh, Mrs. Neilson's cottage, for a private exhibition to intimate friends of the Vanderbilt and Neilson families. They will be kept there under heavy guard until after the wedding.

WASHINGTON'S HATCHET FOUND

Queer Little Antique Is Discovered by Workmen at His Mother's Home—It May Be the Cherry Tree Article.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

RICHMOND, Va., April 10.—In making repairs to the old house in Fredericksburg where Mary, the mother of George Washington, lived and died, and where the father of his country often visited, a little hatchet of antiquated pattern has been found.

Workmen in renovating one of the rooms discovered the little hatchet, all covered with rust. It was of a pattern in use many, many years ago. The rumor was at once started that it was the historic weapon with which Washington made his memorable attack on the cherry tree and in connection with which he made his first and lasting reputation for veracity.

It is probable that the hatchet will be presented to the Mount Verson Memorial Association, to be treasured at Washington's beautiful home on the Potomac along with the many other Washington relics that are stored there.

GERMANY BARS MANY PRODUCTS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—The German government has sent official notice to Washington that the following products of the United States can no longer be imported into Germany:

Canned meats, sausages or other preparations of chopped meats.

Meats cured with preservatives of any kind.

Fresh meats, unless in the whole bodies of the animals, containing all parts necessary for a sanitary examination. With cattle and hogs it is is permitted to cut the body into halves.

Corned or salt meat, in pieces weighing less than 4 kilograms, excepting ham and bacon.

Potatoes or any sack in which American potatoes may have been put.

Grape vines, grape-leaves, props or posts.

Live plants or parts of them, or any receptacle used for packing or storing live plants.

Artificially prepared sweet substances, or articles of food containing sweet substances.

Notices to this effect will be sent out by the departments at Washington to all subdepartments in the various cities. The exclusion of these articles will, it is believed, work much hardship upon several branches of the export trade of this country. All meats not specifically barred are subject to examination in Germany.

THREE BURIED BY ENGINE.

ELIZABETH, N. J., April 10.—Owing to the spreading of the rails, a drill engine on the Central Railroad of New Jersey left the track and plunged down a 20-foot embankment into a pond today. The engineer and fireman and a brakeman were buried under the engine. The brakeman was taken out alive, but died soon after he had been taken to a hospital.

CHICAGO, April 10.—Lieut. Maurice Moore of the Twenty-second street police station and four Italians were wounded by revolver shots in a riot at an early hour today.

The trouble started in a saloon. A post-election argument was started and several blows were struck. The crowd, composed chiefly of Italians, then surged out to the sidewalk, where pistols and knives were drawn.

WOMEN CROWD SMOKING-ROOM

Throngs Visit the Fifth Avenue Resort of Mrs. Jacob Vanderbilt.

THERE THEY GOSSIP AND PUFF CIGARETTES

No Actresses or Bohemians, but Real Society Women Are Her Patrons, She Says, and Predicts Success for Her Venture.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, April 10.—"At last an oasis!"

Miss Society leans over the daintily appointed reed tea table and gazes contentedly through the smoke curling from the gold-tipped Turkish cigarette in her dainty fingers.

There are many reasons why the fair smoker should be contented, for every gold-tipped cigarette she places between her lips bears the name of Vanderbilt—Mrs. Jacob Vanderbilt—and the attractive tea table upon which she rests her jeweled hand is part of the new "Paradise" for women which Mrs. Vanderbilt and her partner, Mlle. de Monnier, have opened at 430 Fifth avenue, in the rear of a Persian rug store.

From the number of patrons who visited the "Japanese tea room" today it looks as if New York women have been pining for a smoke.

Although the smoking room, where my lady may retire from the strenuous duties of shopping or alight from her carriage just to enjoy a quiet puff or so, has been open only a few days, society has "caught on." Most of the women who have entered the Oriental room, with its dull red and green tints, its Japanese and Indian curios, are continental travelers, to whom smoking means nothing more out of the common than taking a cup of tea. The conversation is mostly in French, and Mlle. de Monnier and Mrs. Vanderbilt serve tea and wafers with the cigarettes.

Room Is Thronged Daily.

From 4 until 6 o'clock the little smoking room is filled, and from 11 in the morning until 1, although at all hours of the day some patrons are to be seen there.

"Do you know, it is just what New York needed?" said a stylishly-gowned woman today, whose name is known in the most exclusive circles. "It is what one does abroad, so why cannot New York follow the example? As for me, I enjoy a cigarette when I am tired, or after I have lunched or dined, and it is a blessing to have some place in Fifth avenue where one can drop in and take a smoke in peace."

Her companion, a young matron of 25, who was carelessly flecking the ashes into a unique frog-shaped receiver which Mrs. Vanderbilt prizes among her importations, sighed contentedly.

Mrs. Vanderbilt says that in the few days her tea-room has been open no theatrical persons or bohemians have visited her. The smokers are all society women.

A prominent member of the W. C. T. U. called at the place yesterday afternoon to see what it was like.

"I can't see anything wrong in it," she said, as she glanced at the women who were enjoying their cup of tea or coffee, and their cigarettes, "but then I have traveled abroad enough to become used to such things."

Two Buyers Are Bashful.

Two stylishly gowned young women of about 19 sat down at one of the tables and looked longingly at the smokers surrounding them.

Finally they asked timidly and with reddened cheeks for cigarettes. Each bought a box, but hurried out of the room without smoking them.

"We've always wanted some place to buy cigarettes, but this is the first place we have ever known where women can go and get them," they said to Mrs. Vanderbilt.

"It is my first venture into earning money and I think it is delightful. I enjoy handling the imported goods, and as for the smoking room I believe it is an acceptable innovation. Women want to smoke, but no one has had the courage before to establish a place downtown for them. Of course, women who travel abroad acquire the habit of smoking, and with these my tea-room seems to have found favor," said Mrs. Vanderbilt.

"I suppose, of course, I will be censured by some for opening a smoking room for women, but if people could only understand how harmless it is, and how restful, they would not criticise. The woman who comes here to smoke does not remain over half an hour, and she rarely ever smokes more than one cigarette. Of course, this is the very first place of its kind in this country, and every departure from the paths of convention is met with more or less criticism. It is only the better class of women abroad who smoke, and my patrons are the better class of Americans.

"The Crown Princess of Roumania was the first woman I ever saw smoke a cigarette. I was surprised, but I soon became used to it, and I believe that the prejudice against cigarette smoking among American women will disappear now that some one has had the courage to open a place like this."

IS NOW OUT OF DISTRESS

Mrs. Mary Rosenau Thanks the People of St. Louis for Their Generous Assistance.

"I thank the people of St. Louis, and especially the Post-Dispatch, for their great kindness to me during my trouble. I shall be able to get along now, because of the assistance I have received."

Mrs. Mary Rosenau of 1853 Elliot avenue said this to a representative of the Post-Dispatch when she was given $32 from "The Mirror" Friday morning. Mrs. Rosenau's sad case of destitution at the time of the death of her husband and child last week, aroused much sympathy and gifts of money and clothing were sent to her and her seven children through the Post-Dispatch and in other ways. Some checks were mailed to her. She is now able to be up. Her son, Daniel, aged 10, has obtained work in a department store.

Millie, one of the 3-years-old twins, is working for one of the neighbors. She sweeps and dusts and does errands. Mary, aged 13, is caring for the other children and her sick mother.

As soon as Mrs. Rosenau is stronger, she will put her house in order and rent out several of the rooms. Then Mary will get employment.

A new speed record of 27 seconds for the kilometer was made by the Hon. C. S. Rolls in Nottinghamshire, England. A 72 horsepower Mors racer was used, and the rate at which it traveled was equal to 83 miles an hour.

PREFERRED TO GO TO JAIL.

Negro Said It Was Better Than Being Photographed and Is Now in Holdover.

"I would rather go to jail than have my picture taken."

This remark by Henry Lewis, a negro, is the cause of his being in the holdover at the Four Courts Friday.

Special patrolman A. J. Gordon with a small kodak in his hand, was passing by the corner of Chestnut and Broadway Thursday evening, when Lewis uttered the comment.

Gordon thought Lewis might be a fugitive from justice, so he took him to the Chestnut street station. He did not give what the police considered a satisfactory account of himself, and he is now under investigation.

JAIL FOR ELECTION BOARD.

Chicago Organization Adjudged Guilty of Contempt by Court.

CHICAGO, April 10.—The members of the board of election comissioners and Chief Clerk Rowell were today adjudged by Judge Haney guilty of contempt of court in opening and counting the ballots cast for Lorimer and Durborow in the Sixth congressional district, in violation of the injunction issued to restrain such action, and were fined $100 each. They refused to pay and an order was entered for their commitment to the county jail. They will remain technically in the custody of the sheriff until next week, when habeas corpus proceedings will be begun in the supreme court.

WIFE WAS THE WINNER

Joseph Fleisch Got the Best of His Wife in First Round, but She Triumphed in Other Two.

Joseph Fleisch, in a three-round bout with his wife, Josephine Fleisch of 3565 Kraclusko street, was victor in only the first. In the second and third he was dismastrously routed. He fully realized his defeat when he awoke in the Second District Police Station, Friday morning.

Fleisch started the trouble late Thursday night and for a time he had things all his own way in beating Mrs. Fleisch, but when she tired of he sport she used a tin bucket on his head with such effect that he had to be helped to the South Side Dispensary when Dr. Frank dressed the wounds and pronounced them not serious.

A policeman had established himself as referee at this time and he decided after both principals had told their story that Fliesch had better be locked up, and that ended the third round.

NO LOCAL STOCK CURB.

Discussion of Yesterday's Decision Is the Sole Topic Today.

But few of the local brokers were at their offices this morning, and those few showed but little interest in local stocks.

Not a bid nor offer was noted at any of the offices and no inclination to do business was apparent.

Most of the St. Louis brokers are directly interested in the New York market and what affects these securities is of interest here. The sole topic of discussion was the decision rendered yesterday in the Northern Securities case, and this was discussed from all points and views of the outcome were widely divergent. The general impression, however, seemed toward the idea that it would ultimately be for the good of the general market and would put a much needed check on what many consider a period of over capitalization.

The Worship of War.

From Leslie's Weekly.

We are apparently witnessing in this country today a recrudescence of the spirit that counts nothing first of life or treasure so long as it is sacrificed at the altar of the war god. We must ape the powers of Europe in the composition of our army and in the money we spend in preparation for defense and offense, regardless of the fact that we have not even the excuse of the European nations for all the vast overflow of needless, wasteful and extravagant expenditure, because we are not hedged about as each of them is, by jealous and watchful neighbors armed to the teeth and with troops "always ready to act." If we are a sane and enlightened people, as we claim to be, we will repress this rising war passion before we also are drawn by it into another bloody conflict with all its aftermath of sorrow, misery and unending pension rolls.

The marine cable industry was confronted by a scarcity of guttapercha, which is used to insure the wires, until a tree producing it was found on the Amazon. Now it has been discovered in abundance in German New Guinea.

CITIZENS ROUT SAFE ROBBERS IN A BATTLE

TWO SAFES CRACKED AT THE SAME TIME

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SEDALIA, Mo., April 10.—Burglars blew open the vault of the Bank of Smithton, eight miles east of here, early this morning, but were frightened away before they could crack the safe, where the money was kept.

The vault was badly damaged and books and papers were scattered in all directions.

About the same time, other robbers blew open the safe in Ringen's hardware store at Smithton.

Citizens attracted by the noise responded and a running pistol fight followed.

The men stole a horse and buggy from the farm of John Lamm, near Smithton, before daylight this morning, and drove to the eastern limits of Sedalia, where they hitched and abandoned the outfit.

They are believed to be the persons who blew open the bank vault.

They were seen at a saloon here at 6 a. m., but no trace of them can now be found, and it is feared they escaped on an outgoing train.

A sack, filled with silver dimes, that had been placed in the strong box, was the only money secured from the bank, while at the hardware store nothing was obtained.

The police of this city and authorities throughout the country are looking for the men.

It is believed that the same gang planned both robberies, though different persons were assigned to each place.

The safes were blown in a manner that indicated that professionals did the york.

STANDS UP FOR THE MOUND

Dr. Beal and Other Ethnologists Will Oppose Their Destruction by Oil Men.

Dr. J. H. Beal, president of a college at Scio, O., and a company of ethnologists visited Monk's mound on the Ramey farm Thursday. Dr. Beal proposes preparing a romonstrance to the Illinois legislature in behalf of the Indian mounds that are in the newly discovered oil fields of Madison and St. Clair counties. He claims that the neglect of the mounds is not in keeping with the spirit of Illinois and is caused by ignorance of the true worth of the mounds. He was accompanied by Dr. O. A. Wall, H. M. Wheipley, Prof. F. Hemm, Dr. H. F. Rolfing, Charles Gultmer, Henry Fischer and H. F. A. Spilker.

WOULD INCREASE FAIR BOND

Board of Public Improvements Wants Exposition to Make $650,000 Guarantee to Restore Forest Park.

Angered at the failure of the World's Fair management to give satisfactory assurance that the city will be amply compensated for that part of Forest Park which is now being used for exposition purposes, the board of public improvements Friday morning addressed a communication to Mayor Wells asking him to enforce the board's demand that the exposition bond to insure the restoration of the park to its original picturesqueness be increased from $100,000 to $165,000.

It appears that the board on March 6 sent a letter requesting this insurance, after an expert had been employed to determine just how much it would require to bring about this improvement after the Fair had closed. Nothing of a satisfactory nature came from the World's Fair officials, and as it is desired to settle the matter by April 30—which is dedication day—the question was referred to the mayor.

CRUISER TO AID AMERICANS

The San Francisco Is Sent to Seek Prospectors Said to Be in Danger in Honduras.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—Admiral Coghlan, commanding the Carribean squadron, has cabled that he has sent the cruiser San Francisco to the Patuca river in Honduras to search for the American prospectors reported to be in distress there.

The department has been unable to get any word to or from the prospectors, and it is doubtful as to their whereabouts and fate.

As things have again become quiet in Honduras it is thought that they are safe.

The Olympia, San Francisco and Marietta will leave Honduras Saturday for Pensacola, leaving the Panther to look after the American interests.

STRAP HANGERS "SNUBBED AGAIN!"

STRAP SONG.

Ho! daily we contribute, and gaily do we give
To help the street car people to get along and live;
We yield our nickels freely, for we are easy chaps—

Each month the crowd increases of folks who like to pay
For riding on a trolley in any ancient way;
Of course there's millions in it, in spite of all mishaps,
For none refuse to pay the dues for hanging onto straps.

So let us sing a songlet of easy money made
By those who own the franchise (for which they never paid);
'Tis we who do the paying, and always will, perhaps,

TAKE STRAP HANGERS' MONEY

But No Enumeration of Unfortunates Is Contained in Transit Company's Statement.

Statistics in the St. Louis Transit Co.'s first quarterly statement for 1903, on file with City Register FitzGibbons, shows a large increase in the number of passengers carried this year over the same period of 1902.

According to the report, the number of trips made was 1,248,936; passengers carried, 31,829,032. In 1902 the number of trips made during the first quarter was 1,145,634, and the number of passengers 27,952,340.

In compiling these statistics, the transit company makes no mention of the strap hangers, although the nickels paid by those unfortunates are included in the receipts.

Few of Present Heads of Departments Will Be Reappointed.

Political plums in the shape of City Hall positions worth from $3000 to $5000 a year will be distributed by Mayor Wells within the next 10 days.

It is generally believed that the mayor has already completed his slate and is merely waiting until the Municipal Assembly is formally organized before making it public.

TWO PRESIDENTS FOR FRANCE.

Novel Situation Will Result From Change in Executives.

PARIS, April 10.—President Loubet, in conversation with a friend said there would be two presidents in France, for a short period in the future.

"Taking advantage of the rights conferred upon me by the constitution," said M. Loubet, "I shall ask parliament to designate my successor before the expiration of my term of office."

M. Loubet's action will avoid the necessity of a brief interregnum pending the election of his successor.

FATAL GUN EXPLOSION ON IOWA DUE TO LONG FIRING

Experts Hold Theory That Deterioration of Big Rifle From Frequent Use Responsible for Killing of Three Men.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PENSACOLA, Fla., April 10.—Admiral Higginson's fleet is lying here with flags at half-mast for the men killed by the accident to the 12-inch gun of the Iowa yesterday.

While some sailors on the battleship incline to place the blame for the mishap on the fact that it was the thirteenth shot that stuck in the tube and exploded there, shattering the great steel tube, the general opinion is that the accident was due to the well-known fact that high power guns of great bore can be safely fired but a limited number of times. In the English navy they have been known to bend, that is, to drop an inch at the muzzle with the result that a shot would stick in the bore just as one did in the Iowa's gun. The terrific concussion, enormous heat and great friction work a rapid deterioration in the gun metal straightness and rifling. Most experts believe that some trouble due to the hard usage the guns of the Iowa have had is responsible for the accident.

It was while firing the thirteenth shot at a target in the gulf that the Iowa's forward port 12-inch gun burst from the premature explosion of a shell, instantly killing three men, injuring five and badly damaging the ship.

The gun squad in the turret were not injured and the men who were killed or severely wounded were in the mess hall on the gun deck. Three pieces of the bursted gun, each weighing more than a ton, were driven completely through the spar deck, falling upon the men at mess.

The Iowa had been at target practice for a week and would have finished today. She had made an extraordinary fine record in marksmanship, excelling that made by the Indiana several days ago, when the world's record for heavy gun practice was beaten. While going at a rate of 12 knots an hour past a stationary target, 1700 yards distant three gun crews of 10 men each, made 30 hits in 30 shots.

When the Iowa steamed out to continue firing the weather was again hazy and too thick for ordinary target work. The targets were placed 1400 yards distant and each of the twelve shots from the forward port 12-inch guns had landed, despite the haze.

The chief gunner in the forward turret, under the direction of Lieut. Reed, had prepared the gun for the thirteenth shot. The Iowa was steaming about 14 knots when the order was given to fire. The gun was discharged electrically. There was a smothered sound of an explosion, as the shell exploded midway in the gun. Twelve feet of the gun outside was demolished and it was these pieces that broke through the deck, killing and injuring the men at mess.

The recoil shook up the ship, but even then the men in the turret knew nothing of the explosion. They thought something had happened to the recoil machinery and at once began to look for the trouble. Lieut. Reed was the first to see the accident. He informed those inside the turret and by this time the injured men had begun coming on deck from below. Their heads and faces were bleeding and some of their arms broken and hanging limp at their sides.

Aid was gotten from the Massachusetts and the Iowa proceeded here.

DEAD WITH OPAL ON FINGER

Dressmaker Bought Ring to Prove Stone Was Not Unlucky and Was Asphyxiated One Week Later.

NEW YORK, April 10.—Mrs. Frances Scribner, plump, jolly and 45, laughed at her friends among the dressmakers when they told her opals were unlucky.

"I will get one just to prove they are not," she said.

That was a week ago.

Today she was found dead in her room, accidentally asphyxiated. Her friends who were summoned saw for the first time the opal ring on her finger—a large stone surrounded by diamonds.

A carelessly repaired leak in the gas pipe was the cause of her death. The gas had filled the room while she lay reading Tuesday night.

ZULU QUITS TO BECOME CHIEF

Son of Head of Two Tribes Leaves Columbia, Where He Was Studying to Become a Missionary.

NEW YORK, April 10.—Mandhlakayi Dube, one of the two college students from Zululand in this country, has been called back to Africa to inherit the chieftainey of the two most important tribes of his countrymen in Natal, South Africa.

Mr. Dube's father, Anif Muquawe, is in poor health, and is desirous that his son should succeed him on the throne. Mr. Dube has been in this country for several years acquiring an education to fit him to return to his country to engage in missionary work there for the uplifting of his tribesmen.

Mr. Seme, who is the only other Zulu college student in the United States, also expects to return to Zululand at the completion of his college work in this country to take part in similar employment.

PUSHING WIFE AROUND WORLD

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEWPORT, April 10.—Anton Hanslian, a wood turner of Vienna, who has determined to visit all the countries of the earth pushing a perambulator containing his wife and his yellow-haired little daughter, Leopoldina, has arrived here from Liverpool. He declared that he was merely in transit to anywhere, and, having money and nerve, he was permitted to land. He has pushed the perambulator altogether 18,000 miles in Europe, covering in one day in England 46 statute miles. His burden, counting perambulator, wife and Leopoldina, weighs 400 pounds. He is bound at present for Buffalo, if Teddy Hamilton of the Barnum & Bailey show does not get him.

SHUT CANDY STORES SUNDAYS

Lewiston, Me., Merchants Mean to Retaliate on Sheriff by Making Him Stop Electric Cars.

LEWISTON, Me., April 10.—Interest and indignation are about divided here over the action of Sheriff Cummings, who has undertaken a partial enforcement of the old blue laws by compelling the confectionery shop owners to shut up on Sunday.

These storekeepers are charging discrimination and now threaten to serve papers on the sheriff in an action which will force him to carry his crusade even further and enforce to the very letter all the famous old Puritan statutes.

This will mean, as they propose, that business and labor of all kinds must cease upon the Sabbath, and even the newsboys will be driven from the streets and the electric cars prevented from operating.

HOW DID THE PENNELLS DIE?

Inquiry Into Double Tragedy Following the Burdick Murder.

THE EVENTS WILL BE CONSIDERED AS RELATED

Pennell's Statement, Made With Care to His Stenographer, Will Play an Important Part in the Inquest.

BUFALO, N. Y., April 10.—The joint inquest into the deaths of Arthur R. Pennell and his wife, Jessie Lamb Pennell, which began today, probably will end the inquiry into the Burdick-Pennell tragedy for the present. Later the civil action over the $25,000 insurance, supposed to be payable to Mrs. Burdick, will come up in court. The insurance money on the two policies, amounting to $25,000, has not been paid out by the insurance companies. Attorney Wallace Thayer has demanded that the money be paid to him as trustee. J. Frederick Pennell, administrator of the estate, has made a similar demand. The courts will decide which of the two is entitled to the money.

Doubt as to the authenticity of the statement prepared by Pennell before his death was set aside today when the source whence the statement came was made known. One of the witnesses subpened is Wallace G. Omphalius, formerly employed as a stenographer at Pennell's office. He has the stenographic notes of the statement as it was dictated to him by Pennell. They have been transcribed and the last message from the dead lawyer will be read in court.

Statement Was Prepared With Care.

When Pennell came to prepare the statement in his own defense, he took his notes and called in the stenographer and dictated the first draft of the statement to him. This typewritten draft, Pennell took and worked over and then called in the stenographer a second time and made certain additions to the first draft. Then the new typewritten copy was prepared making a complete statement.

It makes five typewritten pages. Pennell had arranged for Attorney Wallace Thayer to show part of this statement to Mrs. Burdick to see if it met with her full approval or whether she had any changes to suggest in it. He took a copy of it to his home on Cleveland avenue and left it there. Administrator Frederick Pennell found the statement among the papers at his brother's home.

Since the "typical-Yale-man" memorial to Pennell appeared, there has been much talk over it. President Arthur T. Hadley of Yale, who was in Buffalo today, was quoted as follows:

"Arthur R. Pennell, in connection with the Burdick case, did not act like a typical Yale man. So far as I can learn at college Pennell was always a modest, honorable and, as has been said, in general a typical Yale man. It is not well to judge a class, or a man until the legal investigation has been finished. I have no opinion to offer on the matter of the reported defalcations by Pennell. I read that such was announced by a Buffalo lawyer, but as I said before, I will not judge or discuss a case before it is officially settled."

Pennell's Friends Oppose Inquiry.

It is claimed by Pennell's friends that the inquest is for the exclusive purpose of establishing the cause of death and proving a crime if there was one. It is said that the court will have no right to inquire into the financial affairs of Pennell or take testimony bearing on the Burdick murder.

As to the question of crime, it is held that suicide is not a crime under the statute. It is held that, inasmuch as it is self-evident that no statute can fix a penalty to be inflicted upon a dead man, suicide is not a crime, and therefore it will not be proper to inquire into the question of whether Pennell committed suicide or whether he did not.

The insurance companies are greatly interested in this question, and an effort will be made to restrict the inquiries of the court for the purpose of preventing the insurance companies from getting any evidence establishing the suicide theory.

Coatsworth Unfolds His Program.

District Attorney Coatsworth said today:

"I intend at the Pennell inquest to virtually reopen the Burdick inquest. During that inquiry I shall endeavor, with the consent of the court, to bring out as much information as possible tending to clear up the Burdick mystery. I believe that the evidence brought out in the Pennell inquest will be of value as bearing on the murder.

"Then you do not consider that the Burdick case was closed with the Burdick inquest?"

"By no means," was the reply. "I have never considered the Burdick case as being closed. Recent revelations point clearer than ever to Pennell."

Coatsworth said that he had known of the alleged swindling operations of Arthur Pennell for a week.

"I was informed," he said, "that Pennell had been inducing his wife's family and friends in Wayne to allow him to 'invest' their money for them. I was also informed that he gave them fake mortgages on property and kept up the interest payments, in order to cover up his dishonest transactions. I have not investigated the report in detail, but it came to me on such good authority that I am satisfied of its general truth.

Third Case of Its Kind in South Carolina Within a Month Is That of Child of Fourteen.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBIA, S. C., April 10.—Lleia Tiller, 14 years old, one of the twin daughters of S. L. Tiller, a merchant of Camden, killed herself last night by taking strychnine. This is the third tragedy in this state within a month from attempts to whip school children.

WILL REWARDS WOMAN WHO NURSED DYING MAN WHEN RELATIVES FAILED

"Because of my friendship and affection for Lucia [illegible] wife of Joseph Fanger, I devise to her the residue of all my property, real, personal and mixed."

Such was the chief provision in the will of Emil Wolff, 40 years old, who died at the Lutheran Hospital recently after eight weeks of racking pain, during which Mrs. Fanger nursed him constantly.

The estate amounts to a considerable sum, and blood relatives are cut off with $1 each.

Mrs. Fanger resides at 1216 Missouri avenue. She says she only did her duty in caring for Wolff, who had been a valued friend of herself and her husband for 10 years. She performed the kindly offices during his last days with no thought of material reward.

100 MOROS SLAIN IN BATTLE WITH AMERICANS AT BACOLOD

In Desperate Hand-to-Hand Conflict, With Bayonets Against Swords, Capt. Pershing's Forces Capture Fort, Their Casualties Being Three Wounded.

MANILA, April 10.—Capt. Pershing's force captured Bacolod, island of Mindanao, Wednesday, killed a hundred Moros and wounded many others.

Three Americans were wounded.

Pershing's force consisted of Shaw's battalion of the Twenty-seventh Infantry, Kilpatrick's troop of the Fifteenth Cavalry and Chacuair's battery.

Pershing was surveying the west shore lands when the Bacolodians opposed his advance and provoked the fight.

Pershing's force surrounded and attacked their stronghold, first shelling them, and, rushing his troops forward, charged gallantly.

After crossing a deep moat and entering the fort, the Americans engaged the Moros bayonets against krisses.

A hundred of the defenders were killed, including the datto of Panandungan, and many were wounded.

Only three Americans were wounded.

After the capture of the fort it was destroyed.

The Bacolod leaders and the majority of the people of that district had been hostile to the Americans, and encouraged attacks on American camps. They rejected the tenders of American friendship.

It is expected that the defeat of the Bacolodians will result in all the Moros acknowledging American sovereignty.

Pershing's column is going to Hurahuay which is also hostile.

DROPS NEGRO SUFFRAGE PLAN

Union League Club of New York Decides Not to Start Campaign on Behalf of Southern Blacks.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, April 10.—The Union League Club of this city will not undertake a campaign in behalf of the negro of the South. It is the chief Republican club of New York State.

A few days ago resolutions were offered proposing a great campaign in favor of the negro and the cutting down of the representation of southern states in Congress. It was proposed also to supply funds to test the constitutionality of all the new constitutions that eliminate the negro. A report on the question was presented last night to the club by its committee on political reform. The text of the report was not made public, but it is understood that it indorsed resolutions offered at a previous meeting by Gen. Edward C. O'Brien and ex-Senator Warner Miller, protesting against the disfranchisement of negroes in the southern states and sustaining the attitude of President Roosevelt.

After a debate lasting from 5 o'clock until midnight the report was tabled by a vote of 53 to 60. George Whitlock, a Baltimore lawyer, and Robert C. Ogden were those who argued that it would be unwise for the club to take any action on the subject.

$40,000 TOO HIGH FOR DEATH

New York Supreme Court Reverses Lower Tribunal on Amount of Verdict in Railroad Accident Case.

NEW YORK, April 10.—The appellate division of the Supreme Court has handed down a decision reversing the judgment of the lower court in the case of Christine H. Hinsdale as executor of the will of Edward C. Hinsdale against the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad. The plaintiff obtained a verdict of $40,000 against the railroad for the death of Mr. Hinsdale in the collision in the Park avenue tunnel on Jan. 8, 1902. The railroad company admitted that the decedent's death was due to the neglect of its employes, but objected to the amount of damages.

Mrs. Hinsdale sought to recover on the basis of the fact that Mr. Hinsdale was earning about $5000 a year, and that the "expectation of life" of a man of his age was 19.50 years. The court declares that this is not a fair basis of award.

GREAT BATTLESHIPS COLLIDE

Victoria Disaster Narrowly Averted and Seamen Forbidden to Mention It—$350,000 Accident.

LONDON, April 10.—News which the British admiralty has seen fit to suppress is just reaching England to the effect that during the recent maneuvers of the Mediterranean fleet a repetition of the disaster by which the Victoria was rammed and sunk by the Camperdown, with terrible loss of life, was narrowly averted.

It appears that during combined maneuvers the Bulwark, Sir Compton Domille's flagship, collided with the Formidable. The armor plates of the Formidable were seriously damaged and the cost of drydocking and repairing the ship is stated to be $350,000.

Directly after the collision a notice was placed upon the lower deck of the commander-in-chief's flagship, followed by a similar intimation on the Formidable, forbidding all on board to communicate with any one upon the subject. Members of the crew were further ordered not to allude to the collision in their letters to England.

Both the Bulwark and the Formidable are the latest type of British battleships.

STRANGE MYSTERY OF SEA

Bark Ashore on Cape Breton Has All Sails Set, but No Trace of Her Crew Can Be Found.

HALIFAX, N. S., April 10.—An unknown bark, with all sail clewed up and no sign of life on board, is reported ashore on the eastern rocks off Scaterie Island, on the Cape Breton coast. The Norwegian steamer Terje Vikan, Capt. Gullicksen, from Portland, Me., which has arrived at Sidney, reports having passed the craft. Capt. Gullicksen says that from appearances the vessel must have been on the rocks but a short time.

The bark is apparently foreign built and of 700 or 800 tons register. Because of the prevalence of a heavy storm it is impossible for craft of any kind to get within reach of the stranded vessel. The seas were breaking over her and she will probably become a total wreck. No trace of any of the crew can be found.

British Can't Learn Here.

LIVERPOOL, April 10.—Several representatives of the London & Northwestern Railway Co., and three officials of the Caledonian Railway Co. have arrived in Liverpool from the United States, where they had been inspecting the principal railways and engineering works. THE MERGER DECISION.

The decision of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in the merger case is noteworthy as declaring the power of the government to restrain monopoly and unlawful combinations.

A gratifying feature of the opinion is that it is unanimous. The four judges agree that the merger contract was unlawful and that the court is authorized to dissolve it and order a restoration of the parties to the status held before the agreement was signed. The authority of unanimity which so many decisions lack is in this opinion, and it gives confidence that it will not be reversed on appeal.

The people of the United States are not at the mercy of these subtle powers. The decision means that the government can and will protect the public right and enforce its decrees.

This opinion is a definition of the law which will help the companies and the people to a better understanding of the relations of the government and the corporations. It is a step toward a final settlement of a vexed and perilous question.

Shirking jury duty, dodging taxes and avoiding the polls when he is most needed there, are making the American citizen a very poor exam[illegible] for those island people whom we are trying to Ins[illegible] and assimilate.

JONES OF TOLEDO.

Samuel M. Jones, who describes himself as "a man without a party," was re-elected mayor of Toledo last Monday.

Jones has already served three terms. On his first election he received nearly 70 per cent of the total vote with a Republican and a Democratic candidate in the field. His success was taken to indicate merely a protest against machine rule, but it soon became clear that he himself was more than a protest.

During the canvass closing Monday every daily paper in the city opposed him. Every English daily refused to publish his letter accepting the nomination from thousands of petitioners. Not a single organization in the city supported him. And both machines exhausted their ingenuity to compass his defeat. His election was due to a rooted popular conviction that he was honest and always meant what he said, strengthened by the acknowledged fact that he always did what he promised except when restrained by injunction or prevented by other legal obstacles.

Jones tries to regulate his public and private life by the Golden Rule. And his opponents are inclined to think he succeeds fairly well. But they think he is not practical. They claim that the commercial development of the city is not what it would have been under a more conventional mayor. That his administration has been lax is another objection.

But notwithstanding his practical weakess the people think he is trustworthy. They believe in him. They think commercial development can wait while development of other kinds catches up, and they know that while he is mayor there will be no boodling, no franchise grabbing, no purchase of legislation.

In short, Jones is his own platform. He represents an ideal, impossible to realize in fullest measure perhaps, but which will serve as an objective toward which all may march. It is an ideal which answers to a real Democratic craving and any man who stands for it will receive the support of the people.

This accounts for Jones, the man without a party. The people believe in him because he believes in the people.

The Beef Trust has paid to the state $27,136.75 fine and costs, each of the five companies in the combine paying $5000 on the fine. The drift to vegetarianism in Missouri may now be checked for a time.

CLEAN THE CITY.

April 24, 25 and 26 have been selected as municipal house-cleaning days.

The Civic Improvement League has perfected plans to this end. Teachers are requested to impress upon pupils the necessity of removing papers, garbage and other unsightly and unsanitary objects which they may see. Employers are requested to urge their employes to do the same. Finally, clergymen will ask their congregations to give the matter attention.

In view of the celebration April 30 this should appeal to all citizens on the score of pride. It will not be agreeable to bring strangers to the city and entertain them in unkempt and squalid conditions. St. Louis must be on her good behavior.

When the decent voter of St. Louis shows himself to be so much a quitter, is it not about time to enfranchise the women and appeal to them to save the city from continuous disgrace?

MR. PALMER SHOWS THE WAY.

Chicago is becoming aesthetic. For a long time she has been striving for a reputation as an art and literary center, and now she is trying to put politics on a plane of elevation heretofore unheard of.

This is the result of a movement commenced two years ago, when young Honore Palmer, son of Mrs. (and Mr.) Potter Palmer, broke into politics and became a member of the City Council. He liked the experience so well that he determined to try it again, and, being wealthy, he left no stone unturned to win.

Not only did he go around his ward at night and address mass meetings; when election day came he went after his friends and saw that they were on hand to vote for him. These friends were the curled darlings of society—the men who attend pink teas and receptions, who act as best men and ushers at fashionable weddings, who are "first-nighters" at the theater and whom a dress suit is as familiar as a $10 bill. Fearing that [illegible] not turn out otherwise, young Palmer went after [illegible] hansom cabs and automobiles. He gave [illegible] they found co[illegible]ation [illegible]

the "common" people. In his high-priced conveyances he had them carried to the polls, and, once there, what could they do but vote for him? The other fellows—the "common" people—walked to the polls, but Palmer's methods won, and he had the satisfaction of seeing himself re-elected, though by a majority of only 504 votes.

Mr. Palmer has set a fast pace. If his example is followed it may result in driving the poor politician out of politics altogether. The candidate of the future may have to guarantee his partisans not only transportation to the polls in an airship, but a champagne supper the same evening; and what poor but ambitious politician could stand such a financial strain as that, no matter what the rake-off?

While postal officials are appealing to the President to stop the disclosures in the department, the people appeal to him to clean it out and put it on a basis of honesty, decency and efficiency.

INCOMPREHENSIBLE BOODLE GENEROSITY.

According to Lieutenant-Governor Lee's statement the bribery methods of Kelley, the boodle agent of the Baking Powder Trust, are wholly different from those of Snyder, the "promoter" of the Central Traction boodle deal.

Snyder, after giving Councilman Uthoff a bribe of $50,000 for his vote, got back the money and refused to give up more than $5000.

But Kelley, after frequently trying to induce Lieutenant-Governor Lee to accept a bribe for work that the lieutenant-governor was willing to do without pay, and confiding to him his intention to distribute $15,000 among the senators—a remarkable confidence to repose in an honest presiding officer—freely gave Mr. Lee a check for $1000 when the work had been completed and the legislature had adjourned. It took the lieutenant-governor only ten days to spurn this free will offering and to consent to tell the grandjury about it.

It is a remarkable case, displaying a generosity on the part of the boodle agent and a degree of virtue under oft-repeated temptation on the part of the lieutenant-governor that are beyond comprehension.

Mr. Gould's opinion that the World's Fair of next year will surpass anything of the kind that ever happened is shared by everybody who is well informed in regard to this vast enterprise.

The bill increasing New York's World's Fair appropriation from $100,000 to $350,000 ought to pass, first amending it, however, so that it will carry $500,000, as George Gould suggested.

"The winds of heaven mix forever with a sweet emotion," says Shelley. But down in Arkansas and Alabama they are not taking this view of the winds just now.

New York is the greatest of the states. How absurd it would be for her to seem to lose this distinction by an inadequate appropriation for the World's Fair.

Uncle Mark Hanna will seriously object to paying the back taxes on his Cleveland street railway. He would "let well enough alone" in this case also.

Some Missourians are now borrowing money at 6 per cent and paying off loans obtained at 8 per cent. It is a very good prosperity scheme.

When boodlers are elected to the legislatures it follows naturally that the men elected to the United States Senate are of low standard.

Let Missourians get together and make the strenuous, necessary fight against bribery in both city and state.

The Indiana weekly pay-day law has been declared unconstitutional, but the ghost is not yet laid.

The suppressed part of Gen. Miles' report is what the country wants most to see.

Never in the history of Missouri have grandjuries been more useful than now.

ALDERMANIC QUALIFICATIONS.

When you prepare the boodlers' rank to join,
You must possess a nerve that is Titanic
Else you are liable to cause a panic
Among the crew who greedily purloin
The people's money, for the dirty daubers

II.

You must delight in perjury and scandal,
In pirates' oaths and secret meeting places;
Blood-money you must gloat over and handle
As 'twere a billet doux from the Three Graces.
A thief you must be, and a social vandal,
In whose soul greed with murder interlaces—
A soul that fears and worships only Mammon,
And to which truth and virtue are but gammon.

III.

Then, when you're caught and given a sentence penal,
You'll be prepared to make the people's laws,
And they'll permit you, knowing you are venal,
A scoundrel net, a villain without pause,
Whose outward manners can by no means screen all
The hellish work of your two perjured jaws,
Thinking, perhaps, that if they give you rope,
You'll hang yourself. But 'tis a foolish hope.

What Do We Care?

That 's the trouble with us Americans—or should we say "we" Americans? We have no reverence for anything. Just as soon as a building gets to be twenty years old we tear it down, for fear it will accumulate a little history. Oh, how we do hate to let a building get old! We are so afraid that somebody will begin to think something of it and want to put a tablet on it to commemorate something or other. That would be almost unbearable. The idea of defacing a building in that manner!

Now, one would think (that is, one would think if he were a European) that the house where a President of the United States was born should, in a manner, be held sacred, simply because of the associations connected with it—because of the mere fact that a President had been born there. But what do we care for presidents? We can have a president any old time we want one. We make presidents, the same as men make brick. We make 'em to order. We are the originators of the breed. Therefore we can take any liberties with them we like.

That 's the reason we were not at all shocked when we learned the other day that a poolroom had been opened in the house in New York where President Roosevelt was born and where eight generations of Roosevelts had lived.

The police made a raid on the place and found sixty men watching—what? A game of checkers. At least that was what the players said. True, they were lying, but what did we care for that? We don't mind a few lies, any more than we mind the fact that a gang of gay gamblers have desecrated the very spot where a president was born.

No, no; we don't mind a little thing like that. If Jeffries and Corbett were to pull off a fight in a St. Louis church we would not notice it.

No Wonder.

Why be cheap and accept a $1000 bribe when you might as well make it "a good one?"

THE REASON WHY.

Now glue your eye upon the man
Who prances down the streets
With optimistic bow and smile
To every one he meets;
The suavity he flings abroad
Makes all the world feel glad—
And even makes the mourner feel
Ashamed for being sad.

He slaps a friend upon the back,
And hopes he's feeling fine;
He spreads a long continued smile
The whole way down the line;
He jollies you and laughs with you
And calls you "Jones, ole chap!"
Until you're bound to swear that he's
The best one on the map.

Yes, he is most agreeable,
And I suppose that's why
When he goes home there is no smile,
No laughter in his eye;
Why his is like the faces seen
You see he's smiled so much all day
That none is left to give away

A Simple Summer Dancing Frock.

For a simple summer dancing frock nothing could be much daintier than the gown illustrated. It is of sheer baby blue organdie over a blue taffeta slip. These slips, by the by, should be made separate so that one will do for several gowns.

The circular skirt is trimmed only by five groups of wide tucks, two tucks in each group, and seven loose tabs of lace about the hips. These tabs are made of white filet lace, appliqued with lace motifs and edged with a tiny row of forget-me-nots. The low round bodice is very full and is also tucked, but with smaller tucks than those used on the skirt. The sleeves are mere puffs of the tucked organdie, and bordering the neck and forming the shoulder straps are clusters of forget-me-nots. Falling over the bodice are lace tabs like those on the skirt and the sash is of blue liberty satin ribbon, with long ends at the back.

FOR THE YOUNG FOLKS

MIRACULOUS KETTLE.

An amusing trick may be played on a company with a tea kettle. Pour a pint of cold water into one. Say that it will be boiling hot when it comes out. The kettle must have a false bottom filled with boiling water opening into the spout, while the part holding the cold water is closed.

TRAVELER'S ALPHABET GAME.

The players sit in a row and the first begins by saying: "I am going on a journey to Athens" (or any place beginning with A). The one sitting next asks, "What will you do there?" The verbs, adjectives and nouns used in the reply must all begin with A, as "amuse ailing authors with anecdotes."

If the player answers correctly it is the next player's turn; he says, perhaps, "I am going to Bradford." "What to do there?" "To bring back bread and butter." A third says: "I am going to Constantinople." "What to do there?" "To carry contented cats." Any one who makes a mistake must pay a forfeit.

LIFT MAN WITH FINGERS.

This is a schoolboy pastime, and consists in one individual being lifted and sustained by the fingers. Two operators put their index fingers under the person's shoes, two others place their fingers under each elbow, and a fifth under the chin of the subject. At a given signal each person lift their hands and the person is easily lifted up. The result may seem surprising, but it is only the question of the equal subdivision of weight. The average human being weighs about 150 pounds, so each finger has to sustain only about 30 pounds of weight, which is nothing extraordinary.

Never pin delicate materials onto the clothes line without placing a piece of clean paper between the fabric and the clothes pin.

For cleaning nickel plating mix ammonia and whiting together and apply with a cloth. This mixture may be bottled and used as necessity requires.

South African "wafels" vastly differ from our waffles merely in being made with wine as a "moistener" rather than with milk for the principal liquid ingredient. In South Africa when they are going to make "wafels," they take a pound of flour, three-quarters of a pound of butter, half a pound of sugar, eight eggs, half a pint of wine and a teaspoonful of sifted cinnamon. The butter and eggs are creamed, then they mix in alternately one egg and one spoonful of flour, add the wine and spice and bake in a waffle iron.

For cleansing of paintings raw potato is sometimes used. Clean the picture first rapidly with lukewarm water, dry, then go over the surface lightly with a raw potato cut in two. As the potato soils present a fresh surface. Rince in clean water and dry with a soft cloth.

In pressing sleeves, which is the bane of the amateur's life, keep a wooden rolling pin for that purpose alone. Insert in the sleeve, and the pressing of seams and wrists also is as easily done as though it were a flat surface. Cover the pin with flannel. Keep a heavy piece of flannel to lay over the ironing board when pressing wool goods. This prevents the shiny spots so objectionable in a finished garment.

To make tomato cheese scale five pounds of ripe tomatoes, remove all the skins and place in an aluminum or china-lined preserving pan, with a pound of cored and quartered apples. Stand over a moderate fire to simmer gently for about an hour, stirring sufficiently to prevent sticking to the pan. Add two pounds and a half of best preserving sugar, a small teaspoonful of powdered ginger and the juice of a lemon. Boil slowly while stirring, till the preserve is reduced to the consistency of marmalade. Place in jars and cover at once with white paper, brushed over with beaten white of egg.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Did Not Want Medicine.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I read an account in your paper of the death of Henry Lemberger, a lad of 13 years, who died at the city hospital. The article stated that the boy was the son of Mrs. Rose Lemberger, a Christian Scientist, who is a teacher in a school called the "Vanguard of Christian Science," and on this account the boy refused medicine, and died in consequence.

Not having ever heard before of either the lady, her son or of such a school in connection with Christian Science, a visit was made to 2335 Randolph street for more accurate information, which resulted in the following facts, which, I am sure, you will be pleased to publish:

At the above number is the office of the Vanguard, a semi-monthly religious eight-page family paper, which is devoted to their own peculiar form of religious beliefs and worship, and under whose auspices is conducted a missionary training school, where they take in the needy and provide them with shelter, food and clothing, and instruct them in accordance with their faith. We learned that neither Mrs. Lemberger nor her son were professors of any form of religion; that he had been sick for several months and had become very cross and did not want to take medicine; and that he refused, not on account of any religious teachings, but simply because he did not want medicine, whatever he may have given the doctors as his excuse.

Furthermore, the manager of the establishment frankly stated that they did not even believe in Christian Science at all, and that they could not understand how the erroneous reports could have gotten out.

As to Flat Building.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Replying to Elizabeth Pettee in Thursday's Post-Dispatch, I don't think any "stirring Chicago man" is to rush here to make his fortune in building flats or houses just now. The carpenters are getting 55 cents an hour; plumbers, $5 a day; plasterers, $6 a day, and materials are very high. Only 13-inch walls are allowed. Rents are certainly too high, but there are reasons why they should be so. As to outside blinds, they are the best. Many tenants request that inside blinds be taken off.

"The Royal Louisiana."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I note that several suggestions have been made in your paper as to the naming of the new hotel on Twelfth street. I would suggest the name "The Royal Louisiana" as an appropriate one. It would commemorate the purchase of that vast territory and be a lasting monument to that great event.

To Protect Logging Oxen.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

If Mr. John Davis, who wrote the article published in the Post-Dispatch with regard to the atrocious cruelty practiced on the oxen used in logging camps, will communicate with the Missouri Humane Society, Commercial building, Sixth and Olive streets, the matter will, I am sure, receive attention.

If these logging camps are in Illinois, the Humane Society of Illinois, with headquarters in Chicago, 560 Wabash avenue, should be appealed to. E. T. KIESELHORST.

Good Citizens.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

It has been frequently charged that the corruption and bad government of our city was due to a great extent to the vote of the "ignorant foreigner" in the downtown wards. This charge is refuted by the vote of the Third and Fourth wards on last Tuesday.

In those two wards almost the entire population are of this class—the Hebrew, the Italian, the Polander, the Slav, the Austrian, the Greek and the negro reside there. The names of most of them are spelled with consonants and cannot be pronounced by anybody but themselves. They have no social intercourse, as every nationality is grouped by themselves. Few, if any, belong to the Jefferson Club. They did not even have Dr. Boyd or Father Coffee to give them any lecture on civic virtue or public morals.

Notwithstanding all these disadvantages, they polled over 80 per cent of the total vote in those two wards for good government and a New St. Louis.

Let us then in the future include those "ignorant foreigners" among the best citizens as far as civic duty is concerned.

The Tale of a Landlord.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I was once a landlord with two vacant flats, advertised "no children." A man with two children, one of whom he declared was unlike any other boy—in fact, more like a girl than a boy, so gentle was this child—applied for leave to rent. Finally I yielded and let him have the flat. A little later another man with two children came and wanted the other flat—two nice little boys.

Well, what do you think? A few days after that second family had moved in, the first renter came at me like a roaring lion. He denounced me as a fraud. "Didn't you advertise no children?" said he, furiously. "Now here you have gone and rented that upper flat to a party with children, and I tell you we can't stand their noise! You are obtaining money under false pretenses, sir!"

I was dumfounded. It was of no use to explain to him that I had meant no wrong; that I had supposed that as he had two children he could not possibly object to other children. It was a long time before I recovered from the remorse I felt at finding I had been so bad.

As for that angel child, I refrain from attempting to describe what he did to my property before his pa moved.

Thank heaven I am not renting flats any more to anybody. If I could have my way every man should have a home of his own and be hanged if he ever sold it.

St. Louis. EX-GREEDY LANDLORD.

TIME WELL INVESTED.

Mr. Isaac B. Price of Greenport, who has has just celebrated his one hundred and first birthday, attributes his long life to the fact that he always takes at least a full hour to each meal and thoroughly masticates his food.

If Mr. Price has pursued this plan for 99 years he has spent 44,000 hours, or five years, more on his meals than he would have spent if he had shortened them to half an hour apiece. If by this investment of time he has added 31 years to his life he is at least 26 years ahead.

Very likely there is something in the Greenport patriarch's theory. Physicians say that cereals are not digested by the gastric juice, but by the saliva. Without thorough mastication, therefore, they are not assimilated and do more harm than good.

A simple meal lasting an hour—not a Van Wyck beefsteak dinner of course—would probably pay several hundred per cent on the investment of time in the shape of increased longevity.

FUN AND INTERESTING READING MATTER FOR THE HOME CIRCLE

THE OLD JOKES' HOME

We had announced that we would publish on that date a likeness of that great scientist and humanitarian, Prof. U. Doem Goode, the head and front of the O. J. H., and the cut was in readiness, but Mr. Gannon, with that keen sense of humor which made his Celtic forbears famous, decided that it would be a greater joke than was ever housed in the O. J. H. to "hold out" the said cut and make us appear either foolish or untruthful in the eyes of our readers. And so he did.

PROF. U. DOEM GOODE.

But retribution always comes in such cases, and so it came in this. Mr. Gannon was pinched for this unseemly behavior and is now serving out a sentence of 30 days on the rockpile, not having the spondulix wherewith to free himself, and receiving not the slightest sympathy from patrons and admirers of the Old Jokes' Home. As a consequence we are enabled today to publish the likeness of Prof. U. Doem Goode, as promised two days ago, and if any other make-up man, good-looking or otherwise, shall interfere with the affairs of the Old Jokes' Home in the future, his address after such interference will be Jefferson City, Mo.

Preparations for the great raid on the vaudeville houses are now under way, and if no unseemly or untoward events take place in the meantime it will be pulled off Saturday night with the greatest eclat imaginable.

(Don't ever expose your ignorance by telling anybody that "eclat" rhymes with "he-cat," for this is not true, any more than that "bon mot" rhymes with "town lot.")

We have already specially engaged five ambulances from the City Dispensary in anticipation of this great raid, and these, in conjunction with the busy blue ambulance belonging to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Humor and Joe Miller, the famous chestnut horse, will carry all of the ancient and debilitated gags to the Old Jokes' Home the moment they are rescued.

Following are some of the old-timers gathered in for rest and safe-keeping since our last report:

Why is a tin can tied to a dog's tail like death? Because it is bound to a cur (bound to occur).

I heard something this morning that opened my eyes. What was it? An alarm clock.

Johnny: N-e-i-d-l-e.
Teacher: Wrong, needle has no "I" in it.
Johnny: Well, 'tain't a good needle, then.

What is it that goes up white and comes down yellow? An egg.

When is butter like Irish children? When it is made into little Pats.

A minister was asking the congregation one Sunday morning, "All that want to go to heaven, please rise." So they all rose except a poor old drunkard who was sitting all alone in the last row.

"Now all that don't want to go there please rise," said the preacher.

Just then the old fellow stood up and said: "I don't know what the question is, Mr. Minister, but you and I seem to be the only ones that agree on the subject."

Jim: He can't throw a big front with me, 'cause I knew Jack when he did not have a shirt to his back.

"When was this, Jim?"

"In swimming."

An actor came out on the stage and said he was so hungry and almost starved, and the curtain came down with a roll.

I saw a tin half-dollar on the sidewalk and would not pick it up, so a policeman was going to arrest me for passing bad money.

A THOUGHT FOR THE DAY.

If you can find nothing better to do than to "kill time," you had better kill yourself before you so degenerate that society must put you out of the way.

MISSOURI ODD FACTS.

The owner of a farm near Chillicothe wanted $1200 more than the real estate man would agree to pay. Finally the real estate man said: "I'll pitch you pennies for the difference. Heads it goes at your price, and tails it goes at mine." "I'll take you," the other replied. They pitched for the "best two out of three." The first time the coin came down "tails" were up. The next time it was "heads." Up went the coin for the third time, while both men breathed hard. It came down "tails," and the teal was immediately closed at the real estate man's price.

Presiding Elder J. O. Taylor of the St. Joseph district is a bulky, powerful man, and he has one of the most amazing voices and pairs of lungs that were ever vouchsafed to a mortal. Jeff Pollard's throat may be more musical, but in power it is a very poor second to that of Rev. Mr. Taylor. Daniel O'Connell, when at the height of his powers, could not trumpet forth his words with more force and vehemence. Mr. Taylor usually, in preaching, talks in a conversational tone; but when he gets earnest and lets himself out, the rafters shake, the weatherboarding cracks, and all the surrounding hills reverberate with the music of his wind instrument.

THE ENVIOUS NEIGHBOR

From the Japanese.

LONG, long ago an old couple lived in a village, and, as they had no children to love and care for, they gave all their affection to a little dog. He was a pretty little creature, and instead of growing spoilt and disagreeable at not getting everything he wanted, as even children will do sometimes, the dog was grateful to them for their kindness, and never left their side whether they were in the house or out of it.

One day the old man was working in his garden, with his dog, as usual, close by. The morning was hot, and at last he put down his spade and wiped his wet forehead, noticing, as he did so, that the animal was snuffling and scratching at a spot a little way off. There was nothing very strange in this, as all dogs are fond of scratching, and he went on quietly with his digging, when the dog ran up to his master, barking loudly, and back again to the place where he had been scratching. This he did several times, till the old man wondered what could be the matter, and, picking up the spade, followed where the dog led him. The dog was so delighted at his success that he jumped around, barking loudly, till the noise brought the old woman out of the house.

Curious to know if the dog had really found anything, the husband began to dig, and very soon the spade struck hard against something. He stooped down and pulled out a large box, filled quite full with shining gold pieces. The box was so heavy that the old woman had to help to carry it home, and you may guess what a supper the dog had that night! Now that he had made them rich, they gave him every day all that a dog likes best to eat, and the cushions on which he lay were fit for a prince.

The story of the dog and his treasure soon became known, and a neighbor whose garden was next the old people's grew so envious of their good luck that he could neither eat nor sleep. As the dog had discovered a treasure once, this foolish man thought he must be able to discover one always, and begged the old couple to lend him their pet for a little while, so that he might be made rich also.

"How can you ask such a thing?" answered the old man indignantly. "You know how much we love him, and that he is never out of our sight for five minutes."

But the envious neighbor would not heed his words and came daily with the same request, till at last the old people, who could not bear to say no to anyone, promised to lend the dog, just for a night or two. No sooner did the man get hold of the dog than he turned him into the garden, but the dog did nothing but race about, and the man was forced to wait with what patience he could.

The next morning the man opened the house door, and the dog bounded joyfully into the garden, and, running up to the foot of a tree, began to scratch wildly. The man called loudly to his wife to bring a spade, and followed the dog, as he longed to catch the first glimpse of the expected treasure. But when he had dug up the ground, what did he find? Why, nothing but a parcel of old bones, which smelt so badly that he could not stay there a moment longer. And his heart was filled with rage against the dog who had played him this trick, and he seized a pickax and killed it on the spot, before he knew what he was doing. When he remembered that he would have to go with his story to the old man and his wife he was rather frightened, but there was nothing to be gained by putting it off, so he pulled a very long face, and went to his neighbor's garden.

"Your dog," said he, pretending to weep, "has suddenly fallen down dead, though I took every care of him and gave him everything he could wish for. And I thought I had better come straight and tell you."

Weeping bitterly, the old man went to fetch the body of his favorite, and brought it home and buried it under the fig tree where he had found the treasure. From morning till night he and his wife mourned bring them home. Then, when he heard over their loss, and nothing could comfort them. At length, one night when he was asleep, he dreamt that the dog appeared to him and told him to cut down the fig tree over his grave, and out of its wood to make a mortar. But when the old man woke and thought of his dream he did not feel at all inclined to cut down the tree, which bore well every year, and consulted his wife about it. The woman did not hesitate a moment, and said that after what had happened before, the dog's advice must certainly be obeyed, so the tree was felled, and a beautiful mortar made from it. And when the season came for the rice crop to be gathered the mortar was taken down from its shelf, and the grains placed in it for pounding, when, lo and behold! in a twinkling of an eye, they all turned into gold pieces. At the sight of all this gold the hearts of the old people were glad, and once more they blessed their faithful dog.

But it was not long before this story also came to the ears of their envious neighbor, and he lost no time in going to the old people and asking if they happened to have a mortar which they could lend him. The old man did not at all like parting with his precious treasure, but he never could say no, so the neighbor went off with the mortar under his arm.

The moment he got into his own house he took a great handful of rice and began to shell off the husks, with the help of his wife. But, instead of the gold pieces for which they looked, the rice turned into berries with such a horrible smell that they were obliged to run away, after smashing the mortar in a rage and setting fire to the bits.

The old people next door were naturally very much put out when they learned the fate of their mortar, and were not at all comforted by the explanations and excuses made by their neighbor. But that night the dog again appeared in a dream to his master, and told him that he must go and collect the ashes of the burnt mortar and that the Daimio, or great lord to whom this part of the country belonged, was expected at the capital, he was to carry the ashes to the high road, through which the procession would have to pass. And as soon as it was in sight he was to climb up all the cherry trees and sprinkle the ashes on them, and they would soon blossom as they had never blossomed before.

This time the old man did not wait to consult his wife as to whether he was to do what his dog had told him, but directly he got up he went to his neighbor's house and collected the ashes of the burnt mortar. He put them carefully in a china vase, and carried it to the high road, sitting down on a seat till the Daimio should pass. The cherry trees were bare, for it was the season when small pots of them were sold to rich people, who kept them in hot places, so that they might blossom early and decorate their rooms. As to the trees in the open air, no one would ever think of looking for the tiniest bud for more than a month yet. The old man had not been waiting very long before he saw a cloud of dust in the far distance, and knew that it must be the procession of the Daimio. On they came, every man dressed in his finest clothes, and the crowd that was lining the road bowed their faces to the ground as they went by. Only the old man did not bow himself, and the great lord saw this, and bade one of his courtiers go and inquire why he had disobeyed the ancient customs. But before the messenger could reach him the old man had climbed the nearest tree and scattered his ashes far and wide, and in an instant the white flowers had flashed into life, and the heart of the Daimio rejoiced, and he gave rich presents to the old man, whom he sent for to his castle.

We may be sure that in a very little while the envious neighbor had heard this also, and his bosom was filled with hate. He hastened to the place where he had burned the mortar, collected a few of the ashes which the old man had left behind, and took them to the road, hoping that his luck might be as good as the old man's, or perhaps even better. His heart beat with pleasure when he caught the first glimpses of the Daimio's train, and he held himself ready for the right moment. As the Daimio drew near he flung a great handful of ashes over the trees, but no buds or flowers followed the action; instead, the ashes were all blown back into the eyes of the Daimio and his warriors, till they cried out from pain. Then the prince ordered the evildoer to be seized and bound and thrown into prison, where he was kept for many months. By the time he was set free everybody in his native village had found out his wickedness, and they would not let him live there any longer; and as he would not leave off his evil ways he soon went from bad to worse, and came to a miserable end.

ADAM WAS A FOREIGNER.

Ex-Senator Joseph L. Barbour of Connecticut, in commenting upon the ease with which Irishmen become Americanized after coming to this country, told the following story at a Waldorf-Astoria dinner the other evening:

"There was a little Irish boy namey Patsy, who came to the United States with his family. One morning his teacher in the public school asked him:

"'Who was the first man, Patsy?'

"'George Washington,' was the prompt reply.

"'Oh, no,' said the teacher. 'George Washington was the father of his country, but Adam was the first man.'

TWO WOMEN GIVE SKIN FOR CHILD

THE MARTYRS EXHIBIT REMARKABLE FORTITUDE

NEW YORK, April 10.—Prompted by a keen humanitarian spirit two Westchester women at Van Nest gave pieces of their skin for grafting on a little girl's thigh. Mrs. Emma Cadieux, the wife of a well-to-do contractor, and Miss Mary Murray, a companion in the Waterbury family, were the women who endured the operation for the sake of a little German girl named Annie Schneider. Annie's parents are poor and live in Van Nest. Mrs. Cadieux lives in a fine house nearby and Miss Murray lives on the Waterbury estate in Pelham, where she is companion to Miss Catherine Waterbury, daughter of John M. Waterbury, president of the Cordage Trust, and the sister of "Jimmie" and "Larry" Waterbury, the polo players. The operation was performed by Dr. John Gorse Simmons of Westchester avenue.

Annie Schneider was burned severely last January, and her wounds healed satisfactorily, with the exception of an ugly raw space, 6 by 9 inches in area. When this scar failed to yield to treatment, Dr. Simmons suggested skin grafting as the only possible cure. Miss Murray, who at Miss Waterbury's suggestion, has been interesting herself in the case, agreed to give her skin for the purpose. Dr. Simmons said the wound was so large one person would be seriously inconvenienced by giving away so much cuticle. Soon afterward Mrs. Cadieux heard that another volunteer was needed, and she bravely offered her arm to Dr. Simmons' scalpel.

After Dr. Simmons had arranged affairs with the volunteers he prepared the wounds of the little Schneider girl. Miss Murray applied the poultices and salves used to produce "granulation."

The two women had bared their left arms before the doctor had arrived, and Annie, whimpering with vague fear, watched eagerly from the pallet where she was lying. Then her mother boiled water at the suggestion of Dr. Simmons. Miss Murray placed the child in position, because the bits of skin must be transplanted swiftly, lest the power of thriving be killed, and then she was the first victim.

Dr. Simmons said afterward he never saw so fine a display of nerve as when he cut the bits of skin from the white arms of the women. Neither flinched, although the pain was intense. Dr. Simmons did not cut the top layer alone, but the second layer was torn away, leaving the bloody flesh exposed. As soon as his scalpel had cut a particle of skin he applied it to Annie's wounds. There were 75 distinct particles of skin used, each the size of a grain of wheat. These were placed on the 54 square inches of wound in rows on the same principle as one might sow seed. The wound's surface, although not covered, is completely grafted because the skin will expand until the space is a mass of healthy, growing cuticle.

CHILD OF 10 TURNS BURGLAR

Helps Herself to Money, Which She Spends Seeing Sights in San Francisco.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 9.—Flora Deluse is only 10 years of age, but she knows a thing or two already. She wanted some money with which to go to the city, and she wanted it badly, so she rummaged around until she found an old soap box, which she proceeded to place under the kitchen window in the home of Joseph A. Frates, her parents' neighbor, at 226 Hollis street. Then she raised the window and climbed inside.

After that it was all easy for little Miss Flora Deluse. The family was not there, and she made herself perfectly at home. She ate up all the good things she could find, and then started a search for money. At last, after opening all the bureaus and turning all the pockets inside out, she found a purse containing $1.75.

When little Miss Deluse retreated from the house it was not via the window, but by a door that she unlocked. Then she took the first afternoon train to San Francisco, where she spent her $1.75 with the prodigality of a princess. She bought all the candy she could conveniently consume, rode on all the cars and wound up at the Orpheum performance. Completely tired out, she took the last boat for home and landed there at 1 o'clock to the great joy of her parents, who had worried themselves frantic over her absence.

When Mrs. Frates got home she immediately missed her purse. The soap box and the open window suggested burglars, and Mr. Frates notified the police. Chief Hodgkins sent Detective Kyte to investigate and he soon traced the burglary to Miss Deluse. She confessed the whole thing in the chief's office, but on account of her youth she was permitted to go with a reprimand.

Sons and Daughters of Love.

Judge MacDonald, sitting in division No. 6 of the circuit court, on Friday morning granted a pro forma decree of incorporation to the Sons and Daughters of Love. This is an organization formed by some of the colored residents of the city for "benevolent, fraternal, beneficial, religious and educational purposes." Thomas Miller is the supreme president. The other officers are: Mary Grundy, supreme vice-president; Amanda Green, supreme financial secretary; Lucile C. Cousin, supreme recording secretary; Harry Pickett, supreme treasurer.

HAZERS SHEAR LOCKS OF SIXTY

PRESIDENT FINDS TROUBLE IN KEEPING PEACE

ANN ARBOR, April 10.—Despite the protest of the faculty, at least sixty students at the University of Michigan have been shorn of their locks by hazers. Some of the well-known young men who have lost their hair are:

Hugo Sonnenschein, Chicago, president of the sophomore literary class; James S. Carpenter, Iron Mountain, Mich., interscholastic manager; G. Edward Snell, Manchester, Io., president of the freshman class; B. H. de Priest, Shelby, N. C., orator of freshmen class; John M. Hogen, St. Louis, toastmaster of freshman class; R. H. Kidston, Lagrange, Ill., sophomore football player; Archibald E. Carey, East Lake, Mich., sophomore and son of a regent of the university.

Last year was the first in several that nothing of the kind was indulged in, and this was only because of the truce established between the classes of '03 and '04 two years ago, which was necessary in order to save several students in both classes from expulsion. Nothing very serious ever resulting from the "shanghai" orgies, except in 1898, when Butler Lamb defended himself against a crowd of students. In the rumpus a student was shot in the arm, and this rather discouraged the hazers, but gradually the practice revived, and in 1901 23 sophomores and 21 freshmen were clipped. The warfare this year was started by the sophomores, who a week ago clipped the hair of Toastmaster Hogden. It has continued every night since. Incidentally, the law students seem to be drawn into the conflict.

It is alleged that R. H. Walton of Grand Rapids, a member of the junior law relay team, helped some sophomores in shearing a freshman and the first year men successfully laid in ambush for him.

There are some good haircutting stories going the rounds. One is to the effect that a senior law, who has a freshman law for a roommate, put up a job with some sophomores and got them to go his room and clip the hair of the freshman. Some freshman laws became indignant and delegated a husky member of the class to interview the senior about it.

"So?" replied the senior.

"Yes. Which will it be?"

"I'll not apologize, and my hair suits me just as it is."

"Then it's a licking."

"If you can do it."

The husky freshman completed his contract.

Dean Hutchins of the law department warned the students of that department yesterday that participation in the hazing meant expulsion. President Angell is using every endeavor to quell the hazing. It is said he has given many a half-crippled student an opportunity to "peach" on those who made the attacks.

"This custom must be stopped," said President Angell. "It is an undignified proceeding and any student who mixes up in any such thing will be summarily dropped from the rolls of the university. It is known to be against the rules, and those who go into it do so with the fact that they have been warned."

Notwithstanding President Angell's admonishments, the scouting parties of the respective classes are out every night and a few more heads are scored on the tally board the next morning. Thus far the contest seems about even.

NEW IRISH LAND BILL IS A STATESMANLIKE MEASURE

BY JOHN P. LEAHY.

National Executive Committeeman United Irish League.

The new Irish land bill, though it does not seem to contain all the recommendations made by the conference, is in the main a bold and statesmanlike attempt to grapple with a question which has been the cause of endless strife and suffering to the people of Ireland.

Various estimates have been made as to the amount of free grant which would be required to bridge over the gap between what the landlord could be reasonably expected to receive and the tenant could be reasonably expected to pay for the holding.

Some have estimated it as high as $110,000,000, and some as low as $85,000,000. Judging by the fact that the government has now consented to a free bonus of $60,000,000 to help to bring both parties together it is clearly the intention to settle this vexed question once and for all.

There is no doubt it must be a matter of genuine surprise to many critics who had previously expressed their disbelief in the possibility of the government making any advances. There seemed to have been some misunderstanding as to the position which the representatives of the tenants took at the conference.

The matter was very lucidly explained by Mr. T. W. Russell, one of the representatives of the tenants. He stated that the tenants' reprsentatives had fixed the terms on which the tenants would consent to purchase, which were on a basis of 35 per cent on the second term rents, and a limit of 18 years' purchases.

The landlord's representatives were to be allowed nine years more provided they could secure a bonus covering that period from the government.

The reduction in the amount of the bonus will not greatly nor indeed at all affect the tenant. It simply means that the landlord have less government aid than they had figured upon, and they will have to suffer the loss.

It is somewhat singular to find the bill criticized because it did not state the extent or method of securing compulsory sales—a clause acquaintance with the subject would have shown that this feature did not enter into the conference at all and was abandoned many months ago, the free grant taking its place as an inducement to the landlords to sell.

Good Will Fixes the Value.

The shooting and fishing privileges are left in the hands of the comissioners, but these are minor details, it being perfectly obvious that even if conceded to the landlord they would be worthless without the good will of the tenant purchaser.

The landlords, if I mistake not, were given the privilege of purchasing their dwelling and the land adjacent thereto in the previous land acts, and have received similar rights in this one. This is a very desirable thing, it may be remarked, since it keeps the money paid for the purchase at home.

It is simply puerile to talk of the settlement of the land question by state aided purchase and the creation of a peasant proprietary benefiting only a fraction of the people. The most elementary student of Irish history knows that the Irish people are absolutely and wholly dependent upon the land for their support, and before any sort of commercial activity could be productive that question should first be settled. It was one of the most difficult propositions which Parnell in his day and Redmond later had to encounter to make some Irishmen realize the vital necessity of reducing sentiment to common sense by applying their energies to the remedying of an evil which was eating like a cankerworm into the very vitals of the nation.

The victims of the iniquity of the land system are numbered by the millions in the best citizenship of this republic, and it is little wonder that this great measure has commanded such attention. Involving as it does the expenditure of over a half of billion of dollars, revolutionizing the whole system of a country, it was impossible that all its details should be satisfactory. I do not doubt that the Irish leaders will modify many of those features in the committees, and many valuable recommendations will be made at the coming convention of the United Irish League in Dublin, when the Irish people will decide whether to accept or reject the bill.

The method to be used in carrying the bill into operation will be the application of the landlord to the court for a valuation, the fixing of the valuation at which the landlord must sell

Both Parties Must Agree

If the valuation of the court satisfies the tenant the terms are agreed upon, both parties must in any event agree on the terms before the court sanctions the sale. The landlord claim is paid off and the tenant repays the advance by installments of 3½ per cent on the price agreed upon after deducting the bonus paid by the government to the landlord. To illustrate this, let us suppose the tenant buys his holding for 24 years' purchase of his yearly rent, which is $100—the price will therefore be $2400.

This money the government pays the landlord, the tenant repays to the government the sum of $1800—the government, therefore, loses $600, which it gives to the landlord as a bonus.

The tenant repays the $1800 by installments of 3½ per cent on that amount, or $58.50 each year for a period of 68 years, at the end of which time the land is released free of the lien, and the tenant or his successor becomes the absolute owner. It will be thus readily seen that the tenant gets a continuing reduction of over 40 per cent, with the absolute ownership at the end of the statutory term.

The absolute failure of coercion, the surrender of the landlords and of the British government is a tribute to the earnestness and self-sacrifice of a determined people, and the genius and statesmanship of their illustrious leader, John Redmond, who is recognized as one of the great central figures in the political world of today. The clouds which have hung around an unhappy country are now rapidly disappearing. Home rule is not only near but certain, and I look for a revival of industry which will permanently stem the tide of emigration. As intimated by a member of the cabinet to an American press representative, landlords who are unwilling to meet their tenants fairly will receive little assistance in the collection of their rents, and the powerful organization of the Irish people which has compelled the government to raise six hundred millions for the settlement of the question will be equally potential in the future in bringing the landlords to terms.

The assistance given the movement by the American press and the people has been one of the most valuable agencies in bringing about this splendid result.

LOVE DROVE HIM TO A MADHOUSE

PURSUED PHANTOM SWEETHEART FOR YEARS

INDIANAPOLIS, April 10.—The Marion Trust Co. has been appointed guardian of Robert W. Thompson of unsound mind. It was said in court that Mr. Thompson's mind had been failing for years, and a few weeks ago he was compelled to seek rest and treatment in a sanatorium. The estate that the trust company is to manage amounts to about $10,000.

The evidence in the case in the Probate Court developed the fact that Thompson lost his mind on account of a strange love affair that he had thirty years ago.

Thompson was about to be married—in fact, he had furnished the house for his bride, when she suddenly fell ill with typhoid fever. Through her long illness she would permit no one but her prospective husband to nurse her. She was on the road to recovery, and he was suffering from the fatigue of the long vigil and worry, when he read a poem, written by the daughter of Gen. Sam Houston. It was entitled "My Lord," and was supposed to be her conception of an ideal husband. In his condition, the poem made such an impression on him, his sister said in court, that he immediately abandoned his intention of marrying the woman he had nursed through the protracted illness, and determined to find and marry Miss Houston.

He called on the young lady he was about to marry and snatched the ring from her finger. He took from the house other little tokens of his love and left, never to return.

His relatives did not see him for a year, and to this day none of them has the remotest idea where he was, though it was believed that he was seeking Miss Houston. After his return to his friends, he again seemed rational, but did not marry his old sweetheart. He was associated with his brother in the manufacturing business. He had business ability and made many friends.

Seven years ago, when the old trouble returned, he was perfectly sane. At that time he again took up the search for the sweetheart he had never met. He finally found where she was and at last received a letter from her, in which she explained that she was married.

Mr. Thompson soon recovered from this attack and was sane until this winter. Several weeks ago he told his Indianapolis relatives that he intended to go to New Orleans to attend the Mardi Gras. He was gone for several weeks and when he returned, which was very shortly before he was confined at the sanatorium, he admitted that he had not been to New Orleans, but had been in Texas. There, he said, he saw the woman of whom he had dreamed for years.

He was disappointed. His sister said that he had pictured her through all the years as young as she was when the poem was written, but that when he saw that she was more than 50 years old, and that she had a daughter of 16, the disappointment was so bitter that his mind was more seriously affected than ever.

He returned to Indianapolis with the dreams of years shattered, and with a new hallucination—that he should and would some day marry the daughter of the woman he had for so long imagined he loved. He had never seen the girl, but his sister said that he had transferred his affections from mother to daughter.

At the sanatorium, Mr. Thompson is slowly improving, and it is said that he may eventually be able to manage his own affairs again, although it is feared that he will never completely recover.

It is not generally known that the jackal is a greater destroyer of humanity in India than the tiger. Statistics published by the government of India show that while 923 persons were killed by tigers more than 1000 children were carried away by jackals.

COAL MEASURE WAS SHORT.

A. Ming, a coal dealer, doing business at Twenty-second street, between Market and Chestnut, was arraigned in the Dayton street police court on Friday morning and fined $500 by Judge Pollard for giving short measure.

Last February Mrs. Adams, 2735 Stoddard street, ordered 50 bushels of coal from Ming. The load was duly delivered, but Mrs. Adams did not watch it as it was being put in the bin. A few days later, on going to the cellar, she saw that 50 bushels could not possibly have been delivered. It was subsequently proved that only 34 bushels had been supplied.

She complained to the authorities, and Detective Gallagher and L. E. Johnson, president of the Correct Weight Coal Association, took charge of the case and Ming was summoned to appear in court. Although he was defended by Judge S. S. Bass, he could make out no case in defense. E. A. Noonan, Jr., conducted the prosecution.

Brewery Deed of Trust Filed.

A deed of trust was filed in the office of the recorder of deeds Friday morning from the Union Brewing Co., Gravois and Michigan avenues, to the Commonwealth Trust Co., trustees for the bondholders, for the entire property of the brewing plant, both real and personal, to secure 10-year 6 per cent bonds to the amount of $150,000.

YANGER BUSY MAKING MATCHES

Tipton Slasher Has Three on Now That With Hanlon Being His Latest.

CHICAGO, April 10.—Benny Yanger and Eddie Hanlon have been matched to meet in June before the Hayes Valley Athletic Club of San Francisco. This naturally causes the proposed battle between Yanger and McGovern to be called off. Hanlon is given the preference over McGovern because he fought a draw with Corbett while Corbett has whipped McGovern twice.

"Yanger matched with Hanlon; 130 ringside; June; forfeits up; cancel all dates."

"This means that Yanger will be compelled to call off his proposed match with McGoevrn," said Manager Herts. "I gave Hanlon the preference because of his good showing with Corbett, with whom he obtained a draw. The agreement is for 150 pounds ringside. According to the showing Hanlon made in his battle with Young Corbett I believe he is about the best boy Yanger has met in the last two years."

Yanger now has three fights on. The first is with Clarence English at Kansas City next Thursday night for a bet of $500 a side. They meet at 130 ringside. The next battle is with Kid Broad at Louisville on Derby night, May 2, weights to be 128 ringside, and the third is the Hanlon match.

FIRST REAL TEST OF CHALLENGER

Two Shamrocks Will Be Sent Over Measured 30-Mile Course Saturday.

WEYMOUTH, England, April 10.—The Shamrocks will have their first real contest tomorrow. It will be under strict racing conditions, with prize money for the winning crew and fixed handicap terms, over a measured 30-mile course. After the Shamrock III's showing yesterday it is believed 15 minutes will be allowed the older boat.

The Shamrock III has not yet been asked to negotiate a head sea, and the likelihood of a seaward breeze tomorrow is welcomed, as it will give an opportunity of seeing how she will acquit herself under such conditions.

Fought Fire With Garden Hose.

Paul Frese found his room in a blaze when he arrived at his home, 2354 Hartford street, Thursday night about 5:30. Frese attached a garden hose to a faucet in the bath room, but did not succeed in extinguishing the flames before he was badly burned about the face and hands, and the room was ruined. The origin of the fire is unknown. The loss is estimated at $50.

POOR CARD AT BENNINGS TODAY

WASHINGTON, April 10.—Three best selections:

Tugal Boy in third race.
Cherubim in fifth race.

The races today gives little promise of good sport. The entries are few for all races except the second. The track will be better than it was yesterday, but will be slow. The entries and handicaps are:

First race, handicap, 3-year-olds and upward, five and a half furlongs—Yellow Tail first, Tommy Foster second, Himself third.

Yellow Tail is the class, has the most speed, and should win easily. Tommy Foster ought to be second. Himself holds the others.

If ridden by Odom, Eloim should be the winner. He has a lot of speed, and, though conceding a lot of weight, can be nursed home. Ziri held Springbrook for this distance in their last race and should do so again today.

Third race, 3-year-olds and upward, six furlongs—Tugal Bey first, H. L. Coleman second, Merriment third.

Imperious has a lot of speed, and may last long enough to win. Knight of the Garter, if he repeats, will be very dangerous. Black Dick ought to be third.

CRESCEUS AFTER NEW RECORD

Will Try to Lower High Wheel Sulky Mark Set by Sunol—Will Then Retire.

NEW YORK, April 10.—George Ketcham, owner of the world's champion trotter Cresceus, 2:07¼, announces that it is probable that the horse will never race again. If Mr. Ketcham does conclude to send the champion another trial, he says, it will be for the purpose of breaking the world's record to high wheel sulky, 2:08¼, held by Sunol.

There is one other exhibition Cresceus may give, and then he will be retired permanently to the stud," said Mr. Ketcham. "I am going to Europe in the fall and will take the horse with me. I may arrange for a big exhibition in London for the benefit of some charity. That will be the last time the champion will ever be exhibited."

Friday's Bowling Schedule.

Catholic League—Lintons vs. Ringers on World's Fair alleys; Oxfords vs. Calderons on Cave alleys.

Thursday the "Druggists" had the boards and three matches were rolled in the pill mixers' league.

The Meyer Brothers team won the odd game in a match with the J. S. Merrells on the Crescent alleys. The teams alternated in winning to the last essay, when the Meyer Brothers romped home.

In a close match between the Eli Lillys and the Moffit-Wests the former five won the odd game with a 854-5 team average. Schneider's 864-5 for the losers was high-water mark.

The Searle and Heriths of the Druggists' organization saved themselves a shut out at the hands of the Mound City Paints by capturing the last game of the match. The others were easy for the enemy, a 871-2-5 team average turning the trick. Klipbel rolled 58 for the five games and Enderle 57 4-5.

TURF TALK.

The delightful weather yesterday attracted a large crowd to Kinloch to inspect the horses and watch the workouts.

Among the thoroughbreds that showed useful work at Kinloch yesterday were Apple Bloom, Henry McDaniel, Malster, Prince Richard, Bounteous, Herod, Has du Gescheh, Ben Hullam and Albert F. Dewey. Among the fast moves was a quarter in :24¾, a half in :51 and five furlongs in 1:04.

Thursday "Umbrella Bill" McGuigan arrived at the county course from Little Rock. He had ten horses in his charge and all of them were juveniles save one. The 2-year-olds are a promising lot. Ascot a gelding by Mirthful and Massetto, is a racy looking individual, as is Jollier, bred by Plaudit-Patrimony (dam of Patron). These two youngsters will carry the McGuigan colors in the Woodlands and they should have a spirited contest with Vastel's Arkansas Pass.

The stable of Crowley and Lemp appeared on the scene yesterday. The horses have been wintering at Dr. Crowley's farm. They all looked well save Lasso, which was carted to the track in a van. The others were walked over.

J. E. Basquill was another of the new arrivals. He brought two clever 3-year-olds with him. Cassin Rose and Dr. Kammerer, U. Z. DeArman spent enough time at the track to give his Inaugural candidate, Benson Caldwell, a stiff gallop.

Frank Bell, the noted sprinter, was given a little exercise. The noted sprinter is high in flesh and needs a lot of work before he will be ready to flash first past the judicfaries.

Harry Robinson, who owns Death and a number of other good campaigners, does not think that he will start Death in the Inaugural, as he does not think that he can get the old horse ready in time.

The Memphis Jockey Club announces a special match between Claude, 118 (Bullman); Witful, 110 (Coburn), and Wonderline, 110 (Wonderly), to be run next Tuesday at Montgomery Park. The distance will be one mile and a furlong, and the club hangs up $1000 for the event.

Turner Bros.' stables were shipped from Nashville Thursday and are expected to arrive at Kinloch Saturday. Among the prominent thoroughbreds in the string are: Glenwater, who has been especially trained for the Inaugural; Maud Gonne, and the 2-year-olds, Capt. Swift, Woods Perry, Yenom, St. Ermin, Johan and True Girl.

S. E. Parmer & Co. are also shippers from Nashville to Kinloch. In the stables of Parmer are Chamles, an American Derby candidate, and Dubious, a 4-year-old carded to start in a special event at Kinloch.

Excuse me, Craymer, I must go to Boehmer for my Easter shoes.

HAUGHTON BOOKS ANOTHER BOUT

Following the Kelly-Schreck contest at the West End Club next Thursday, Hughey McPadden and Brooklyn Tommy Sullivan will appear at Haughton's fistic hall of fame.

The date for the bout has not been set, as articles have not been signed, but Mr. Haughton announces that it will take place before the end of the month, probably two weeks from next Thursday night.

Ed Smith, McPadden's manager, telegraphed from Chicago Friday that he was willing to sign at once.

Sullivan and McPadden met before the West End Club about three months ago and the fight came to a very unsatisfactory ending in the eighth round. Sullivan's nose was nearly broken by McPadden. Sullivan claimed that McPadden butted him. The fight up to that time had been fast and nearly even, but Sullivan was forced to quit.

McPadden has fought some good men in St. Louis, and both boys are favorites here. Sullivan is in training all the time.

Hugo Kelly will arrive Monday from Chicago for his battle with Mike Schreck. Syracuse Tommy Ryan will be in St. Louis for the bout, and will arrive early next week to train Kelly. Schreck is working at the Shamrock Gymnasium in Chicago with Jack Root, who is in training for his fight with McCoy.

BIG PURSES FOR CALIFORNIA

SAN FRANCISCO, April 10.—While no official announcemnt has been made, it is an open secret, says the Chronicle, that the new California Jockey Club will make a bid for permanent stables next season by offering increased purses and stakes. The matter has been thoroughly discussed by the director of the association and there is a strong feeling that in order to get first-class horses from various racing centers it will be necessary to offer several substantial over-night purses and handicaps. It is not unlikely that there will be several $5000 purses every day and a $600, $700 and $1000 handicap every week. New and valuable stakes are also to be added to the present list.

PIONEERS WIN AT BASEBALL

The Pioneers, a girls' basket ball team composed of members of the High School alumni, defeated the Atlantas Thursday afternoon at Louisiana Hall, score 10-8. The Atlantas have played for sevral seasons during which time they have defeated university and college teams.

In the second half the long training of the Atlantas came into play when the Pioneer guards relaxed for an instant, Miss Garesche at once threw a field goal, the only one made by her team during the game.

Miss Grace Craig, captain of the Pioneers, scored eight of the points made by her team. She threw two field goals and four free ones. Miss Frances Cunningham made the remaining two points with a field throw.

DEATH FOLLOWS BASEBALL GAME

C. B. C. Player Believed to Have Overexerted Himself Against the Browns.

Excitement and exertion in a baseball game at Sportsman's Park last Tuesday is believed to have hastened the death of John F. Bennett, first baseman of the Christian Brothers' College team.

Tuesday Bennett played in an exhibition game against the Browns, and the following day he died att he college from heart trouble. He was seized with a fainting spell in the classroom and died shortly afterward.

Members of the Browns who played against Bennett Thursday expressed regret that he had been allowed to participate in the game and for his untimely death.

"I noticed that something was the matter with him that day," said Billy Reidy, who umpired the game. "The other players kept yelling to him to 'wake up,' and he would brighten up for a moment, but later would appear not to pay much attention tot he game."

Bennett lived at Sullivan, Mo., and his body was shipped there Thursday for burial.

BASEBALL GOSSIP

Secretary Hedges was feeling good Friday morning. He has been notified that the American League grounds in New York will not be lost. The new park is located in Washington Heights and Thursday the town board voted down the measure to cut streets through the park. The measure was introduced with the sole purpose of spoiling the grounds.

Perhaps Jack Taylor will be tame at League Park on opening day. At Omaha Wednesday Taylor pitched a 10-inning game, in which he allowed only two hits, but nevertheless Omaha won the game.

Connie Mack's champion Athletics are not cutting so much of a swath this season. The Quakers defeated them again at Philadelphia Thursday in a 10-inning game.

Pete Husting, the Athletic pitcher of last season, and a companion of Reidy on the Milwaukee team two years ago, has quit baseball and is practicing law in Wisconsin. The St. Louis American League Club had a claim on him last season, but did not enforce it.

Johnny Farrell has not returned from Kansas City, and if he is not here Saturday Jimmy Burke will play second base for the Cardinals.

Cincinnati claims the pennant in the National League. The Reds were defeated 8 to 4 by Atlanta the other day. The Southern League includes some fast teams, and as Little Rock claims the pennant, the defeat of the Cardinals at the Arkansas capital is excusable.

ROWDY BALL MUST GO.

Pulliam Joins Johnson in Saying He Will Suppress Loud Ball Players.

NEW YORK, April 10.—In a few days President Pulliam of the National League will send out to managers and umpires his instructions regarding what steps shall be taken to maintain deportment on the ball field. So far the new chief executive has acquitted himself exceedingly well and thinks there will no fault to find on the score of kicking this season. "There will be no rowdyism," he said today. "Any player who attempts it will eliminate himself—will efface himself, as it were. His outbreak will be a flash in the pan. The umpire will take care of him and I will take care of him later, if need be. I am not looking for any such thing by the players. If there is rowdyism it will not be the fault of the umpires or players, but my fault. I intend to have clean ball, and to carry out the intention and to enforce my authority will be a test of my executive ability."

SPORTSMAN'S PARK FOR THIRD GAME

Secretary Hedges Concludes Not to Take Chances on Enemy's Ground.

Weather permitting, the third game of the Brown-Cardinal series will be played Saturday at Sportsman's Park. Secretary Robeft Lee Hedges of the Brown club, returned Thursday from Cincinnati and settled the park question. He thinks he can handle the Saturday crowd at the Grand avenue park. The Sunday game will, of course, be played at League Park.

The chances are that Mr. Hedges and Mr. Frank de Hass Robison will view both games from the same box. The Cardinal president is expected in St. Louis Friday.

As yet Donovan and McAleer have made no positive announcement of pitchers. It seems to be the general opinion that Powell and Donohue will work for the Browns and such probably will be the case, but that program is subject to change. Siever is willing to take another crack at the Donovanites and Sudhoff might go in if either day is chilly.

Brown and Rhoades are being picked as the Cardinal selections, but there is a possibility of a change here also.

"I don't know that I will pitch both of them," said the wise Mr. Donovan, Thursday. "I think it will have to spring a new one on the Browns."

Who this "new" one is, the manager did not say, but it is reasonable to believe that it may be Southpaw War Sanders, the boy from East Tennessee. Either Sanders or Charley McFarlan.

McFarlan is a cool-headed fellow, who ought to worry the Brown hitters. It takes a good umpire to give McFarlan full credit for when in form he displays control that enables him to "work the corners." In other words, he lays them across one corner of the plate and an umpire must have a sharp eye to distinguish between strikes and ball with such a pitcher in the box. That sort of pitching fools a batter and when a strike is called on him, he feels that he has a kick coming.

McAleer wants to see McFarlan work for he tried to sign the Cedar Rapids recruit last fall. He would take him now if Donovan would release McFarlan to him. Sanders is a curve artist and throws balls of varying speed. Donovan likes his work.

So far from pitching amateurs against the Cardinals, McAleer is sending in his best twirlers—he has only five and they are all good—but none of these same are taking chances with their arms. Jack Powell indignantly denies that he is overweight.

"I never was a small man," quoth John, "and when I am bundled up in a sweater I may look big, but I strip at the right weight."

Powell probably will be McAleer's selection for Saturday with Sugden to receive him. Frank Donahue will face the Cardinals and the Sunday crowd, but with Mike Kahoe behind the bat instead of his brother. Tom is yet unsteady and before such a gathering would hardly play his best game.

The series of afternoon receptions at Sportsman's Park ended Thursday afternoon with the High School game. It was the third shut-out for the American Leaguers, the victims being C. B. C., East St. Louis and the fast High School boys who absorbed much baseball knowledge from Frank Pears.

Members of the Browns expressed their opinion that High is stronger than either C. B. C. or the East Side Trolley League team. The Grand avenue youngsters certainly were not affected with stage fright and played a nice game in the field considering the hard hitting of the McAleerites.

For the first few innings the score was very respectable. Ricker, the High School star, pitched good ball and his infield supported him well. Later on, however, the boys contracted the bad habit of tossing the ball around on double steals and other unnecessary plays and then the Browns began to pile up runs.

In the sixth inning Ricker was replaced by a tall young southpaw named Ifield, a protege of Frank Pears. Ifield, in his uniform, is a "ringer" for Jack Harper as the old Cardinal pitcher appeared three or four years ago before he began to fill out. Pears thinks well of the lad who has a nice motion but rather poor control.

The Browns had their hitting habiliments girded on, and they rapped Ifield for not a few runs. The final score was 19 to 6. Up to the eighth inning the score was held down to reasonable figures, but in one round the Browns gathered eight runs.

Magnate Hedges made himself and the Browns solid with the High School rooters by throwing open the gates of the park to them. The grandstand seated about five hundred students, including a large number of the High School's fair friends, who occupied boxes.

Manager McAleer is well satisfied that his team is going to hit, and the week's practice in running the bases has been of great benefit. No game was scheduled for Friday at either park. Both teams are "sleeping on their arms," to use a warlike expression, but unless the arms wake up Saturday or Sunday there will be woe in one of the camps.

The Cardinals arrived from Terre Haute about 3 o'clock Thursday morning. The stay-at-homes were out on the diamond and went through a good practice in the sun. Thursday afternoon the workout was thorough. Manager Donovan believes that he can give his team better practice by keeping the men on the League Park diamond and he is, therefore, not looking for any more out-of-town exhibition games.

Bothner Lost Wrestling Match.

HARTFORD, Conn., April 10.—George Bothner, the lightweight champion wrestler of the world, failed last night to throw Oscar Johnson of this city twice within an hour, which were the conditions of the match. Bothner succeeded in putting the shoulders of the New Englander to the mat once in the allotted time, but for the remainder of the bout Johnson seemed to keep on even terms with him.

SCROFULA A DISEASE WE INHERIT

Scrofula manifests itself in many ways. Swelling of the glands of the neck and throat, Catarrh, weak eyes, white swelling, offensive sores and abscesses, skin eruptions, loss of strength and weakness in muscles and joints.

It is a miserable disease and traceable in almost every instance to some family blood taint. Scrofula is bred in the bone, is transmitted from parent to child, the seeds are planted in infancy and unless the blood is purged and purified and every atom of the taint removed Scrofula is sure to develop at some period in your life.

Scrofula appeared on the head of my little grandchild when only 18 months old, and spread rapidly over her body. The disease next attacked the eyes and we feared she would lose her sight. Eminent physicians were consulted, but could do nothing to relieve the little one's distress. It was then that we decided to try S. S. S. That medicine at once made a speedy and complete cure. She is now a young lady, and has never had a sign of the disease to return.

MRS. RUTH BERRY,
150 South 5th Street. Salina, Kan.

No remedy equals S. S. S. as a cure for Scrofula. It cleanses and builds up the deteriorated blood, makes it rich and pure and under the tonic effects of this great Blood Remedy, the general health improves, the digestive organs are strengthened, and there is a gradual but sure return to health. The deposit of tubercular matter in the joints and glands is carried off as soon as the blood is restored to a normal condition, and the sores, eruptions, and other symptoms of Scrofula disappear.

S. S. S. is guaranteed purely vegetable and harmless; an ideal blood purifier and tonic that removes all blood taint and builds up weak constitutions.

Our physicians will advise without charge, all who write us about their case. Book mailed free.

GOVERNMENT OWES 34 CENTS BUT IT MUST PAY $100,000

POST-DISPATCH BUREAU,
1345 Pennsylvania Avenue.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—Since the adjournment of Congress, the officials in the treasury department have been looking up the South Carolina claim which Senator Tillman forced Congress to settle by methods which Representative Cannon saw fit to designate as legislative blackmail.

The treasury officials say that Mr. Tillman, by holding up the spectre of an extra session, made Congress pay his state nearly $100,000, when the just debt was exactly 34 cents.

This was the report of the department before Mr. Tillman threatened to consume the closing hours by reading Byron's poems to his colleagues and a revision of the figures has verified the former report.

Instead of owing South Carolina $47,275.77, with interest accrued at 6 per cent., the government was indebted to the Palmetto state the paltry sum of just 34 cents.

State's Original Advance $77,000.

The trouble began in 1812, when the United States became involved in war with Great Britian. South Carolina had a full treasury, and it loaned money to the general government for the arming and fitting out of troops just as did various states at the beginning of the Spanish-American war. South Carolina, advanced $77,000 and, as years rolled on, the interest on this loan piled up at an amazing rate.

At one time the treasury officials admitted that the government owed the state nearly half a million dollars. In 1836, there was another financial transaction between the general government and the state which Mr. Tillman represents in the Senate.

The government was building up an Indian fund by purchasing interests bearing bonds. South Carolina had some gilt-edged securities which paid 6 per cent interest and the authorities at Washington had sufficient confidence in the financial integrity of the state to buy $125,000 worth of them as an Indian fund investment.

The state met its interest obligations promptly until 1860 and then it defaulted. No more interest money came to the Indian fund from South Carolina until 1867 when the state resumed its obligations and met them for four years. Then it lapsed in its payments again and, since that time, nothing has been done to repair its credit with the government.

Began to Press Claim in 1832.

As early as 1832, the state began to press its war claim and the government made numerous payments. There were various acts of Congress on the matter and, after the expert accountants and the statesmen had finished with it temporarily in 1896, the United States owed to South Carolina $368,687.84, while South Carolina owed the United States on account of the defaulted bonds and the accrued interest $368,687.50. Thus, there was a difference in favor of the state of 34 cents.

In conversation with Comptroller Tracewell Mr. Tillman admitted the correctness of this computation which was in accordance with several acts passed by congress relative to the manner in which the government's indebtedness to the various states should be computed, but he declared that the laws passed by congress on the subject were bad laws and that, therefore, he would not recognize them. He announced to the treasury officials that he would collect the money he said would have been due, had not these acts been passed, if he had to use a club to do it and he kept his word.

THE CONQUEST OF ELIZABETH

Five of Her Fairest Maidens Captured by Mexican Soldiers.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ELIZABETH, N. J., April 10.—The youths of this town are aroused over what they call a forelorn conquest. All the fair young flowers of the city are being gathered into a hymeneal bouquet by a corps of Mexican cadets, who descended upon Elizabeth two years ago for the purpose of supervising the construction of two Mexican gunboats at the Crescent Shipyards. Within a few weeks five of these swarthy young bloods belonging to the first families of the Gulf Republic have led to the altar a quintet of as bright blossoms as the Jersey soil yields.

But that is not all, for as many more of the cadets have wooed and won another quintet of Elizabeth maidens, who are now stitching day and night on their trousseaus.

When the Mexicans bore down upon Elizabeth the staid villagers looked askance at their flashing eyes and their fierce little mustachios. The young men of the town who have wooed and won in their own easy-going manner, curled their lips scornfully and indulged in sallies of contemptuous wit.

When the Mexicans came they hired a large house on South Broad street and began to cut a dash after the Latin fashion. They are wore bright uniforms and carried themselves with military dignity. In summer they changed to white duck, always fresh and crisp. They are all good musicians and have fine, rich voices, which they used to splendid advantage on the long summer evenings. Soon they began to entertain, and as they rapidly became acquainted their little entertainments became festal occasions, invitations to which were greatly prized, especially by the younger feminine branch of the community.

The first member of this gallant Mexican corps to seek a bride was Sig. William Acosta, whose father is a member of President Diaz's cabinet. He had hardly been entrenched in his new quarters when he laid siege to the heart of Miss Margaret Hinty, a fair-haired miss with big blue eyes of the kind rarely seen in tropical climes. When he entered the field many of the local swains were urging their suit in their lackadaisical fashion. There was none of the blase wooer in this cadet. His heart sounded the charge, the home defenders fell like reeds before his attack, and now Miss Hinty is Signora Acosta.

Lieut. Charles Pialto, a broad-shouldered young giant, after a brief but aggressive courtship, was united to Miss Alice Bettle by the Rev. E. T. Tomlinson of the Central Baptist church.

Lieut. Pialto had hardly started on his honeymoon when the day was announced for the wedding of Oscar Arenas, a civil engineer, and Miss Besrie Morris.

By this time the town began to sit up and stare. Where was it going to end? It was not long before it was realized that it had only begun, for the next surprise for Mrs. Grundy was the announcement of the engagement of Engineer Manuel Esquedero, son of the Mexican secretary of war, to Miss Mabel Dean, whose beauty had long been acknowledged by the native gallants. No long engagements for your Mexican youth, and now Miss Dean is a stately young matron preparing for a trip to Mexico to visit her husband's parents.

Elizabeth gave up pondering on where it all would end and resigned itself to speculating on how long it would be before the last of the dozen cadets had led one of her fairest daughters to the altar. This week Miss Bessie Bauman, not yet out of her teens, was made the blushing bride of Magiel Avila, who has just attained his majority. The ceremonies were performed by the Rev. H. H. Oberly in Christ Episcopal Church.

Coincident with this last marriage came the announcement of the engagement of Miss Lillian Ziegler to the youngest cadet in the corps. It is also said that in a few weeks the public will learn of the engagement of three more of the Mexicans. All the weddings will take place before the sailing of the gunboats.

POOL NOTES.

Victor Lathrop of Chicago and Patrick H. Walsh, the New York pool expert, will play a two-night continuous pool match next week at Chris Von der Ahe's billiard rooms, St. Louis and Grand avenues.

The match will be a 200-point affair, 100 points being played Monday night and the remainder Tuesday night. The men will play for a purse of $50.

In the match at the Empire between Champion Eby and Kid Hueston a close finish is expected. Eby has been running away from Hueston, but Thursday night the redoubtable "Kid" won the fifth block by a score of 141 to 102. Eby now has a total of 502 against Hueston's 466.

KENTUCKY BOOMS WORLD'S FAIR

Plan to Send a Teacher From Every County in the State.

VOTING CONTEST ALL OVER BLUE GRASS STATE

By This Means Not Only Will the Fair Be Advertised, but Money Will Be Raised to Help Build Kentucky Building.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 10.—Details of a plan whereby the most popular school teacher in every county in the state will be given a free trip to the World's Fair in St. Louis are being arranged by the Kentucky Exhibit Association, under whose auspices the contest in each county to determine the most popular, will be conducted. The plan has already been brought to the attention of every city and county school superintendent in the state and a majority of them, in fact all that have written the association on the subject, have given it their unqualified enlorsement.

The most popular teacher in every county is to be so declared by receiving a majority of the votes cast by the children and public generally in the contest. Votes will be 10 cents each, 10 constituting a ballot. Every dollar sent to the association, over and above the expenses of the 120 teachers on their trips to the Exposition, will go into the erection of the Kentucky building at the Fair.

Those voting will have the double satisfaction of knowing that they have aided a worthy cause at the same time they helped send a popular educator to the Exposition. Each county will elect its own most popular teacher. This would make a list of only 119. To stimulate interest, however, the association has decided to allow the county—Jefferson excepted—which casts the lrgest number of votes in the contest to send two teachers at its expense to the Fair—the most popular person receiving the second highest vote in that county.

Every educator in the state, excepting members of the committee on education exhibits of the association, which will count the votes, will be eligible to election, whether teacher in public or private schools, or member of faculty of academy, college or university, medical, dental or theological institution, Protestant or Catholic denominational school.

Blank ballots will be printed in the different papers of the state to be clipped and filed out by those wishing to cast votes. The association wants to enroll in the Kentucky building at the Fair the name of every school child that casts one or more votes.

TOWN BOARD IN DEADLOCK

Tied in Politics, Members Cannot Agree on a Successor to Supervisor Phayer.

The board of auditors of Venice township, Madison County, Ill., is in a deadlock over the selection of a supervisor to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Supervisor Charles Phayer.

The board is tied in politics and is also tied upon the selection of a man to fill the place. So badly is the board tied on all propositions that it was only after repeated conferences that a time and place for the meeting to select the man to fill the vacancy could be agreed upon.

The settling of this tie has special importance, because of the fact that the County Board of Supervisors is at present a tie and the selection of the man to fill this vacancy will decide the political complexion of the board.

The Republicans on the Township Board of Auditors are J. H. Willis of Granite City, clerk, and John Fechte of Venice, a justice of the peace. The Democrats are Justices of the Peace J. A. Ulsser of Venice and F. F. Kragenbring of Granite City.

The Republicans are resting rather the easier, and, if the Board of Auditors does not make a selection the next appeal is to County Clerk Edward Fuetz of Edwardsville, a Republican.

THEY SWAPPED WITH DUMMIES.

Really a Sorrowful Story of Two Vaudeville Artists.

From the Brooklyn Eagle.

Ward and Curran, who played "The Terrible Judge" at Hyde & Behman's recently, used to employ supers to sit as jurymen, but the difficulty of obtaining suitably dressed and intellectual looking men at 25 cents a performance prompted them to have 12 dummies made. These consist of wire frames with wax heads. They are clothed only in Prince Albert coats, the absence of lower limbs being concealed by the railing of the jury box. To avoid carrying unnecessary baggage Ward and Curran hire these coats in each town where they play.

With Acting Manager Archie H. Ellis as their guarantor the actors had no trouble in hiring 12 fine coats fro ma Brooklyn clothier. So far so good. But one night it happened that several of the stage hands were going to a ball after the performance, and a desire to look as swell as possible tempted them to swap coats with the dummies. Then it happened that somebody started a ruction a he ball and he stage hands mixed in to the extent of several cocktails, a fewlapels, to say nothing of dust and dirt ground into the coats of those who were wapsed about the floor.

The appearance of the jury at the next performance in a medley of soiled frocks, sacks and cutaways and the necessity of making good to the local clothier convinced Ward and Curran that it is about as cheap to buy as to borrow.

KASKASKIA'S DEAD ARE DRIFTING TO THE GULF

The Mississippi, Not Content With Engulfing the Town, Has Despoiled the Graves of the Pioneers and Their Bones Are Tossing on the Rush Waingters.

The last three of Kaskaskia's ancient estate of glory has been swept away. During the recent floods the river encroached upon the old cemetery and utterly erased it. Not content with raging over the ground, the current despoiled the graves, and with its swirling strength dislodged the bones of the occupants For many days these latter could be seen, tossed upon the surface of the turbid waters.

It was the pioneers of Kaskaskia whose iest was thus disturbed by the greedy Mississippi. Relatives of many of them refused to have their dead disturbed when the new cemetery was laid out some years ago by the authorities of the new town of Kaskaskia. They thought that the pioneers would raher rest in the old spot.

In the old days the cemetery was several miles back from the river, with the town intervening between it and the banks. The town was first attacked by the insatiable waters and it has gradually been carried away piecemeal. The people who allowed their dead to remain in the cemetery when the new one was opened at Garrison Hill, on the mainland, did not suppose that it was possible that it would be ever engulfed. The river has now wiped out every vestige of the old Kaskaskia, and the cemetery as well, and the bones of the pioneers are drifting to the gulf.

ROADS ARE BAD BECAUSE STATUTES ARE VIOLATED

Madison County Expert Says the Farmers Work Their Crops When the Law Says They Should Work the Roads.

Poor roads in Illinois are charged by C. W. Fangenroth of Edwardsville, an expert in that line, to violations of the statutes by highway commissioners. Mr. Fagenroth is interested in getting the country highways on the east side in good condition before the opening of the World's Fair.

Mr. Fangenroth is proprietor of Maple Hill, one of the largest farms in Madison County, and much of his 72 years has been spent in studying roads, both locally and in the countries of Europe.

He appeared before the Edwardsville Commercial Club and declared that the bad condition of country roads was due to working the roads at the wrong time. The law provides that they shall be worked before Aug. 15. The proper time, he says, is in the spring, which allows months for the newly made road to harden against the winter rains.

In the spring, however, comes the busiest time for the farmer, and he does not like to take his teams from the farm labor for highway work, and the latter is consequently done in the fall, leaving the highways soft and the approach of winter transforms them to bottomless mud.

He urged that the club take steps to enforce the road laws in Madison County, and a resolution was passed indorsing his stand. Another practice which is to be discountenanced is personal work by the commissioners or their men, which is forbidden by law.

The club elected the following officers for the year: James L. Tartt, president; T. J. Long, vice-president; Dr. Elmer H. Schwarz, secretary; C. W. Terry, treasurer; T. A. Desmond, W. H. Morgan and C. E. Gillespie, directors.

CLEVELAND'S CHILDREN DRESS AS DO THE POOR

They rake hay.
And they fish.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PRINCETON, April 10.—The children of Grover Cleveland play and romp in the streets the same as other Princeton children.

Mrs. Cleveland clothes her children in the very simplest fashion. For them there are no picture hats, no beruffled frocks or lace trimmed coats. The Princeton mother of humble fortune need feel no pang of envy for her own small children when she sees the Cleveland children pass her door. The picturesque in children's attire, which few American women have been able to resist in these last few years, has been altogether avoided by the Clevelands, and their little ones go about in sturdy, well wearing garments of wool and cotton.

Even these simple fabrics have not been sumbitted to that superior skill in making which so successfully distinguishes the vaunted "plain" clothes of many children of fashionable parents from the garments of less fortunate little ones.

The Cleveland children so far as their clothes are concerned, might belong to the household of any respectable mechanic. Their plain woolen frocks, comfortable coats, with sailor collars, all very much alike, and round sailor hats, wide brimmed to shade the eyes, light weights so as not to tire the head, and untrimmed save for a narrow band of ribbon, are within the reach of the humblest purse.

Equally unostentatious are all the accessories and conditions of their lives. They have a nursery governess and a nurse to care for them, it is true, but they often walk unattended, and neither of these members of the household wears any sign of livery when seen in public.

Two Go to a Private School.

Unlike the Roosevelt children, when at their country home the small Clevelands do not attend the public school at Princeton. The two older girls, Ruth and Esther, go to a little private school which is kept in a humble frame house by the sister of one of the university professors. No doubt the teaching in this small private school is of the best, but its equipment is of the simplest.

The building, a low green house, situated at the corner of two tree-lined streets, has not been remodeled since the days when it served as a private house, and the little Clevelands trudge daily up narrow, winding, wooden stairs to their classrooms, hang their hats on what was meant for the pantry, and learn their lessons in what was once the best bedroom of the little cottage.

Many of the well known families who have followed the Cleveland family to the town, however, send their children to this school, and as their schoolmates, as well as their playmates outside the school the Cleveland children have as friends Sara Morgan, the daughter of Junius Morgan, one of Princeton's men of millions, and a nephew of J. Pierpont Morgan; the Armour children and the Van Dycks. The children of Prof. Fine, one of the university faculty, are also among their companions.

The two younger children, Marion, and the boy baby, Richard Folsom Cleveland, who is now about 5 years old, do not go to school. They learn their lessons at home with the nursery governess, although Richard Folsom is not being pushed along the paths of learning, and his lessons just at present consist principally of learning to rake hay upon the lawn with his father, or learning to manage the family pony, which, not being a particularly spirited animal, is deemed not too unruly for his baby horsemanship.

"Baby Ruth," who ruled Washington society in her infancy, and who was probably the most popular child ever in Washington, has grown to be a robust girl of 12 years. She resembles her mother more than any 1893, and is the only child of a president to grow into a young woman approaching in beauty Mrs. Cleveland herself. Like her mother she has dark hair and eyes. She has also the carriage and bearing of her mother, and the resemblance is further carried out by that exposure of the brow, without either fringe of pompadour, which has always distinguished Mrs. Cleveland.

Ruth is a very well built child, neither too stout nor too slight. Her hair is perfectly straight and is drawn tightly back and tied at the top, whence it hangs down her back in straight dark locks. Ruth, like her sisters and brother, is an extremely active child. She was born Oct. 3, 1891, at 816 Madison avenue, this city. She was named after Mrs. Cleveland's grandmother and was unanimously christened "Baby Ruth" by the nation when, during President Cleveland's second term, she held her childish court in the White House.

Besides the pony and the bicycles the Cleveland children are particularly fond of outdoor sports on the Cleveland grounds, which are beautifully kept. They rake hay, plant, dig up and tend garden patches and conduct a serious game of play daily under the pleasant group of pines and maples near their house. In this and in their pony expeditions they are frequently assisted by Sara Morgan, who has a mouse-colored pony. Mrs. Cleveland and the former President himself frequently join the children on the lawn, and especially when the youngest Cleveland takes to farming may his father be seen lending a helping hand.

Esther Born in White House.

Esther Cleveland, the second of the children, is now a flaxen haired little creature of about 10 years. She was born Sept. 9, 1893, an is the only child of a president to be born in the White House. At her birth the liveliest interest was manifested among diplomatists and cabinet officers, and affairs of state were forgotten when the affair was announced. Esther is a very healthy child, resembling her father more than her mother. She is especially fond of animals, is a fearless little creature, and has, besides her one-fouth interest in the family pony, a flock of sheep of her own at the summer home in Buzzard's Bay, which she feeds from her own hands.

Marion, the third daughter, was born at Buzzard's Bay July 7, 1895. Marion is 8 years old and has darker hair than Esther, although she, too, is in type a blonde. She is a docile and affectionate child, affable and voluble with strangers and friends.

After the family had been blessed with three daughters there was great rejoicing among the Clevelands when a boy was born in 1897, at Princeton. The Princeton students straightway adopted him as their own and at once put him down as a member of a future Princeton class. If this young man should ever chance to enter another university when he is grown there would be weeping and wailing in Princeton.

Richard Is "Grover, Jr."

No royal son and heir ever met with a more hearty welcome in this world than that vouchsafed to little "Dick" Cleveland on his birth. The Princeton students dubbed him "Grover, Jr.," at once, and that he remains to this day, despite his baptismal name of Richard. The boy is a sturdy, good looking little chap. He wears Russian blouse suits of linen and has his hair cut straight across the back. Little "Dick" and his father are the best of chums, and indeed the small boy rules the household, parents, sisters and servants bowing down to do him honor.

As soon as the commencement week of the university is over Princeton begins to lose its wealthy colony. The great houses are shut up; the university staff, the students, all that distinguishes the town from an ordinary country village, vanishes. When this time comes the Clevelands, too, depart for their summer home at Buzzard's Bay. Here the children revel in even freer country joys than those afforded them in Princeton. They all go in bathing every day and they are particularly devoted to all things of the sea, following their father especially in his passion for fishing. Their existence is one long, untroubled series of good times, reaching from their beautiful old colonial home at Princeton to their other equally charming home by the ocean.

Transcaucasia grows almost every known grain in the world. The forests of the Caucasian mountain range produce saffron, madder, oak, walnut and boxwood lumber, while apples, pears and grapes grow wild in these forests to such an extent that they are exported in large quantities. The wine of Caucasia is also exported and the cotton of the country is second only to that of Egypt.

The smallest baby alive in Indiana is the child of Mr. and Mrs. John Mitchell of Camden, O. The child is now 6 weeks old and measures exactly 10½ inches from the top of its head to the tip of its tiny feet. It weighs but four ounces over a pound. The mother died, but the child is healthy and gives promise of living. Its delicate hands are not any larger than an ordinary man's thumb, and the midget could easily be placed in a sugar bowl.

With the exception of the "Empresses," built for the Canadian Pacific Railroad, there was not, until the Spanish-American war, a first-class steamer on the Northern Pacific. Now the largest steamers ever constructed in American waters, and, with one exception—the Cedric—the largest steamers ever built, have been ordered for the Pacific Ocean traffic.

Gov. Pardee has transmitted to the legislature a message from the surgeon-general of the United States public health and marine hospital service announcing that no plague has been discovered in San Francisco since Dec. 11, 1902; that searching inspections are being made daily in Chinatown, and that no infected rat has been found since Dec. 8, 1902.

An old black bear kept in a zoo at Dallas, Tex., became violent a few days ago and tried to tear itself to pieces and beat its brains against the falls and bars of its den. The animal had refused to eat for two months. Finally it jumped into the water tank and held its head under until drowned. It was a clear case of suicide. About two years ago the bear killed its cubs and devoured them. A year later it drowned its mate in the tank.

The recent explosion upon the submarine boat La Francais has revealed a new danger in this type of craft. The accident established the fact that in stormy weather oxygen gas escapes from the electric accumulators.

JOLLY PARTY RIDES UNDER CEMETERY IN BREAKNECK TRIP THROUGH MINE

UNDERGROUND TOURISTS DESCENDING IN MINE CAGE

Theodore Roosevelt missed the time of his life by not being in the underground trolley party at Belleville.

It was strenuous in the full meaning of that over-worked word.

For an hour and a half a crowd of Belleville young folks toured the depths of the Hippard mine, sitting in the bottom of dumpy little coal cars drawn by an eccentric mule.

The trip was hastily arranged with a view to something "different" in the line of amusement. They met at the home of Jesse Rowland on South Jackson street, and from there went in vehicles and on foot to the Hippard mine, a mile south of Belleville, on the Illinois Central Railroad.

It was after 8 o'clock when the party, all dressed in old clothes, reached the mine. By prearrangement the engineer was on duty and several of the mine employes were there to insure safety.

A descent was made on the miners' caps with lamps attached, and when most of the members of the party had been equipped with these, the excursionists were sent down the shaft in the mine cage in parties of six or seven until they were all at the bottom.

They trooped off down the narrow, low entry, lighted only by the flickering miners' lamps, and came to the room in which the mules, which never see the light of day, are kept.

One of these was hitched to a string of five short coal cars and Jesse Rowland, who was in charge of the expedition, shouted "All aboard!"

Mustn't Sit on Side of Box.

The young women and young men clambered over the sides of the boxes and, the roof being high at that point, seated themselves comfortably on the sides.

"Get down from there," commanded Rowland, "if you don't want to have your heads knocked off."

Nobody wished that to happen, and although the bottoms of the cars were covered with coal dust everybody sat flat.

Rowland acted as engineer and conductor. The mule had no bridle, and there were no lines, but Rowland explained as a leisurely start was made that the animal would obey "gee" and "haw" as readily as most mules obey the lines, and besides the mule knew the dark passages of the mine so well that no guidance was necessary.

The occupants could only peer over the tops of the boxes with safety. The lamps on their caps lighted up the narrow entries through which the coal box excursion proceeded.

"Is the way clear?" shouted Rowland.

Mule Had to Keep Ahead.

A shout and the mule started off down the grade. It was so steep that the only safety lay in keeping the mule going faster than the cars. Rowland yelled and lashed the mule, which was galloping madly down the passage.

The cars swayed from side to side. Frightened faces showed above the edges of the boxes before the rushing air blew out the lamps, and then there was silence except for the rolling of the boxes and the shouts of Rowland, who, with his hands on the mule's hips and his back against the first car, was using all his strength to preserve the balance of speed between the animal and the cars in the interest of both.

There was a shout from a "trapper" as the train of boxes shot through a doorway and went hustling around a sharp curve, and then the speed was gradually diminished and the train was brought to a stand to permit the mule and the passengers a chance to regain breaths.

Cemetery Just Over Their Heads.

The train joggled along for half a mile and was stopped long enough for Rowland to announce in dismal tones that Walnut Hill cemetery was directly overhead.

There were passages in every direction to be traversed and different underground scenes to be viewed, and it was an hour and a half before the party were landed back at the base of the shaft.

BELLEVILLE WILL HAVE TO BE NAILED DOWN

John Gebhard, Who Annexed a Bridge, Now Accused of Taking a Street, and There Is Anxiety About the City Hall.

Unless the Belleville police are especially vigilant, Mayor-elect Kern may not have any city to be mayor of when he takes the oath of office.

Former Alderman and Street Commissioner John Gebhard is again abroad in the city seeking what he may attach.

Gebhard seems to feel that a street commissioner acquires personal ownership in all city property when the takes the oath of office and no matter if he lose his office, he never loses the ownership.

The bridge incident was closed some itme ago when Street Commissioner Puderer and Chief of Police Yaekel, acting on orders from the City Council, visited Gebhard's premises and reclaimed parts of a substantial bridge that had spanned a small creek on South Tenth street.

After annexing the bridge, Gebhard had used it to build walks in his yard.

Mrs. Rosalie Schmidthaber is now the accuser of Gebhard. She alleges that the street in front of her residence was dug up and hauled away by Gebhard.

The charge was made before the City Council and Gebhard was there looking after his interests. He indignantly denied that he had stolen the street and invited the streets and grades committee to visit the place and judge for themselves.

He explained that he had taken some earth, but he took only two wagon loads and that was from the Illinois Central right of way and not from the City of Belleville.

The suggestion has been seriously made that the council make an appropriation to cover the costs of nailing down the City Hall.

Great Expenditure on Harbor Improvements Since 1883.

Winthrop L. Marvin in Review of Reviews.

German liberality to merchant shipping is manifest also in the expenditure, since 1888, of $125,000,000 on harbor improvements. No less than $75,000,000 of this went into the channel and docks of Hamburg alone, and the rest, instead of being wasted on creeks and goose ponds in the remote interior, was used where every dollar of it counted directly for th enhancemnet of commerec—at Bremen and other genuine ports. Germany has built dry docks for both the navy and the merchant service. Besides the great, solid masonry structures at Wilhelmshaven and elsewhere, thre wer 27 large floating steel docks in 1900. German foresight has also provided schools for the training of young seamen, and physicians to guard their health.

The German policy of maritime protectionism, while a consistent part of the general imperial policy, has, therefore, not been ratricted for shipbuilding. Indeed, the older of the great German steamship companies, has grown until recently with very little aid from direct subventions. This is only a part of the truth, however. The Hamburg-American, like the other German shipping lines, has profited by the aroused maritime ambition of the German people and the favor of the imperial government. tI was not until the enforced building of the subsidized North German Lloyd liners in German yards had developed native skill and industry that the Hamburg-American management saw its way clear to place in Germany a contrct for its first thorougthly German ocean greyhound. After the Auguste Victoria came the Furst Bismarck.

CHILDREN WHO SPAN THE SEA

LETTERS THAT HAVE PASSED ACROSS OCEAN

Younger Students in the Bowen School Are Writing to the New Americans in the Orient and the Brown Little Islanders Are Replying.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, April 10.—Chicago's school children have extended their hands across the sea in fellowship to the brown little Americans in the Philippines.

Every week the younger students in Bowen school write letters, friendly and descriptive of conditions in Chicago, to the children at Piddig, on the island of Luzon, and every week the children in the public schools at Piddig indite letters describing their beautiful mountain country to the Bowen school children.

More than fifty letters a week are sent and received by these students, who never have seen each other. They describe their schools, their customs, their teachers, their work, and their play, telling what they have been doing and what they think of things. They write letters full of history and draw pen pictures of conditions, so that each school gives the other a glimpse of life of which otherwise they would know nothing.

The teachers of the Bowen school, who read the letters that are sent and those that are received, admit that, while their pupils are further advanced, write better, and use better English, they might learn many things from the new Americans.

Idea of a Chicago Boy.

The story of the correspondence and its beginning starts with the enlistment of Louis C. Morgan of South Chicago in the United States army. Morgan was a student in Bowen school, which is at Ninety-third street and Houston avenue in South Chicago, and, his teachers said, a bright student. He lived, and his mother still lives, at 170 Ninety-second street.

Morgan enlisted from Chicago, and, after serving seven months in the Philippines, was mustered out. He did not return to the United States, but took the examination and secured an appointment as a teacher, being assigned to the Piddig school. He opened the school with 50 children in attendance, using a nipa shack as a schoolhouse. He taught the children as well as those of the men and women who desired to learn English.

The school grew, and young Morgan, securing natives as his assistants, became the principal. There are now eight grades and the students are quartered in a good school building.

Mr. Morgan, in referring to the picture that is printed herewith, says the natives standing beside him are his assistants and that the one on his immediate right is his godson.

Six months ago Mr. Morgan wrote a letter to Principal Charles J. Parker of Bowen School, suggesting that Mr. Parker select some of the students in his school and have them write letters regularly to the brown Americans at Piddig. Principal Parker took up the matter and placed it before the school, explaining the purpose of the plan.

Students Liked the Idea.

The students entered into the spirit of the scheme, and within a few days dozens of letters had started across the Pacific, addressed to children whose names seemed strange to the Chicago youngsters.

American ships and American letter carriers delivered the letters to the Filipino children in the nipa huts at Piddig, and those brown, earnest little students at once "took their pens in hands" and wrote long letters to the Chicagoans.

The correspondence has been going on ever since, and, the teachers say the letters from both schools have improved greatly in that time. They have aroused the interest of the Chicago students in the history of Spain and her former possessions and have kept them studying United States history in order that they might be able to enlighten their correspondents.

There have been no romances arising from the correspondence so far. As one of the students at Bowen School remarked yesterday:

"From the name of the person I am writing to I don't know whether it is a boy or a girl."

Mr. Morgan will leave for the United States on May 8 on three months' leave of absence to study educational methods here. He will spend the summer in Chicago.

FILARIA IS A NEW DISEASE.

From the New York Press.

Capt. Charles Kieffer, a United States army surgeon, says the Philippines are infested with mosquitoes more troublesome and dangerous from a medical point of view than those that swarm in the Jersey swamps. A strange malady known as filaria is traced directly to them, and is common among the American soldiers quartered on the islands. Soldiers contract the disease by drinking water from stagnant pools in which the mosquitoes have laid their eggs.

The first indication of filaria appears in the form of a worm in the victim's thorax. This develops into elephantiasis, which causes the patient terrible pains, accompanied by a constant cough. The suffering is worst at night, and the patient becomes a prey to insomnia.

The only remedy lies in an operation which is itself is dangerous and rarely successful. If the worm, which is a female, is injured and dies through the operation its poison gets into the blood, the disease is increased a thousand fold and the chances of recovery are small.

The fines and forfeitures imposed upon and collected from the enlisted men of the army were vastly increased during the year subsequent to the abolishment of the canteen.

SWIFT'S SUICIDE IS UNEXPLAINED

Roswell B. Swift, president of the Cahill-Swift Manufacturing Co., and son of Col. William H. Swift, well-known contractor and politician, committed suicide Thursday afternoon, as told in late editions of the Post-Dispatch.

In the doorway of P. J. Carmody's saloon, 213 North Eighth street, Swift shot himself through the right temple. It is believed he took poison before or after he fired the shot.

No motive for the suicide has been made public. Swift had been drinking heavily.

P. J. Carmody was the first person at the side of the dying man. The door to Carmody's office was open, and when he heard the report of the revolver Carmody turned around and saw Swift on the floor. Carmody summoned a physician, but Swift was dead before he arrived.

The body was sent to the morgue and thence to the home at 3409 Magnolia avenue.

Mrs. Swift was notified of the tragedy, but at first she insisted that some one had shot her husband.

Roswell B. Swift was 36 years old. His father, Col. William H. Swift, president of the Fruin-Bambrick Construction Co., has been closely identified with politics, and the son took a less active interest in political affairs.

Lewis was not at home and Hencken said he would come again Friday.

"THE" ALLEN OFF FOR HOLY LAND

MAY NOT LIVE TO SEE HOME AGAIN

NEW YORK, April 9.—With his face to the rising sun and the admitted knowledge that his life is close to its setting, "The" Allen, exploited for a generation as the wickedest man in New York," has sailed for Europe, with the intention of making a tour of Egypt and Palestine. True to his character, he departed with a view of a hopeful future and a determination to return to New York and renew his life-long battle with the police. But those who know the old man's physical condition do not believe he will live to carry out his intent, despite his wonderful will power, for he is broken and old and his mental as well as his bodily strength is gone.

"The" Allen is one of the picturesque characters of old New York. He is past 71 and has been in conflict with the law for a half century. He admits to 71 arrests—one for each year of his life—but boasts it has not been possible to convict him even once. When John McCullagh was chief of police he spoke of "The" Allen as a "stone wall." It was impossible to obtain legal evidence sufficient to convince a trial jury of his guilt. The 71 arrests resulted in six indictments for keeping a poolroom and for bookmaking, but that was all.

His early life was amid what now would be called "strenuous" scenes. He began as an attendant for Bill Poole, the famous pugilist, and from that became a waiter in a Fulton street saloon. The life was too tame, and he entered the more vociferous calling of a truckman. With the firing on Fort Sumter he enlisted in the Union army and served as a brave and faithful soldier until the surrender of Lee at Appomattox, thirty-eight years ago.

After the civil war he started the St. Bernard Hoel at Mercer and Spring streets and it became the rendezvous of the most famous criminals in America. In 1897 he opened the Mobile, at No. 89 Bleecker street—a dance hall and saloon.

The blackest part of Allen's career was made when he was proprietor of this place. He shot and killed Eddie Malloy, his "private detective," but a coroner's jury said it was an accident, and he was freed. From that time on he engaged in pool selling and other forms of gambling, and his audacity and defiance gained for him the "wickedest man" title.

Up to his 60th year "The" Allen was a bunch of nerve and muscle—absolutely fearless and possessed of a certain shrewdness that kept the police away from him, no matter how bold his violations of law.

When he went away yesterday he repeated what he had said half a dozen years ago, when he was asked why he was called "the wickedest man in New York."

"Wicked?" he said. "No, I'm not wicked. I've made mistakes. When I was a boy I drifted along until I came to the parting of the ways. Three roads there, you know. It was a 2 to 1 shot. I took the wrong one. But when I found it was the wrong one I didn't turn back. I kept on. I fought. It's the old American way, and I'll keep right on the same road till I meet St. Peter at the gate."

GAME FLOCKS TO PRESIDENT'S CAMP

GUARDS LION SHOOTING PLANS AS CLOSE SECRET

If He Hunts the Tawny Creatures in Yellowstone Park Only Party Will Know Until the Chase Is Ended.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CINNABAR, Mont., April 10.—If President Roosevelt hunts lions in Yellowstone Park, which is probable, none but the members of his little exploring party will know anything about it until after the shooting is over.

The President's experience in the Mississippi swamps, where he didn't kill a bear after much preparation for the slaughter, has made him averse to hunting in the limelight of publicity. He will hereafter hunt in secret. If he gets any game, the press will be given full details. If he fails in his quest, nothing will be said to embarrass his reputation as a Nimrod.

The President may hunt lions in the park without violating the law. Several lions have been treed within the past two or three days by scouts connected with the military post. These animals, being predatory, do not come within the restrictions placed upon hunters, and may be shot wherever found.

The army officers at the fort have a pack of hounds trained to scenting these animals, and one of the scouts was out Tuesday with them. A handsome lion was treed, but was not disturbed.

The lions of the Yellowstone are not ferocious. Indeed, they will flee from the approach of a man, whom they will not attack without provocation.

The President's hunting instinct, according to one of the army officers at the post, will probably result in at attempt being made by him to locate one of these animals to obtain the hide as a trophy.

The scouts report that they are beginning to come out of their holes, but, under the regulations, these animals cannot be molested unless they begin an attack.

The President is at the first camp arranged for him at Blacktail Gulch. The camp is an ideal location, abounding with game so tame that the animals will hover about his camp as long as he remains there. The scene exasperates the President.

At 3:20 o'clock last night a courier was sent out from here to Blacktail Gulch with dispatches for the President. Nothing could be learned at Secretary Loeb's car as to the nature of the messages, but that they were important is attested by the sending of a courier 18 miles at night. The courier was given instructions to return immediately, and is expected to arrive this afternoon.

Secretary Loeb sent a request to Fort Yellowstone for three carbines, three revolvers and necessary ammunition. They are said to be intended for the use of the secret service men on board the presidential train, now standing on a side track at Cinnabar. The weapons were brought down by Lieut. Lesher.

DEDICATION SEATS FOR 26,000

Late Arrivals at Fair Grounds Will Not Be Likely to Hear President's Speech.

First come, first seated, will be the rule at the World's Fair grounds on dedication days. Seats will be provided for 26,000 persons, less than 10,000 more may be able to finding standing room in the liberal arts building, and the rest will not hear President Roosevelt's speech.

The rest will be open to the public, who will have to pay 25 cents to get into the grounds before 5 o'clock that day.

The parade will reach the World's Fair grounds about noon, according to the program, and the reviewing stand, past which it will march, will hold about 1400 persons, but surrounding the stands are elevations that will accommodate many persons who may wish to see the marching soldiers.

Luncheon will be served for the President's party at the Administration building immediately after the parade disbands, and the party will then go to the liberal arts [illegible] reception exercises.

BRICK REPAYS DOG'S BITE

Mrs. Bizzagresser's dog was the cause of it all. First, the Bizzagresser dog bit Philip Tiltman, and then Tiltman hit Mrs. Bizzagresser on the jaw with a brick.

Tiltman's wound is not serious, and he seems to be satisfied. Mrs. Bizzagresser has dressed her wound and says she will not prosecute. Tiltman, so the incident seems to be closed.

Tiltman went to 3827 Lee avenue to move George Gould's furniture. While he was at work Mrs. Bizzagresser's dog bit him on the thigh. He went to the drug store near by and had the wound attended to and then returned to the work. Mrs. Bizzagresser lives in the same yard that Gould was moving from, and when Tiltman came back he got into a quarrel with Mrs. Bizzagresser, and then the brick was brought into play.

CHICAGO, April 10.—The National Packing Co., recently incorporated in New Jersey, has acquired from Secretary of State Rose a license to transact business in Illinois. Its New Jersey capital was $15,000,000, while in Illinois it has a capital stock of $4,000,000. The company secured its Illinois license just before the ruling of the federal court at St. Paul yesterday was known.

What the outcome will be no lawyer professes to be able to predict, but it is assumed that the anti-merger people will have direct bearing on this proposed big merger as well as on the greater one in contemplation.

The National Packing Co. is to assume charge of and operate throughout the country all the competitive plants acquired by the packers. These are the Omaha Packing Co., the G. H. Hammond Co., the Hammond Packing Co., the Hutchinson Packing Co., the Anglo-American Packing Co., the United Dressed Beef Co., and the Fowler Packing Co.

The president of the new company is J. P. Lyman and the secretary and treasurer R. D. Standish.
